The Purge

Convulsions of China Complex, Kaleidoscopic

By David Oancia

(Copyright 1966, The Globe and Mail)

PEKING — Violence is characteristic of all revolutions and China's "current great proletarian cultural revolution" is no exception.

Yang Kuo-ching, 19-year-old epileptic executed for slashing two foreigners with a heavy butcher's knife was victim of this violence. But his death was only one facet of an incredibly complex and kaleidoscopic struggle now under way in China — a struggle Communist rulers have launched in a determined bid to ensure purity of purpose of the regime they established 17 years ago.

Vice-Premier Chen Yi describes Yang's attack on foreigners as a manifestation of the deathbed struggle of "the overthrown exploiting class elements, who consisted of a mere handful of people" unwilling to step down from the stage of history.

"The dictatorship of the proletariat in China is today incomparably powerful and consolidated," he told diplomats this week.

Warning Word

"Any counter-revolutionaries daring to engage in scheming and disruptive activities will certainly meet with annihilating blows."

In that sentence Chen seemed to warn opponents of the Communist regime to watch their step — no mercy would be shown for anyone who openly or violently plots against the system.

Through Yang's trial the rulers also sought to reassure foreigners that the Chinese do not hate them and that Yang's attempt to undermine friendship with the rest of the world failed completely.

Yang's execution, as I have said, is but one tiny facet of the convulsion that this nation of 700,000,000 is now going through.

Swift Moves

In three short weeks purges have been announced of the Peking Communist party committee branch, Peking and Nanking universities, two newspapers and a magazine published by the Peking committee, newspapers in Yunnan and Chinghai provinces, the Peking branch of the Communist Youth League, the Shanghai Conservatory of Music.

Among the prominent people swept out of some of their offices were Peng Chen, formerly first secretary of the Peking branch and once one of the six top leaders in the country. Some diplomats report being told by party leaders that no decision has yet been made on whether Peng will be ousted from his politburo post, but it appears virtually certain that his authority has been reduced.

These purges have been followed by massive demonstra-

Firms Weigh Report

UNION FAVORS NEMETZ PLAN

VANCOUVER (CP) — Union negotiators announced Friday night they will recommend acceptance of a government-approved formula to avert a shut-down of British Columbia's $1,000,000 forest industry.

The companies still were considering the formula, which they described as "expensive."

Union and employer representatives Friday were handed recommendations for settlement of their dispute—including a 40-cent-an-hour pay increase over two years—and were told by Premier Bennett he recommends it.

The premier told a gathering of about 100 he considered the recommendations of Mr. Justice Nathan Nemetz fair and just for all concerned, including the economy of the province.

'UNCONDITIONALLY'

"Therefore, I unconditionally recommend acceptance both by workers and employers and the general public."

The International Woodworkers of America (CLC), representing 27,000 workers, and Forest Industrial Relations Ltd., representing 120 employers, immediately went into separate conferences. The proposals will be discussed during the weekend at various meetings of union locals.

Company Man Shocked

'Expensive Package'

VANCOUVER (CP) — An executive of one of British Columbia forest products companies said Friday he was shocked by terms of a government-approved formula to avert an industry strike.

L. L. G. Bentley, senior vice-president of Canadian Forest Products Ltd., said in an interview the settlement is "a very expensive package."

The formula, which Premier Bennett personally urged both the companies and the coast woodworkers to accept unconditionally, called for a general 40-cent hourly wage increase in two years over the present basic of $3.36 in addition to work classification increases.

* * *

"I am certainly disturbed that the judge's (Mr. Justice Nathan Nemetz) award suggests that our industry pay wages in excess of the wages of our competitors in the U.S. northwest, which have been the highest in the world," said Mr. Bentley.

"Mr. Justice Nemetz goes beyond the U.S. settlements this year, which means we would have higher wages than our competitors.

* * *

"We are competing not only with the U.S. but with Sweden and Russia as well in world markets. Our wage level is about 2½ times the level in Scandinavia and four times as high as Russia."

He said profit margins already are very narrow and "we can very easily swing from being in the black to being in the red and this is what worries me."

Spokesmen for the other major companies in the industry declined comment. Forest Industrial Relations Ltd., which bargains for the companies, is expected to announce the companies' decision Monday.

Yukon Survivors in Good Condition

Four Dead, Eight Saved From Smouldering Mine

ELSA, Yukon (CP) — Fire still smouldered in the No Cash silver mine Friday after taking the lives of four of the 12 men trapped inside for 16 hours before they were brought to safety.

Mine officials said all eight survivors were in good condition although two or three remained in hospital.

Identification was fragmentary as survivors, rescuers and officials at the scene rested from their long ordeal. Don DeLaporte of Yellowknife, N.W.T., general manager of United Keno Hill Mines, the owners, identified the victims as:

Joseph Worobec of Elsa.

D. Jurcec of Elsa.

V. Atamanchuk, who is understood to have a sister in Edmonton.

John Vinese of Elsa.

No hometown was given for Atamanchuk.

WELL VENTILATED

The survivors, some of whom waited out the fire in a well-ventilated drift, were listed as G. Girard, W. Zochniak of nearby Keno City, S. Wade, D. Thomson, S. Pallaro, J. Hull, G. Nicloux and D. Moses.

Moses, one of the men in hospital, was in satisfactory condition. No further details were given.

Mr. DeLaporte said it would take at least a day to determine the extent of the damage caused by the fire, which broke

Watchdogs Pulling Out

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Organization of American States voted Friday night to withdraw its military Inter-American Peace Force from the Dominican Republic.

With only Mexico abstaining, the OAS voted 18 to 0 to approve a resolution withdrawing the 2,000-member force starting before July 1. The withdrawal will be completed during a 90-day period.

'We'll Wreck Station'

Radio Raiders Dare Attack

LONDON (Reuters) — Mystery raiders, who seized control of a British pirate radio station and put it off the air, threatened Friday to wreck the station if attempts are made to dislodge them.

The raiders, 10 men and a woman, boarded the Radio City station Monday night.

The unlicensed station, mounted atop a stilt-legged, Second World War fort in a part of the Thames Estuary known as Shivering Sands, normally broadcasts popular music interspersed with advertising across Britain, in defiance of laws banning commercial radio transmissions. The location is just outside the three-mile limit in British coastal waters.

THREE ASHORE

The boarding party allowed three of the station's engineers to go ashore Friday and sent with them a warning that any new boarding attempt would be met by chopping down the station's radio mast and severing a vital catwalk linking two of the fort's towers.

The raid on the station and the shotgun killing of its manager in a separate incident led to references in Parliament Thursday to anarchy and demands for immediate government action.

COURT ACTION

Radio City is one of 10 pirate stations around Britain's coasts, situated offshore to dodge laws giving the publicly-owned BBC radio broadcast monopoly and preventing commercial radio transmissions.

Dorothy Calvert, widow of Radio City's manager, Reg Calvert, who was shot and killed Tuesday, instructed her lawyers Friday to start proceedings against the raiders.

Juries On Trial

'Too Many Guilty Never Convicted'

LONDON (CP) — The jury system, a pillar of British law since the Magna Carta seven centuries ago, is coming in for increased scrutiny and debate.

Statistics show that 40 per cent of those who plead not guilty to indictable offences in Britain are acquitted.

Lord Chief Justice Lord Parker said Friday that far too many guilty men get off, largely because of the jury system.

* * *

The law, he said, is hopelessly out of date.

"I sometimes wonder how anyone gets convicted."

Three-quarters of those acquitted were guilty, he estimated in an address to the graduating class of a police academy staff course.

Greater care should be used in selecting jurymen. At one session, 15 per cent of the jurors were found to have criminal records, Lord Parker said.

It's Official: Leafs Stay

It became official Friday—Victoria Maple Leafs will remain in the Western Hockey League and open their home season on Oct. 15. Details of 1966-67 model Leafs appear on Page 14.

Dollar Demand

Postal Strike Threat

MONTREAL (CP) — William Houle, president of the Montreal local of the Canadian Association of Postal Employees (CLC), said Friday a strike may be called Dec. 1 if demands for a $2,000 a year wage increase are not met.

* * *

Houle, a key figure in last year's national postal strike, said a general increase of $1 an hour will be recommended to the national negotiation committee in Ottawa.

He said the raise would bring postal workers' salaries in line with salaries of other public employees such as policemen and firemen.

Cuban Refugee Not Guilty

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A 21-year-old Cuban refugee accused of trying to hijack a plane and divert it to Cuba was found not guilty Friday night by a federal court jury.

Big Party Showdown Over Bank Act

Sharp Putting Job on Line

Sharp

By RON COLLISTER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp will resign if he does not win the showdown with his predecessor, Walter Gordon, over revision of the Bank Act.

* * *

An air of crisis built up over the government this weekend as Mr. Sharp prepared to put his cards on the table before Prime Minister Pearson, who is due back in the capital Sunday.

Mr. Gordon and his supporters have succeeded in blocking debate on the Bank Act revisions, which were due to be introduced in the Commons Monday.

The Gordon supporters believe they have stalled the revisions indefinitely and may have buried them.

But the Sharp supporters insist they must be introduced before the Commons recesses for summer, which could be as early as next Thursday.

At stake is the raising of the present 6 per cent ceiling on bank loans.

* * *

Mr. Sharp's new formula reportedly would set a new, higher ceiling on bank loans, but remove the ceiling on large loans.

Mr. Gordon and his supporters believe it is politically disastrous to remove the ceiling and have fought it all along the way.

They appeared to have exhausted their efforts this week, when the Bank Act appeared on the order paper for early action.

IWA Negotiators Back Report

The decisions of all should be known by Monday.

The workers' contract with about 120 timber companies expired earlier and strike notice was served, but no deadline was set.

Some 7,000 workers, impatient over the slow negotiations that started in March, are already on strike—an action not sanctioned by the union, although legal.

Mr. Justice Nemetz was appointed an industrial inquiry commissioner by the provincial government.

The judge, who also said there is a fundamental weakness in the bargaining procedures in the industry, recommended two payments of 20 cents an hour over the present base rate of $2.36.

The first would be retroactive to June 15 this year and the second payable next June 15.

He suggested increased specialist pay — ranging between four and 10 cents — affecting about 40 per cent of the workers in the plywood industry and progressive elimination of the 13-cent pay differential for female workers in the same industry.

One of his major points was a call for a creation of a high-level management-union committee, perhaps to include two impartial persons to represent the public interest, to whom a variety of industry problems could be referred.

The union demanded a 50-cent-a-hour wage increase in one year and the last employer offer was for 22 cents in two years. The employers sought a guarantee against wildcat strikes and seven-day-a week operation of plants. The former was referred to the proposed committee and the tenor of the judge's remarks indicated that the latter should go there also.

He said the committee could also deal with such contentious issues as a union demand for increased travel time, although he did recommend increases.

The judge said a strike in the industry would be "catastrophic."

The coastal industry represents about two-thirds of the entire industry in B.C. About 75 per cent of its produce, from lumber to pulp, is exported.

VARIED SUBJECTS

Mr. Justice Nemetz said the weakness in the bargaining process lies in the host of varied subjects that are brought to the bargaining table.

All of these "could not be reasonably or adequately reviewed or determined within the immediate period of the conclusion of the contract."

PETERSON LINE

On technological change the judge went down the same line followed by Labor Minister Leslie Peterson last fall in settlement of a prolonged strike of oil workers.

This includes notification six months in advance of changes that would result in layoffs, employer-government co-operation in retraining or training of laid-off employees and severance pay for those laid off.

tions in the streets, of columns of marchers following a cacophony of drums, cymbals and gongs going to various buildings to pledge support of the new incumbents, of Chairman Mao Tse-tung and of the party's central committee and, at the same time, to condemn revisionists and proponents of peaceful evolution.

Chen Yi describes the events of recent weeks as the inevitable outcome of his country's historical development. The old ideology and culture fostered during China's thousands of years of civilization are hindering the Communist cause and must be repudiated and liquidated, he said.

Thought Weapon

"Our method of conducting this great revolution is to use Mao Tse-tung's thought as the weapon to criticize the old things mentioned." He said, "we rely on the broad masses of workers, peasants and soldiers, the revolutionary cadres and the revolutionary intellectuals. We deal blows at only the handful of anti-party, anti-social and counter-revolutionary bad elements."

Responsible officials have been urged repeatedly during the past week to "arouse the masses without reservation," to ferret out bad elements. They have been told to get people to write posters in big characters and to hold great debates to expose anyone they suspect of opposing the regime. They call these big character posters "monster detectors."

There is no indication of when this campaign will end but its current state would suggest that it will continue through much of the long hot summer. This conclusion may be warranted from the decision to postpone college and university enrolment for a half year to give authorities a chance to develop a system which will favor workers, peasants and soldiers and their children for spaces available in institutions of higher education.

The drive now under way is an obvious attempt to close ranks for a dramatic but still undefined move in the future. A previous drive of similar magnitude in the mid-50s was followed by the communization of agriculture and The Great Leap Forward.

Part of Plan

The present movement may simply be part of a plan to cope with the problems posed by the inevitable need to face transition to new leaders. The military commission of the central committee, Defence Minister Lin Piao and the army have emerged as forces to emulate and listen to and they may wish to consolidate their control before Mao's ultimate authority is removed.

Or rulers may feel a need to prepare the populace and discipline it to cope with the hostile ring of encirclement by the United States, the Soviet Union, Japan and India as revolutionary goals are pursued.

Or it may simply be a determination to buy more time and resources for capital development projects by striving to maintain a dedication to the task of economic construction.

Chen Yi has said that the fact that China could launch a revolution to eliminate what he describes as a handful of anti-party, anti-socialist elements demonstrates that the country is more consolidated and unified than ever and "that our party will become purer and still more consolidated and have still greater fighting power.

"This will be borne out by facts as our friends present here will see," he said in speaking to resident diplomats.

Sharp Showdown

Mr. Pearson has approved the delay. The whole affair is expected to be fought out at a cabinet meeting on Tuesday, when Mr. Sharp will demand cabinet support for going ahead.

He is committed to starting the legislation before the summer recess. If he is blocked, he would have no alternative but t oresign.

* * *

Mr. Sharp's original plan was to introduce the Bank Act resolution and seek first reading of the bill.

Then, depending on whether there was much debate or not, it would be pressed or adjourned until the fall.

Mr. Sharp's supporters believe he will win the battle with Mr. Gordon, who quit as finance minister a couple of days after the government's failure to get a majority in the November election.

Since then, relations between the two men have been difficult.

Mr. Sharp fumed when he heard that at a party caucus, while he was absent, Mr. Gordon made an impassioned plea for retention of the bank interest ceiling.

His supporters believe that once the cabinet had decided to go ahead, Mr. Gordon should have been willing to support it.

Instead, Mr. Gordon had challenged the authority of the minister of finance and the cabinet.

Mr. Sharp's spokesmen point out that this isn't the first delay in the bill. It has been held up continually to the point that Mr. Sharp's ability to continue as minister is at stake.

"There must be support for the minister," one of them said Friday. "If there isn't, he will have to resign."

Miners Perish

out in a lunchroom at the 300-foot level of the hillside mine, apparently touched off by faulty electrical equipment.

MAYO, Y.T. (CP)—Shift boss Red Hull was credited Friday with saving three men in the No Cash mine fire which claimed the lives of four silver miners.

One of the survivors, S. Pallaro of Elsa, Yukon praised the shift boss after getting out of hospital.

'COME ON BOYS'

"The shift boss said 'come on boys' and we followed him, backing down to the third level away from the fire. We built a wall of mud and rocks between us and the smoke and started to wait. It seemed loke 24 hours before they reached us."

V. Zochniak, another survivor, led another three men to safety. The Keno City resident took them far back into another shaft until the fire subsided. Then Zochniak went ahead, testing the air every few feet, until he brought them out of the mine.

"Just gimme a couple of beers and I'm ready to go right back," he said.

Loaded Ship Lacks Crew

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British freighter Lord Gladstone was sitting idle in harbor Friday with a full load of Canadian grain for China.

A spokesman for the vessel's shipping agents said a new crew will be flown to Vancouver as soon as the seamen's strike in Britain ends. The original 32-man crew flew home to Britain last Saturday after their contract with the ship's owners expired. The agents' spokesman said the crew refused to sign a new contract.

Regional Plan Wins Approval

VANCOUVER (CP) — Municipal leaders from 21 Lower Mainland centres took only slightly more than an hour recently to approve the Lower Mainland Regional Plan.

The plan, first conceived in 1949, will guide land use and development from West Vancouver to Hope.

Tell Your Children the Truth Prior to Medical Examination

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Molner: My son is to enter a hospital shortly after his sixth birthday for examination of his kidneys, and I understand the procedure is quite uncomfortable.

He is an especially loving and sensitive child. How should I prepare him for his hospital stay? Must I lie, or be perfectly honest when he asks if it will hurt? So far we have tried to teach him that the best things are not always the most pleasant.

Should one parent or the other be with him constantly, or would we be more in the way than helpful?

The hospital is 25 miles from our home. Grandma said she'd help us if needed, but we don't want our boy to be so babied that he will think this is something to be terribly upset about. — R.G.

I wish more people would ask themselves such good questions before a child goes to the hospital for the first time.

One thing is certain: Don't lie to a child! If he asks whether it will hurt, the true answer is that things will be a little uncomfortable but won't be what you can really call "hurting." It might help if you can think of something that worried him in the past, like, "Can you remember how worried you were when you had your first haircut? And then you found it wasn't anything to be afraid of."

CAN UNDERSTAND

At six, he can understand if you tell him (and this is quite true) that thousands of children, many much younger, have had similar tests. If they can do it, so can he.

Most six-year-olds will respond to an appeal to pride: That you want him to act like a big boy, because you know he can do it.

One thing I certainly would do: Take along some toy or trinket of which he is fond or proud. It doesn't matter much what, so long as he likes it very much. It's something for him to hang onto when he feels scared or lonely — not a lot of toys, but one favorite article.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a man, 35, with a borderline hernia. Is it all right for me to bowl? — L.S.

I see no objection. However, if that, or any type of exercise, causes the hernia to enlarge temporarily, or causes any discomfort in the groin, be wary.

The greatest danger for a hernia of this kind occurs from lifting or straining that causes a marked increase in pressure inside the abdomen. This does not occur from bowling.

Note to "Nervous Wreck": A persistent vaginal discharge is not normal; however, there are a variety of causes which have nothing to do with the so-called social diseases. Report this to your doctor without hesitation.

Red Curtain May Part For de Gaulle

NOVOSIBIRKS, U.S.S.R. (CP) President de Gaulle of France was scheduled to meet today some of the Soviet Union's most mysterious men—scientists behind its success in space.

De Gaulle, en route to Leningrad, was scheduled to visit a Soviet space launching centre as he continued his 6,300-mile tour of provincial cities. Observers said he might see a launching, but probably of a relatively routine satellite.

He will be the first Westerner and almost certainly the first state visitor to see a Soviet launching site.

De Gaulle called Friday for more scientific and industrial co - operation between France and the U.S.S.R. and received new assurances that the two nations are making progress in their quest for closer relations.

The U.S.S.R. and France are expected to sign a space co-operation agreement Thursday.

The French have been seeking permission for a French rocket team to visit a Soviet launching site and for agreement to launch French rockets from a Soviet site.

ALMOST ALONE

It was learned unofficially that de Gaulle's entourage of French officials would not accompany him to the space site, portsthatonlya

This tallies in with earlier reports that only a personal physician and one aide would be permitted to accompany him to the site.

Addressing Soviet scientists in the academic city of Akademgorod near this Siberian city, de Gaulle said Friday:

"May Soviet science and French science unite for the well being of man while Russia and France unite for world peace."

"Scientists here presented de Gaulle with two diamonds from Yakutia, a huge area in northeastern Siberia.

French Blast Soon

PAPEETE, Tahiti (Reuters) Speculation that France may hold its first nuclear explosion in the Pacific despite international protests on or about July 2 arose Friday with an announcement that a French minister will visit the main test supply base.

The announcement said Pierre Billottee, minister for overseas territories and dependencies, will leave June 30 for the French Atomic Energy Commission's main supply base on Hao Island, 497 miles east of Tahiti in the Tuamotu Archipelago.

From there he will travel by air to Gambier Island, about 500 miles southeast of Hao and about 280 miles east of the test island, Mururao.

For Armory Plans

Bribe Offered By Terrorists

MONTREAL (CP) —Two alleged members of a Montreal-based terrorist group were said Friday to have offered $500 to a non-commissioned officer in the Canadian Army in return for detailed plans of an armory and a list of weapons kept there.

Sgt. Robert Marchand, 19, said at a preliminary hearing of Robert Levesque, 25, of Montreal and Rejean Briggs, 21, of suburban Lasalle, that Briggs introduced him to Levesque who had offered him the money.

RCMP officers were alerted by Marchand and members of the force were in an adjoining room when the soldier arrived to hand over blueprints.

Levesque and Briggs were charged with conspiring to commit an armed robbery.

Police said both are members of an organization calling itself Le Mouvement pour l'Independance Nationale. They were committed to voluntary statement June 29.

Remote Lake Searched

BAGOTVILLE, Que. (CP)—Navy divers searched isolated Lake Peribonca 300 miles northeast of Montreal Friday for two missing crew members of a Nordair C-46 aircraft that was reported missing Monday en route from Montreal to Fort Chimo, Que.

They made no immediate findings and the search was expected to continue.

The missing crew members were identified as Gil Mergny, 25, formerly of Winnipeg and now living in Montreal, and his co-pilot, Charles Ryan, also of Montreal.

Police Roam Streets

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Police squads and NAACP officials roamed the racially - troubled east side Friday night, alert for signs of fresh violence. The scene was quiet but tense.

A 10-year-old Negro boy was shot and wounded by a white motorist in street fighting Thursday night and extra police moved into the area Friday as the temperature soared to 90.

Narrow Victory

MANITOBA has run true to the form that marks both federal and provincial elections these days by lack of the clear-cut decision that best ensures the stability of governance. Premier Roblin and his Conservative administration got home, but only by the scraping advantage that leaves them with an overall three-seat majority.

Whether a degree of indifference has overcome Canadian electors, or the confusion caused by too many parties and too many elections — this is Manitoba's fourth in eight years for example — is responsible for these indeterminate results one would be hard put to say. The existing facts are however that voters are finding it more difficult to make their choices than they have ever done. The political scene is a montage of uncertainties.

Viewing the results of Quebec, Prince Edward Island and now Manitoba, even Mr. Bennett, seemingly well entrenched in the 14-year-old ascendancy of his Social Credit government, might have cause to ponder the vagaries of election ballots. And he has an election ahead, for certain next year if not this.

No unusual issue was at stake in Manitoba, the chief divergence being that between the opposition and the government as to economic conditions in that prairie province. Manitobans apparently preferred to agree with Premier Roblin that conditions were satisfactory and not on the downgrade as asserted by his opponents, even if this was confirmed only by narrow favor.

The Liberals retain their role as the official opposition but the chief feature of the election result is the advance of the NDP. It cut into both major parties and increased not only its legislative seats but also its voting percentage. And this though not contesting every constituency.

This election may seem to have dampened the image of Mr. Roblin as a political leader but he has nevertheless gained office for the fourth time in succession, which is an accolade most premiers would like to share. Although but by a slim margin his Conservative administration is still the favorite in Manitoba.

Twin Tongues

IT IS one thing for the Pearson government to make mandatory bilingualism in the higher echelons of the federal civil service—which incidentally means that those who don't learn to speak both French as well as English will remain in the rut of lower positions—and quite another to try to spread twin tongues all across the nation.

The newly appointed defence chief, Lt.-Gen. Jean Allard, himself a French-Canadian, apparently realizes this is many of his Quebec compatriots don't. He is in favor of financial incentives to promote bilingualism among the armed forces of which he is now in top command—for here also the higher appointments henceforth seem earmarked for those who master both languages—but he views the subject with some reality.

"As for the ideal situation where everybody is bilingual," he is quoted as saying, "I don't know how many hundred years they've been trying in Belgium and haven't achieved it yet."

Bilingual soldiers are handy in UN peace-keeping roles, such as the Congo where French is widely spoken, he cites, although there must be few if any UN contingents, not from Canada, whose troops speak other than one tongue. Nor have UN police forces to date intervened where French is spoken.

But the general puts his finger on the nub of the bilingual question Quebec has forced on Canada as a whole when he says: "There is no point imposing a language on somebody who can't practice it and can't use it."

That goes for the two-thirds majority of Canadians for whom English is the normal tongue for all needs. Even if every manjack of them went back to school to acquire French the acquisition would soon lapse for lack of use.

All those federal forms that go out to this two-thirds of the population, for instance—income tax and every other piece of literature Ottawa now prints and distributes in two languages—are simply a waste of money.

For many people an additional language may enlarge their own private interests and pleasure, if they can keep it up, but from the standpoint of general daily purpose it is redundant.

One wonders if Quebec citizens are under the same persuasion to learn English as the rest of the country is being urged to learn French.

An Image Smeared

EVEN THE DELIBERATE defiance of authority by Negro civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King and his associates, black and white, in no way excuses acts of police brutality of the kind that occurred in Canton, Miss.

The self-styled "freedom marchers" attempted to pitch their over-night tents on a school grounds, which the city had forbidden.

Whatever the reason, the civic authority was within its rights in denying access to its property. Obviously, then, the marchers were wrong in law when they tried to set up their encampment.

However, the subsequent violence places the city and its agents, the patrolmen, in a morally indefensible position. If the marchers were breaking the law it would have been a relatively simple matter to arrest the leaders and remove their offending tents and vehicles. There would have been no resistance.

But the patrolmen elected to disperse the crowd by using tear gas, a measure civilized people would normally hesitate to adopt except to control a riot. The gas by itself would have ensured the departure of the marchers, in any event. It was entirely unnecessary to kick and gun-whip a thoroughly confused crowd, choking and blinded as they were.

Incidents of this kind put the white defenders of a way of life entirely beyond the sympathy of reasonable men. It can only harm their cause and stir animosities, already heated enough, to a point of frenzied resistance.

It is a sad day for the people of Mississippi and the whole South when wanton cruelty of this kind sullies the reputation of a people so much admired for their courage, generosity and native gentility.

"Good heavens no. She's wearing one of these new mini-dresses."

From Free China

Warning Against Weakness

By EDWARD NEILAN
from HONG KONG

NEW denouncements of the "appeasement tendencies" of American liberals have appeared in Nationalist China.

This response to increased discussion of the China question in the United States is predictable, since Nationalist China's political case rests with continued opposition to the mainland regime.

U.S. backing gives teeth to this policy. Any American overtures for closer ties or cultural exchanges, therefore, are seen by the Nationalists as undermining their position.

The strongest attack on the so-called "liberal appeasers" came in a recent session of the foreign affairs committee of the legislative yuan. This is the rough equivalent of the U.S. senate foreign relations committee.

Five ranking Chinese intellectuals addressed the committee. The sum of their remarks:

1. The Chinese government should take urgent steps to counter a "wave of appeasement thinking" among American liberals.

2. Especially dangerous are erroneous conclusions that the Communists are in effective control of the mainland and that there can be "containment without isolation."

3. It is a mistake to assume that the second generation of Peking leadership will be amenable to peaceful settlement.

4. Nothing can be accomplished by admitting Communist China to the United Nations.

One of the intellectuals is Chow Ching-wen, author of "Storm of Ten Years," a book about his former associations with the Chinese Communists.

He said, "Americans are falling into Peking's trap if they think they can wait until Mao Tze-tung is gone and milder men take over."

Chow claimed that if Nationalist troops invaded the mainland with American backing and held a bridgehead for six months, an anti-Communist revolution would snowball and spread widely.

Several of the speakers singled out American "China experts" A. Doak Barnett and John Fairbank for criticism. They have both advocated opening the door to Red China.

Hsu Wei-shun, former professor of Peking Normal University who fled the mainland last year, challenged Barnett and Fairbank to a debate.

He said they do not know whereof they speak and that the Communists never have had effective control over the people of the mainland.

The English-language China News, published in the Nationalist Chinese capital of Taipei, joined the crusade in an editorial:

"Ironically, any American with a good reason now can travel to Red China — only the Chinese Communists won't let him in.

"Why, then, is the United States trying to make such a big thing of letting down the barriers?

"Fortunately, for the United States and the free world, the Chinese Communists need an enemy more than they need to be appeased. If Peking ever does reach out a hand, it will be for purposes of judo and other trickery, not to let bygones be bygones.

'Joe-Joe' Greene Keeps One Bright Eye On Lovely Ladies from the Grassroots

By RICHARD JACKSON, Colonist Ottawa Bureau

TRADITIONALLY, cabinet ministers are supposed to be under such fierce-some pressure of awesome national responsibilities that they become remote.

Walled off by small armies of secretaries, special assistants, executive aides, senior civil service advisers and other of this ministerial Praetorian Guard, the cabinet becomes isolated individually, and collectively from the plain people, the voters.

With their heads in the administrative clouds of this rarefied atmosphere of big decisions, the ministry often is accused — and frequently convicted at elections by the voters — of losing touch with the grassroots.

It's happened in the past federally as well as provincially, just as it did with Quebec Premier Jean Lesage on June 5.

And political vanity being what it is, it'll keep right on happening as one cabinet minister after another gets so involved in the grand strategy of the offensive on the broad national front as to forget the local tactics of defence on the home constituency sector.

But not the new agriculture minister, John James "Joe-Joe" Greene. Not yet, anyway.

Maybe not ever — certainly not if he keeps the folksy touch he used the other day on what he unabashedly announced in the House were "those 14 lovely ladies from McNab Township up there in the gallery."

And as necks swiveled and heads craned, there they were, 14 lovely ladies in 14 new white spring hats and 14 stylish print afternoon dresses.

The 14 members of the Pine Grove Women's Institute from McNab, up Arnprior way — smack-dab in Joe-Joe's South Renfrew constituency — down to the capital for the day seeing the sights, and looking mighty pretty, too.

"Joe's our boy," beamed Mrs. G. Ross Campbell as Joe-Joe bowed to them in the gallery from the floor of the House, "and we're down here watching how he does in helping to run the country."

Farm wives, almost all of them, as their MP, he had invited them to visit him.

So after his gallant salute to them from his Commons front-bench desk, they trooped off to his office for a chat before doing the National Gallery, the Museum, Mint, Rideau Hall and the rest of the national capital tourist bit.

His wall-to-wall rug and ceiling-to-floor drapes didn't escape their housewife's eye.

A little much luxurywise, maybe, a bit extravagant?

Well, allowed Mrs. Campbell, who is vice-chairwoman of the Pine Grove WI's Historical Committee, back home in Arnprior up the Ottawa Valley, all Joe-Joe really had been used to was a small law office with a lone secretary.

"And now look at him!" But then, "any man likes to be comfortable" — and that was all right, too, as long as Joe-Joe saw to it that the farmer was getting his share of comfort.

★ ★ ★

Well, was Joe-Joe doing the job they had sent him to Ottawa to do — look after the good folk in Renfrew South, or was he too busy for these small details now that he had to worry about the farmers all across the country?

"He'd better be doing the job," snarled Mrs. Campbell in a way that clearly indicated that Joe-Joe certainly better had be.

So he wasn't so caught up with prairie problems, Quebec complaints and Maritime troubles that he was forgetting Renfrew and The Valley?

"Better not be," smiled Mrs. Campbell.

And again there was the clear signal that indeed he'd better not be — not if he knew what was good for him.

The deputy minister of agriculture and the deputy's deputy were waiting outside Joe-Joe's door, and down the street in the department itself was a conference to be attended.

Two secretaries patrolled his outer office with two fat files of letters to sign. His executive assistant was pawing the broadloom outside impatiently waiting for an okay on the speech he had written for Joe-Joe to deliver that very night.

But was the Honorable the Minister of Agriculture John James Greene, pressed as he was from all sides, in a panic-rush?

Not when he was holding political court as parliamentary host to those "14 lovely ladies" in from The Valley for a sociable visit.

Did he show any sign of wanting to get down to business with the departmental deputies impatiently waiting outside?

Not so as those "14 lovely ladies" — each controlling who-knows-how-many votes up home — would notice!

Report from Brussels

15 Partners Still Stand Fast On Basic Principles of NATO

SEVERAL important results emerged from the Spring ministerial meeting of the North Atlantic Council in Brussels.

First, Frances 14 NATO allies showed their unshakable determination to maintain the organization's defence structure—despite all French efforts to dismiss it as unnecessary in this day and age, an attitude which ignores the fact that this is the very thing which has helped to maintain peace in Europe for more than 17 years.

Next, they seized the opportunity, long recognized as necessary by some members of the alliance but now given added impetus by the French attitude, to set in train far-reaching plans to streamline the organization.

And they underlined the growing feeling recently expressed by British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart and other ministers that NATO represents a far greater prospect as a platform for bridging the gap between East and West than any individual country working alone could ever hope to be—though, in limited matters, bilateral contacts can make a contribution.

Moreover, even though France and her 14 allies failed to agree on the role which French troops will play in an emergency, significant changes in the French attitude to the whole question became clear during the course of the Brussels meeting.

While Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville began by suggesting that the future relationship of French forces with NATO forces was primarily a matter for discussion by the military experts rather than at a political level by ministers or officials, he later agreed to discussions at political level.

The point stressed by the 14 in this is that, while the military experts can and must prepare contingency plans, the situation under which those plans would come into operation can only be decided at a political level.

It would be unthinkable to leave responsibility for deciding that such a contingency had arisen with the military planners.

Not to be overlooked either is the fact that the nature of modern warfare and the speed with which forces can be moved are such that the role French forces would play in an emergency must be decided in advance.

★ ★ ★

Whether the easing of the French attitude does, in fact, represent a basic change in their position or merely a postponement remains to be seen, but any evidence which supports the former view will certainly be welcomed by the 14.

They have consistently maintained that they have no desire to push France any further out of NATO than she is proposing to take herself.

The Brussels discussions on East-West relations gain added point because of French suggestions that NATO's very existence is an impediment to an East-West detente.

Many people would argue that the limited detente which has so far come about is, in fact, mainly due to the cohesion and resolution of NATO—and that the best prospect of greater detente lies in advancing from this position.

Mr. Stewart's proposal that NATO should work out a statement of principles or "rules of behavior on which East and West could agree" is likely to be put to the NATO Permanent Council for early consideration.

★ ★ ★

But he warned his colleagues that while there are signs of a desire among several East European countries for better relations with the West, nobody should imagine that a great revolution in East-West relations is imminent. Certain very obstinate problems still stand in the way.

Prominent among them is undoubtedly Soviet policy on the question of German reunification, which continues to be completely unyielding.

The 15 NATO foreign ministers expressed their regret in no uncertain terms at the absence of progress on this question, and they went on to condemn "attempts to discredit the Federal Republic of Germany."

NATO is emphatic that there must be "a continued and unrelenting search for a peaceful solution that would give satisfaction to the German people's fundamental right to reunification."

There can clearly be no real progress in East-West relations until Moscow realizes the strength of feeling in the West on this subject and accepts the fact that the reunification of Germany, based on the principle of self-determination, must be an essential element in any lasting detente.

Churches Feeding A Million

Over a million people a day are being fed with supplementary food by the churches in India in the biggest co-ordinated attempt to meet India's food emergency. The Pope has given $100,000 towards the funds, and has provided 90 trucks for the distribution.

Foodstuffs are now flowing in liberal quantities, according to a survey made by the World Council of Churches. Ten million tons of grain from the United States will be available over the next few months, in addition to great quantities of powdered milk from the Netherlands, Norway and Sweden. The Food for India Foundation, set up in the Netherlands, has already raised $6,000,000,000 for Indian relief.

The World Council of Churches special fund of $3,000,000 is running alongside the Roman Catholic appeal, in which the Pope has given the lead. Part of the Pope's personal gift is being used to buy 2,000 tons of rice from Burma.

From New York, the Lutheran World Relief has sent 10 million vitamin capsules, and in Australia a super-market chain of stores is running a "Milk for India" appeal in which shoppers can send a tin of milk to India at a special price.

These synchronized appeals and their results will help to keep the minimum subsistance level of 1,000 calories a day for million of Indians. But with home-produced food running short by 11 million tons, they can meet only the bare necessities.

Tall Stories

Reading Is Not Believing

By PHILIP DEANE

IT IS a popular cliche that journalists are sensationalists at heart. "You can't believe what you read in the papers," the neighborhood sage says over his glass of beer, and his audience grunts agreement as he swills down the malt.

Or ask a "statesman" about the evils of the press and you will get 33,333 stanzas. But how about the sensationalism of "experts" or the servants of statesmen feeding the press its tall stories?

"Cannibalism is a possibility among civilized nations within the next 30 to 40 years." This is a statement Mr. G. H. Goldschmied, president of the Canadian Institute of Food Technology, made in the course of an interview in Toronto recently. Mr. Goldschmied got his headline, all right, and it was as sensational as his statement — which also was nonsense.

He is, of course, right in stating that food production (in the underdeveloped countries, mainly) is not keeping pace with population growth. But to suggest, as he has, that nations will wage war to get human meat is either a poor joke, an error in judgment or irresponsibility of the worst kind. If the Canadian Institute of Food Technologists is what its name implies, then its president should know better unless, of course, a food technologist can simply be a wrapper of meat at supermarkets.

Mr. Goldschmied knows, or ought to know, that humanity has yet to tap the resources of the sea for food. Fish flour produced from fish that are not normally eaten or from the parts of the fish that are filleted off is odorless, tasteless and a concentrated source of protein. We have hardly tapped this as a source for bridging the agricultural gap.

Then there are algae cultures or yeast cultures. Shallow ponds are used to breed algae or yeast. Fifty million acres of these ponds — one seventh of India's arable land — would produce enough protein (which is what we would get from human flesh) to feed the entire present population of the globe on a continuous basis. We wouldn't eat the green scum off ponds without processing it, of course. Each of the fifty million acres would be part of an elaborate algae or yeast farm costing $10,000 per acre to equip with the proper processing plant. This makes the impressive total of $500,000,000,000 or some $150 for every man and woman and child on earth. That is a lot of money, but less than it would cost to wage war for human meat.

Besides, we would not have to set up enough algae farms for the protein needs of the entire earth. Older methods of food production would continue since one can use for the cultivating of algae and yeast the Red Earth territories of the African and South American jungles that are fit for little else.

I am sure "food technologists" could find interesting ways of combining the odorless, tasteless products of algae farms with extracts from vegetables not normally eaten, to make interesting food. It wouldn't be sirloin, but it could be tasty and increase the protein content of meatless meals. The chicken and pig would then have to be reserved, in poor countries, for the occasional feast.

Difficult to teach people new eating habits? Less difficult than to make them fight wars for human meat.

The Canada - Newfoundland Conference opened in Ottawa 19 years ago today — in 1947. After the depression had brought problems with which Newfoundland had been unable to cope, its impoverished administrators had suspended responsible government in favor of rule by British appointees in the 1930s. Following the advent to power of the Labor party in Britain in 1945, arrangements were made for the election of a national convention to determine the island's future. A 1948 referendum resulted in a 52-per-cent majority for confederation with Canada, and the union was made April 1, 1949.

Hundred Fires Extinguished

One hundred forest fires were extinguished in B.C. this week and 40 were still burning, when the B.C. Forest Service released its weekly fire report Friday.

Ninety-six new fires occurred during the week, and firefighting costs for the seven-day period were estimated at $52,900.

Estimated firefighting cost to date this year is $148,000, compared with $326,500 for a similar period a year ago.

Most of the new fires were in the Kamloops forest district, where the hazard is rated as moderate to high in the Okanagan area. Elsewhere in the province, the hazard was rated as low or moderate.

Liberal MP Protests Tory Fuss

By BON COLLESTER
- Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Republican MP Auguste Choquette Thursday protested the fuss that is being kicked up by Tory war veterans over his tour of the war graves of Europe.

"It's mean," said Mr. Choquette, liberal MP who has called the queen "A foreign queen" and predicted a republic in Canada in 10 years.

"I always thought," he added, "that those who went overseas during the war went to fight for the freedom of the world, and not for a republican or monarchistic philosophy."

★ ★ ★

Earlier, in the Commons, the eleventh-hour inclusion of Choquette in the 24-member veterans committee that will tour the war graves, starting Saturday, caused an emotional blast from Tory MP Frank Fane.

Mr. Fane, a hero of Vimy in the First World War, twice wounded and decorated with the MC, asked the prime minister if he approved the appointment of Choquette to the committee.

★ ★ ★

Choquette, he said, had "denounced everything for which Canadians fought and died in the past."

Outside the Commons, Mr. Choquette said the outburst was ridiculous.

But, to Fane, Choquette's visit was "A deadly insult" to the dead of two wars.

Mr. Choquette's name was added to the committee, by substitution for another Liberal, this week.

He has never been a member of the committee or attended one of its meetings.

★ ★ ★

The committee will tour war cemeteries and memorials in France, Belgium, Holland, West Germany, Italy and Britain.

And, it will attend ceremonies marking the 50th anniversary of the Somme battles.

Mr. Choquette said he would play a very active part in the tour.

"I am not going there because it is an agreeable trip, but to work like the others," he said.

In the Commons, another Tory, Donald McInnis, complained that while he was a member of a defence committee, he found he could not take a journey.

★ ★ ★

But the chairman of the committee had refused to allow a wounded veteran to replace him because, it was suggested at the time, a practice was developing.

In view of this discrimination, was the Choquette substitution fair? he asked.

Defence Minister Paul Hellyer said he knew of no discrimination.

Pressed further by an irate McInnis, Hellyer retorted that "the substitution of any member for himself (McInnis) on the committee would have been quite a remarkable improvement."

★ ★ ★

McInnis, even angrier, retorted that he did not spend the war riding motorcycles.

Speaker Lamoureux stopped the scrapping.

Prime Minister Pearson kept out of the squabble. But he is reported to have approved the inclusion of Choquette in the committee for the trip.

The convention, at 8 p.m. in Congress Hall, 715 Johnson, will be addressed by Frank Snowsell, a veteran party supporter now living in Vancouver.

Seven Days' Figure

LaPierre Slated For City Speech

Victorians this fall will have a real-life closeup of Laurier LaPierre, the television personality who was sacked from the program This Hour Has Seven Days.

It was confirmed Friday that he's on the roster of speakers for the University of Victoria students' political science forum.

Mr. LaPierre will be here Sept. 23, to speak at 12:30 p.m. in the Student Union Building at Gordon Head.

JAGAN FIRST

The first speaker of the series will be Cheddi Jagan, leftist former prime minister of Guyana, who will be guest at a public meeting July 2.

Gordon Pollard, chairman of the Political Science Forum, also confirmed the dates of visits from other experts:

Walter Gordon, former finance minister in Prime Minister Pearson's government, 12:30 p.m. Sept. 27 in the Student Union Building.

FAMED LAWYER

John Kenneth Galbraith, Harvard economist and former United States ambassador to India, 8 p.m. Sept. 29, gymnasium.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Pollard also said it was definite that two well-known lawyers will be here for the forum, although the dates for their appearances haven't been set.

Melvin Belli, Los Angeles attorney who defended Jack Ruby, will stop here in November on his way to Hawaii.

NIELSEN, TOO

Erik Nielsen, Conservative member of Parliament for Yukon, who sparked the Dorion inquiry into influence-peddling in high places, will speak at the university in October or November.

The students also expect to hear Trade Minister Robert Winters early in October.

Protection Sought For Jagan

The organizers of a speaking engagement here by Dr. Cheddi Jagan, reacting to what they describe as "antagonistic" telephone calls, have sought police protection for the leftist former prime minister.

Gordon Pollard, chairman of the University of Victoria's student Political Science Forum, which has arranged the July 2 speech, said the callers appeared to be "cranks," but he wasn't taking any chances.

★ ★ ★

"One person accused us of 'importing a Red' and 'poisoning the minds of Victorians,' or some such," said Mr. Pollard.

He said Saanich police would be asked to provide security during the visit of Guyana's leader from 1961 to 1964.

Dr. Jagan will speak in the university's Lansdowne auditorium at 8 p.m.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier Bennett says Paddy Neale was making a wild statement when he said judges are political hacks and the law is an ass.

"Law and order is a basic part of our way of life and 90 per cent of the people in B.C. want to keep it that way," he said.

Pension Boost Promised

SOURIS, P.E.I. (CP) — Elderly Prince Edward Islanders will find an extra $75 in this month's old - age - pension cheques, Premier Walter R. Shaw promised Friday, hours before he was to help launch the Progressive Conservative campaign for the Kings 1st deferred July 11 election.

A $25-monthly increase "has already been implemented, retroactive to April 1," the premier said in an interview. Mr. Shaw, 78, Canada's oldest premier, said the fattened pension cheques—$100 for June and $50 in retroactive benefits—will be mailed at the end of the month.

The premier said he hopes half of the increase will be paid by the federal government, but if not, the province will foot the entire bill.

DOUBLE PROMISE

Both Conservatives and Liberals promised old-age-pension increases to $100 a month from $75 in their platforms for the May 30 election. The election ended in a deadlock of 15 seats for each party and threw two-member Kings 1st into the centre of the political arena. There are 32 seats in the legislature.

Liberal Leader Alex B. Campbell, was to address a party rally at nearby Kingsboro Friday night while Mr. Shaw was stumping at a Conservative meeting here, but he said he would not get involved "in trying to outbid the Conservatives.

"We're not going to engage in a public auction to bribe the people with money for their votes."

'MANIFESTO'

He said the Conservatives have replaced their original platform with "a Souris manifesto," which includes promises for a tax reduction in this town of 1,500 population, new industries, a national park and new steel draggers for the Kings County fishing industry.

Both leaders said they are leaving the bulk of the campaign in the deferred election, brought about by the death of Liberal William Acorn prior to May 30 voting, to the candidates themselves.

A sweep of both assemblyman and councillor seats is needed for a majority government. This farming and fishing constituency was represented by two Liberals in the last house and currently is represented in the cabinet by Works and Highways Minister Keith MacKenzie, seeking his first election to the legislature July 11.

Law and the Driver

Many motorists are not aware of the changes of the B.C. Motor Vehicle Act. For their benefit, the Victoria Chamber of Commerce traffic safety committee has prepared a list of traffic regulations with explanations where needed.

Not included are clauses which refer specifically to professional drivers.

SECTION 144(e) Driving on Laned Roadway.

When approaching an intersection intending to turn right, a driver shall drive the vehicle in the lane nearest to the right-hand side of the roadway and may cause the vehicle to pass another vehicle travelling in the same direction in a lane to his left.

Comment.

When intending to turn right at an intersection a driver should move over to the outside, or curb, lane as soon as it is safe to do so and for this purpose may pass another vehicle to his left which may be travelling in the same direction.

When turning right from the inside or centre lane a driver runs the risk of a rear-end sideswipe collision by a vehicle which may be in the act of overtaking and passing. Passing on the right is quite permissible where there are two or more lanes of travel in the same direction.

Turning right from the inside or centre lane is not only unlawful but also extremely hazardous.

Suspended Driver Jailed

A youth was sentenced to 20 days in jail when he pleaded guilty in central magistrate's court Friday to driving while under suspension and to being a minor without insurance.

Richard Drinkwater, HMCS MacKenzie, was stopped at a roadblock on Esquimalt Road Thursday night, court was told.

Last April, he had been convicted of both offences, prosecutor Peter Birkett said.

His licence was suspended in August, 1965, until he filed proof of financial responsibility.

Magistrate William Ostler sentenced Drinkwater to 15 days in jail for driving while under suspension and five days for not having insurance.

★ ★ ★

An assault charge against William and Clifford Conley was dismissed by Magistrate William Ostler.

And he advised them to forget about a counter-charge they had laid against Albert Spowage, the man who had charged them.

Magistrate Ostler dismissed the charge after ruling the Crown had failed to establish a prima facie case.

He told the Conleys: "If you want some advice, I think you all should forget about it. I would abandon the matter if I were you."

But the Conleys said they wanted to proceed and Magistrate Ostler said he would be unable to take the case.

Spowage will now stand trial July 13 before Magistrate J. A. Byers on a charge of assault causing bodily harm.

Spowage said he and the Conleys had adjacent suites at 327 Quebec. He claimed the assault took place June 11 after the three had exchanged words.

Albert Canfield, 1140 Palmer, pleaded guilty to two charges of breaking and entering and was remanded to June 30 for a pre-sentence report.

Canfield admitted breaking into Supersonic Car Wash, 628 Gorge, and Trans-Canada Service Station, 480 Burnside, June 11.

Canfield and another youth were checked by police in the lot adjoining the car wash at 4 a.m. June 11.

They had $181 in cash from vending machines at the car wash, sun glasses and candy, Constable Ivan Purdy said.

Saanich police recovered $400 worth of tools taken from the service station.

Det. Ronald Coulter said $64 worth of cigarettes and $7 worth of sun glasses were also stolen.

★ ★ ★

Gordon Gogal met John Hughes at a city beer parlor June 16 and then accompanied him and a woman to a nearby house.

Early the next morning, a patrolling constable found Hughes' wallet and $190 on Gogal.

Gogal, address unavailable, pleaded guilty to theft over $50 and was remanded to July 4 for a pre-sentence report.

Ian Tateham, 123 South Turner, was given a suspended sentence ad placed on a $350 bond for one year for false pretences.

He had cashed a worthless cheque so he could pay his board, court was told.

He was also fined $25 on each of two counts of false pretences involving worthless cheques at Woolco.

Campus Work Approved

The University of Victoria's raw new Gordon Head campus is to be prettied up in time for the start of classes in September.

This week the administration signed a $188,800 contract with Farmer Construction Ltd. for landscaping and sidewalk construction in the central quadrangle.

The eight-acre quad has been left partly treed and partly bulldozed as new buildings rose. A social sciences complex and the new arts-education building will open this fall.

The 900-by-400-foot quad lies within a circular ring road 2,100 feet in diameter.

TV, Player Stolen From Home

A $50 television set and a $140 record-player were stolen from the home of John Pettie, 1419 Stanley, Thursday night.

RCN Chaplain

Padre Retiring

* * *

The navy's command chaplain (Protestant) — the Rev. Dr. Andrew J. Mowatt — is going on retirement leave and will take up an appointment as minister of a church in Clinton, Ont., on July 28.

Padre Mowatt will be missed at Pacific Command.

"He's a man's man," said a retired petty officer. "He was accepted as one of the men, and that is about the highest compliment a padre can be paid."

SHIP VISITOR

When he was on a world cruise in the destroyer-escort HMCS St. Laurent two years ago "he was in every part of the ship every day," the petty officer said.

"Just by his presence he instilled confidence in the men."

The padre was instilling confidence on D-Day, June 6, 1944, when he took part in the Normandy landings as chaplain of the Second Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada. He was with the Queen's Own to the end of the war.

NAVY CAREER

His navy career began in January, 1951. His retirement takes effect this December.

Andrew J. Mowatt was born in Montreal but by the time he was six months old he was living in North China where his father, the Rev. Dr. Joseph A. Mowatt, was a missionary with the Presbyterian and then the United Church of Canada.

He was educated at Hwaking in the province of Honan and spoke Chinese before he spoke English. He returned to Montreal at the age of 12 and was enrolled in a French boarding school.

McGILL GRAD

After graduation from Westmount High School Padre Mowatt went to McGill University where he earned his BA and his Bachelor of Divinity.

Padre Mowatt

He also took his doctorate at McGill.

Following graduation he had a charge at Hudson, Que., until he joined the army in the Second World War. After his discharge in 1946 he preached in Montreal and Calgary and then joined the navy.

ABOARD CARRIER

He served in HMCS Shearwater and aboard the aircraft carrier Magnificent and at HMCS Cornwallis before coming to Royal Roads as chaplain in 1958.

He spent four years there before joining Pacific Command. He and his wife Gwendoline are members of Metropolitan Church. They have a son, Donald, who is a producer with the CBC in Vancouver.

The padre's new charge is Wesley-Willis United Church in Clinton. He will take up his duties there the day after he leaves Victoria on July 27.

GUEST PREACHER

"We're going to miss Victoria," he said Friday. "We love it here."

He will preach at Shawnigan Lake and Mill Bay in the meantime and will be guest preacher at Belmont Avenue United Church on July 24.

One of the souvenirs he'll take east with him is a book he put together on the world cruise of the St. Laurent in 1964.

Accordionist Visits

A man who became a Christian several years ago when his children took him to Sunday School will be special guest at the 7 p.m. service in Parkdale Evangelical Free Church, 3281 Harriet on Sunday.

He is Len Holland, one of Canada's outstanding accordionists, who appears regularly on the Songs of Faith television broadcast Sunday afternoons.

Mr. Holland is a member of the Christian Brethren assembly in Coquitlam.

Pastor Lloyd Mackey will speak on the subject Recommendation for Sincerity at the 11:15 a.m. service. Soloist will be Stewart Bell.

The sermon is a continuation of the series on the second letter of Paul to the Christians in Corinth.

Final Sermon Sunday

The guest speaker at Fairfield United Church Saturday morning — Rev. Dr. K. H. Prior — will be preaching his final sermon before retirement. Dr. Prior has served for 40 years on the Board of World Mission.

Ordination Held For Three

Three men were ordained by Archbishop Harold E. Sexton Friday morning at St. Barnabas Church.

Two of the men have been serving as deacons and were ordained to the priesthood. Rev. David McKay, who has been assistant at St. Luke's, will leave shortly to be rector at Gold River. Land is being obtained and a church will be built in the new up-Island community.

Rev. Henry Silvester, who has been working as a deacon at St. Aidan's, Ucluelet, and St. Columba, Tofino, will return there as vicar.

The third man, who was ordained a deacon, is Dr. Kenneth Moss, as assistant professor of chemistry at the University of Victoria. A doctor of philosophy from London, England, he will continue his work at the university while working as assistant at St. Barnabas.

About 200 persons witnessed the ordinations, 30 of them clergy from local parishes and as far away as Comox.

Christian Science Explained

The broad and specific meanings of the term Christian Science will be the subject of the lesson-sermon at First Church of Christ Scientist this Sunday.

Included will be one of the many parables which Jesus used to describe the coming of his kingdom: "The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven, which a woman took and hid in three measures of meal, till the whole was leavened."

Along with it, the following lines from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, will be read:

"Ages pass, but this leaven of Truth is ever at work. It must destroy the entire mass of error, and so be eternally glorified in man's spiritual freedom."

King Fisherman

Qualicum Waters Offer Limit Catch of Coho

Limit coho catches are the rule rather than the exception for King Fishermen at Qualicum.

Lures bringing them in vary from plugs to bucktails with small spoons listed high on the favorite list.

Herring strip is still proving to be one of the best and two women contestants using it brought in a dozen coho above the King fishermens' contest weight limit of five pounds.

Artists' choice sits in pastoral atmosphere

St. Stephen's 104 Years Old

* * *

Remarkable Redwood Structure

Peaceful Saanich Sanctuary

A California redwood church — one of the oldest buildings in British Columbia to be used continuously for worship — was the subject of several paintings at the recent art show in Sidney's Sanscha Hall.

It is easy to see why St. Stephen's Anglican Church was chosen by the artists. The 104-year-old church was built in a rural setting just off Mount Newton Cross Road in Central Saanich that today still retains its pastoral atmosphere.

"The church is a pretty structure and well situated," wrote Bishop George Hills after the first service in the church on June 3, 1862.

And it remains so today, nestled in the trees, hidden from the main road, a peaceful but still active part of history.

The church was restored for its centenary in 1962 and looks remarkably like a new building.

The church was built on land donated by William Thomson, who began farming in the district in 1855 and is considered the father of the settlement of Saanich.

HELD PRISONER

He had left England as a ship's carpenter and left the sea in San Francisco in 1854. He headed north for Victoria but was wrecked on the coast of Vancouver Island and held prisoner for six months by the Nitinat Indians.

He finally reached Victoria and settled in the valley to the east of where the church is now. He married Margaret Dyer, a 15-year-old girl who had come out from England with her mother three years before.

By 1860 the settlers in the area decided to build a church. Mr. Thomson was presbyterian but the others were Anglican. And so it came to pass that a Presbyterian gave the land for an Anglican church and five generations of the Thomson family have worshipped there.

NO LUMBER MILLS

There were no lumber mills in the area. Redwood was imported from California and hauled out to the valley by oxen.

An interesting excerpt from the diary of Bishop Hills describes the day of the first service:

"Today at 7 o'clock, accompanied by the Archdeacon and Lieut. Verney, I rode off to Saanich; yesterday had been dispatched a cart with provisions. The day was charming and all nature was beautiful and gay, calculated to elate the soul with thankfulness.

AROUSED BY BEAR

"On the road about two-thirds of the way, we found the cart of yesterday at a standstill; the horse had proved unequal to the load and the conveyance itself had broken down. The party had camped on the spot and at night had been aroused from slumber by the growls of a bear.

"We took up some of the lighter articles. I carried the butter, the Archdeacon the bread, Mr. Verney something else, and afterwards other friends who came by, gathered more and brought them on.

"Eventually a cart was sent from the village for the rest and all things arrived at their destination in time."

HEARTY SUPPORT

The Bishop reported the church "fairly well filled" for the service, "a considerable addition to the people of the village being made by some 60 friends from Victoria who rode and drove out on horseback and in carriages to give the good work a hearty support. All passed off well; there was hearty singing and many true prayers, I trust, went up to Heaven for a blessing upon the work."

The Rev. Mr. Lowe read prayers, he wrote, the Archdeacon the Epistle "and I the Communion Service, preaching also the sermon."

"There was a good collection," he reported.

The church has had a score of ministers over the years. The present vicar, Rev. O. L. Foster, has been in charge since 1958.

TWICE RESTORED

The church has been restored twice, in 1930 and in 1962. At the last restoration a stained glass window was presented to the church, by members of the family, in memory of Brig. Gen. and Mrs. H. R. Gale and E. W. Gale, who are buried in the churchyard; Viscount Colville of Culross and Maj. E. R. Gibson, all of whom worked for the church in the years following the First World War.

The church and its attendant God's Acre are a pleasant place to have a quiet visit with Saanich history.

New Church To Form Next Year

SASKATOON (CP)—A new Lutheran church will come into existence Jan. 1 next year when the Canadian district of the American Lutheran Church becomes the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Canada.

The decision to break away from the parent American Lutheran Church was made at the annual convention of the Canadian district. Of the 2[illegible] delegates present, 206 supported the move toward an autonomous Canadian church.

Head office of the new church will be in Saskatoon. Dr. Karl Holfeld of Saskatoon, will be president.

Convention Of CWL Next Week

Mrs. W. W. Rogers, president of the Victoria diocesan council, will attend the 20th annual convention of the provincial council of the Catholic Women's League in St. Ann's auditorium, Kamloops, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Mrs. J. McLellan of Victoria will give a report as provincial convener on resolutions. Mrs. A. C. Niehaus of Chemainus will report as convener on legislation. Other reports will be given by conveners on Indian missions, social action, education, immigration and citizenship and other subjects.

The Christian in the Community is the theme of the convention. Provincial president, Mrs. D. N. Palumbo of Prince George, will chair the sessions.

She will be assisted by Bishop M. A. Harrington of Kamloops, B.C., provincial director of the league.

Guest speaker will be Miss Catherine Toal, national president, of London, Ont.

Rhodesian Heads Church

DETROIT (AP) — An American-born Rhodesian has been elected world president of the Seventh Day Adventist Church.

Robert H. Pierson, 56, was elected at the 50th world conference of the church. He succeeds Reuben R. Figuhr, 70.

August Convention

Witnesses To Jam Stadium

More than 1,500 Jehovah's Witnesses in 20 Vancouver Island congregations are making plans to attend a district convention in Vancouver's Empire Stadium, Aug. 3 to 7.

An estimated 35,000 persons from all parts of the Pacific Northwest are expected to gather for Bible discussions concerning God's will for man on earth, John H. Pimm, presiding minister of the local congregation, said this week.

Morning, afternoon and evening sessions will provide training in Christian living, he said.

ALL MINISTERS

Because Witnesses consider all members to be ministers, they strongly recommend that each one engage in a continuing schedule of study and practical Christian service. For this reason the convention program is designed to include talks, demonstrations and discussions analyzing Bible prophecy, doctrine and principles on morality and everyday living.

Complete cafetaria and room facilities are provided to allow delegates the maximum time for the convention program.

DISTRICT CONVENTIONS

Thirteen conventions are being held in North America this summer. Called God's Sons of Liberty district conventions, they begin in Toronto this month and will be held in Cornerbrook, Nfld., Montreal; Anchorage, Alaska; Dallas, Tex., and Miami Beach, Fla. In the winter months conventions will be held in Mexico, Central and South America.

Highlight of the Vancouver convention will be a public discourse on the final day by a representative of the Watch Tower Society on the subject "What Has God's Kingdom Been Doing Since 1914?"

Songs For Oxfam

A choir of Victoria singers will give a concert in St. Andrew's Cathedral in aid of the Oxfam Relief Fund. They will sing the Faure Requiem at 8:30 p.m. Monday. Soloists are Anne Perrins, soprano and Martin Chambers, baritone. David Palmer is the organist. Charles Palmer will conduct the choir.

In City Churches

Brigade to Hold Annual Parade

To win the badges requires three years of hard work and the earning of 12 proficiency certificates in such subjects as sewing, cooking, camping and signalling.

With completion of present building in 1895, church services began. But beginnings go back 75 years. Coffee hour will follow Sunday's service.—(Robin Clarke)

Year Begins Well

Doman Heading Up

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

Record sales, cash flow and net profits are reported by Doman Industries Ltd. for the six months ended April 30.

The Duncan-headquartered logging, lumberyard and transportation company made a net profit of $147,502 (41 cents) in the first half of the fiscal year, an increase of 32 per cent over the corresponding period of 1965 when the net profit was $111,683.

In his interim report to shareholders Herb Doman, president, said that sales were up 20 per cent to $3,022,783 from $2,508,074 a year ago while the allowances claimed for depletion, depreciation and interest were up 88 per cent at $145,234.

'LEAN PERIOD'

Cash flow for the six months period was $366,261 an increase of 42 per cent from the $258,350 of the first half of the 1965 year.

"The first half is always our lean period," said Mr. Doman. "In May we have earned a record 16 cents a share and June is going to be even better. I have no hesitation in sticking to my earlier prophesy that we shall make more than $1 a share this year."

He said that in addition to the increased reserves for depletion and depreciation, the company had reduced its loans during the six months period by $183,000.

DEEP MOLY HOLE

The best drill hole so far is claimed by Sileurian Chieftain on its molybdenum property next to B.C. Molybdenum on Alice Arm.

Walter Eilers, president, said Friday he had received a report from company geologist Dr. A. W. Fawley, that hole No. 17 on the Sunshine Creek claims averaged 1.05 per cent molybdenum over 160 feet. Previous holes on this high grade section had all been shallow, he said.

The latest hole is 50 feet away from Hole 13 which had assayed 1.40 per cent molybdenum over 21½ feet.

Drilling results from the Roundy Creek claims on the lower level of the Alice Arm property had also given low grade assays of .211 per cent MOS2 over 416 feet; 1.45 per cent over 277 feet; 1.49 per cent over 190 feet and 1.28 per cent over 350 feet.

Drilling on both levels is continuing, said Mr. Eilers.

Firemen struggle through choking smoke atop garage

Garage Razed By Fire

A garage was destroyed and the front of a duplex damaged by fire at 2824 Dysart Friday morning.

Cause of the fire was not immediately known, and no damage estimate was available.

Saanich firemen said the blaze began in the garage and spread to the duplex.

The front roof, attic and wall of the duplex were damaged, and there was slight damage to the contents.

The damaged duplex is occupied by Mrs. Sheila Ansdell.

Just Indoor Plumbing

Wild West Hasn't Changed

By BARRY JOHNSON

Prince George must really be a gas if Attorney-General Robert Bonner says so.

In a tongue-in-cheek (at least partly) address to the national conference of the Canadian Cancer Society here Friday, Mr. Bonner told delegates from across Canada that the swinging interior boom town is worth a visit.

"There are certain things about the place that I've kept back from the chairman of the Liquor Control Board since I got back," he said.

BEATS BOMBAY

"Prince George is distinguished by a birth rate somewhat higher than that of Bombay. It makes a 24-hour day seem quite inadequate.

"The wild west hasn't changed, it just has neon lights and indoor plumbing."

Mr. Bonner said the way of Prince George is a sign of Canadian "and particularly British Columbian" prosperity and noted the prosperity is making changes in political thinking.

DOING SOMETHING

"For the first time Canadians are earning and saving enough to do something for the country."

Alluding to federal and provincial medicare he added: "It is quite obvious Canada is now embarked on greater attention to these needs than was ever conceived. We are becoming heavily involved in pensions and welfare.

"We are beginning to be able to afford to look at our people in the very complicated ways in which humanitarianism must be expressed.

"Without this we cannot regard ourselves as a fully-developed society."

Mayor Urges Freeway As Tourism Expands

In support of an ever-expanding tourist business on Vancouver Island, the provincial government should make an immediate start on a four-lane freeway between Victoria and Swartz Bay, Mayor Toone said Friday.

Presiding at an informal opening of the Victoria Visitors Bureau's satellite branch, recently built on Douglas Street just south of the Burnside intersection, the mayor called attention to the fact that there has been an enormous expansion in the tourist industry over the past few years.

UP 80 PER CENT

"From 1963 to 1965, the number of visitors to the Island has increased by 80 per cent, with a corresponding increase in spending," the mayor said.

"Surely this warrants new and better road facilities from the principal port of entry. The provincial government should take note," he added.

There were more than 2,000,000 visitors to the Island in 1965, said Mayor Toone, and they left between $80,000,000 and $90,000,000 here.

STAYS IN CITY

Much of that money remained right in the Victoria area.

Acting with the mayor during the opening were the president of the visitors' bureau, G. N. North, and the bureau director, M. E. Heppell.

The one-room building is designed to supply information to tourists before they reach the centre of the city.

Victorian Wins Scholarship

Victoria resident Thomas E. Burgess is among five British Columbians to win a $1,200 Canadian Wildlife Service scholarship.

The scholarship will allow Mr. Burgess to continue his graduate studies in terrestrial wildlife biology.

Mr. Burgess is in the final year of taking his MSc at University of British Columbia under Dr. H. D. Fisher. He is studying the cold stress adaptions of the opposum and the influence of cold on the animal's northern distribution.

Mailman Relaxes Friday

There will be no rural or letter carrier delivery on Dominion Day, the post office announced Friday.

Wicket service and the money order and savings bank will also be closed, but there will be normal holiday service for special delivery and mail receipts and despatches.

Street letter box collections will be made only in the evening, and the box lobby at the post office will be open from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m.

Druggists Going to Public For Capsule Comment

By JOHN MATTERS

British Columbia's pharmacists decided Friday to set up their own roving commission to hear what ordinary people think of the profession's services and prices.

The B.C. Pharmaceutical Association, at a convention in Victoria, adopted a resolution which will see a commision appointed to roam the province, hearing briefs from pharmacists, experts in related fields of medicine and responsible lay groups.

Douglas Denholm, the association's registrar, said to his knowledge it's the first time such a series of hearing would be held in Canada.

The main purpose is to get an accurate - as - possible sounding on what people think of the pharmacy industry, which will use that data to plan its future.

"We want to anticipate what people will expect from us 20 years from now," said Mr. Denholm.

He explained that the hearings will be concerned with drug prices insofar as submissions relate to the cost of dispensing drugs. Pharmacists cannot do anything about prices of drugs set by manufacturers, said Mr.

"As long as it doesn't get involved in the cost of the drug, we'll be interested. We want to hear what people expect from pharmacists and what they anticipate will be the pharmacist's future role."

Mrs. G. G. Brown, president of the Victoria branch, Canadian Consumers Association, said she was pleased to hear of the self-imposed "royal commission."

"In addition to drug prices, which are the consumer's main interest, I believe there are some pharmacies which are finding themselves in a tight squeeze," she said.

"Supermarkets are offering many of the items usually sold by drugstores. The small druggist is in an awkward position and I can understand why they want to hear more public thinking," added Mrs. Brown.

Mr. Denholm said a legally-trained person probably will be appointed chairman of the commission, the cost of which will be paid by B.C.'s 1,300 practising pharmacists.

A point which will be stressed during the hearings is just what balance should be maintained between the commercial and professional phases of a pharmacist's practice.

"We want to look at the possibility of over-commercialization. If the small retail pharmacist becomes more of a merchant than professional person the public will suffer."

However, explained Mr. Denholm, the fact that pharmacies have gone commercial should be looked on with gratitude. If drug stores only dispensed prescriptions there would be "50 towns in B.C. without pharmacies."

A prescriptions - only service would make drug stores in small centres uneconomical and the result would be more inconvenience and suffering for the sick.

Mr. Denholm said that too often in the past pharmacists have based their practices on what outsiders think or they have planned on what they saw through a rear-view mirror.

They hope the hearings, which probably will start this fall, will provide them with a front-vision windshield instead of that rear vision mirror.

Month Is Ample Time To Tour Global Centres

By VINCENT CRONIN

LONDON (LST) — Round-the-world was once the preserve of lone yachtsmen, Russian satellites and Jules Verne. Then came Ian Fleming.

In 1959 he made a global flight via Tokyo, and wrote a series of articles showing that it was possible to visit seven world cities in 30 days — and see each one perceptively. Fleming set a good many people planning or dreaming some such trip. Here are the ones I would choose.

PERSIA FIRST

First stop Isfahan. This former capital of Persia is a place for sauntering, preferably among the turquoise-colored mosques (which get my vote for the liveliest buildings in the Middle East) and the Madrasah, with its niched quadrangle and pool of precious water.

Round the big square, where shahs once swung their polo sticks, runs a covered bazaar redolent of spice and intrigue, where Persians, poets in navy-blue suits, will haggle gaily for half an hour over two cents worth of melon seeds to chew.

I recommend a drive to the surrounding hills for a review of the green city in its desert context.

THEN BANGKOK

Multifarious India is not for this quick tour, so next stop Bangkok. Steamy heat, lush foliage, a wide brown river and 300 temples, not jewelled as we think, but porcelain-studded, their gables and spires flaming into the indigo sky.

The Thais somehow combine Indian idealism with Chinese common sense: They are silkily mannered, gentle and most hospitable.

There is plenty to see in their river capital; the palace, the major temples and during November — a cooler month and one welcomes coolness here — the local regatta, ushered in by the king's swan-prowed barge.

BOOT BOXERS

Bangkok also offers Thai dancers, who perform mainly with their hands, and Thai boxers, who perform not only with their hands, but also with their elbows, knees and feet.

On to Hongkong for a glimpse of Chinese ways. In setting this city is surpassed only by Rio, in dynamism by no other. Ten storey buildings are coming down to make room for ones of 32 storeys; every two weeks a new school is built; even the tiny farms work overtime, producing up to eight crops of vegetables a year.

Sampan families, three-shift bedrooms a tiny packing-case workshop mass-producing plastic flowers for London and New York — simply as a triumph of human adaptation the place acts like a tonic.

BEST COOKING

Hongkong also has the world's best Chinese regional cooking. And on my last night I should repair to the Sea Palace for shrimps szechwan-style: which means chilli, soy sauce, red peppers garlic and ginger.

Down to Sydney, also booming, but more spaciously. By six-lane highway to the local sanctuary, there to honor the brave survivors named koala, kangaroo and platypus, then perhaps out for a swim on one of Sydney's wide sand beaches: Bondi, Dee Why or Curl Curl.

Australia 1966 is all for art, her lifesavers eclipsed by budding ballerinas, the youth orchestra and Sidney Nolan.

I should head for the Adelaide Festival and — when it is finished — Sydney opera house beside the harbor: four auditoria under gleaming white shells ("like billowing sails," says its Danish architect), built by computers and paid for by lotteries.

Across the international date line to San Francisco. Here I should visit Lincoln's Park for the fine view of the Golden Gate bridge, and North Beach for a night of jazz, then up to Yosemite National Park for the enormous redwoods and granite-flanked Yosemite Falls — higher than the Empire State Building. Incidently, accommodation in the park is limited, and bookings have to be made well ahead.

TO NEW YORK

Finally to New York, more improbable than ever now you ride in by helicopter over the 100-storey stalagmites to land on a Park Avenue roof.

First I would take the boat trip round Manhattan, followed by a visit to Seagram's bronze building, a tour of UN headquarters, and dinner in my favorite New York restaurant — an automat.

Sunday, dull here as anywhere, would find me at the Museum of Modern Art, which opens at noon, lingering over the Chiricos, and listening to New Yorkers' conversation.

And then by jet to London.

Steady Chaps!

LONDON (CP) — Researchers studying stress on British transatlantic pilots discovered high points (almost double heartbeat and pulse increase) occur on taking off and landing and when the stewardess bends over them while serving midflight coffee.

Idyllic Alderney Seeks Inhabitants

ALDERNEY, Channel Islands (Reuters) — This old-time pirate lair, once a fortress under the Nazis and now an idyllic isle of freedom, would like 500 more inhabitants.

But they must be the right type — persons of independent means, preferably.

The nine-man Parliament decided that this number of settlers, raising the population of 2,000, would make the community "a more viable economic unit," and help preserve its distinctive way of life.

★ ★ ★

Alderney, northernmost of the four main islands in the English Channel, has no crime waves, no color bar, no party politics, and no industry, not even a parking problem.

Its unique liberties include the right of citizens to address its Parliament, provided they give due notice.

Other joys of the island life include almost 24-hours-a-day legal drinking, cigarettes and liquor at about half English prices, practically no property taxes, cheap gasoline, income tax at four shillings in the pound (20 per cent) and no succession tax or death duties.

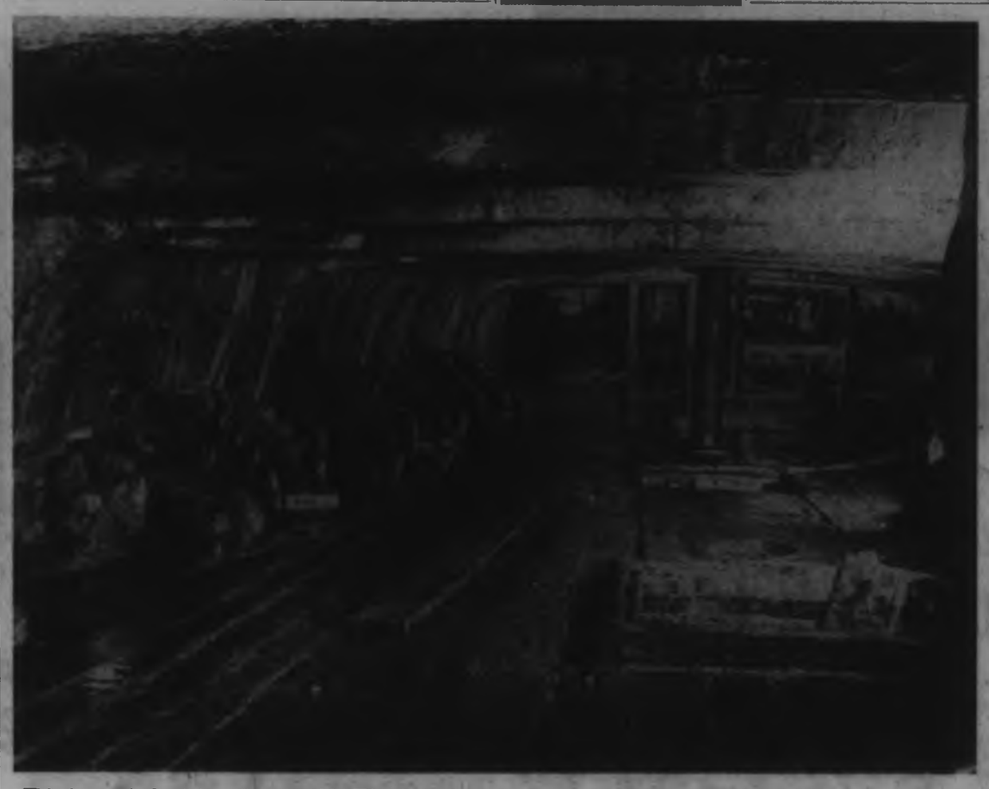
★ ★ ★

The scenery is beautiful, the climate sunny and the coast of France is only eight miles away.

Alderney would like to welcome artists, writers and potters among the new settlers.

RECEIVE LAVISHLY

The practice of holding lavish wedding receptions hasn't changed since Roman times; Emperor Augustus passed a law to limit their cost.



This is gundeck of Swedish warship Wasa which sank after launching in 1628. Ship was raised in 1961.

Mighty Wasa Now Major Tourist Attraction

Ancient Disaster Modern Triumph

By SCOTT AIKEN

STOCKHOLM (CNS) — A 17th Century national disaster is today a 20th Century triumph for Sweden.

On Aug. 10, 1628, the newly commissioned "ultimate" weapon of the Swedish navy, the regal ship Wasa, ignominously turned turtle and sank after sailing only 1,000 yards on her maiden voyage. A quarter of her crew of nearly 200 men went down with her.

For more than 300 years the 64-gun ship, the most heavily armed "battlewagon" of the navy of that day, lay forgotten on the bottom of Stockholm harbor.

Ten years ago a dedicated amateur archaeologist and naval engineer, Anders Franzen, discovered the hulk's location after much research and many test borings of the harbor bottom. Divers found the Wasa astonishingly well preserved.

It took five years to raise her to the surface, but now she stands in an aluminum shelter next to the Stockholm navy yard, where the destroyers of today's fleet are anchored.

Except for her masts and superstructure the oaken Wasa is intact. Hundreds of thousands of people gaze upon this 190-foot-long wonder of the past each year. Well over a million have seen her and visited the adjacent museum in the last four years.

★ ★ ★

One of the exhibits in the museum, which gives a picture of life aboard a 17th Century ship, is a reconstruction of a part of the Wasa's lower gun deck complete with one of the three 24-pound cannon salvaged with her.

The only real change from the original has been the raising of the overhead deck by eight inches to give the visitor more headroom.

The bronze cannon weighs two tons together with its wooden carriage. It had the long range for its day of half a mile when loaded with a 24-pound iron ball.

Ever since the Wasa surfaced in 1961, one of the major concerns has been to preserve her. If her water-soaked timbers were simply allowed to dry, they would crumble into dust. Thus for several years the relative humidity in her shelter was kept as close to 100 per cent as possible. The resulting artificial fog eddying eerily around the hulk cut visibility to a few feet.

Now, however, an automatic system of sprayers, many of them of the common lawn variety, has been installed to douse the Wasa about 25 times a day with a solution of polyglycol, the preservative which is gradually replacing the water in the ship's oak.

★ ★ ★

The engineer in charge, Lars Barkman, says the system is speeding up preservation. The process should be complete about 1970.

For the visitor the attraction of the system is that it has made it possible to reduce the humidity and dispel the fog so that the Wasa is visible from stem to stern.

A sight not to be missed is a 17th Century diving bell placed unobtrusively in the courtyard of the Wasa museum. It was used in the recovery of many of the ship's cannon.

One look at it will make clear the origin of the term "diving bell." It is an iron bell which held a pocket of air for the diver who stood with his head inside it and was lowered away into the depths.

TOSS GARTERS

The modern practice of throwing a bridal bouquet, and predicting imminent marriage for the maiden catching it, is derived from an earlier custom of throwing the bride's garter.

"Since we are going to be driving in Europe, we would like to know about distances in kilometers of miles, gasoline by the gallon or litre and road signs."

Road signs are in miles in Great Britain and Ireland. Kilometers on the Continent. You think in miles so multiply km. by six to get mileage — rough but close enough. Strike off the last digit. Km. 55 equals 33 miles. On the Continent gas is in litres. Roughly four of them make a gallon. Road signs are mainly in symbols. When you get your car, have them give you a sheet showing them. Or better, I got a transparent decal from the Royal Automobile Club in London. Shows all the signs and sticks in the lower corner of your windshield.

He says you can take a car ferry from Bari to Dubrovnik and drive good roads along Yugoslavia's beautiful coast. But don't take the Yugoslav ferry to Corfu — too costly. Ferry back to Bari and then ferry on to Corfu. Much cheaper.

Police Stop 901 Cars

Arrests, Summonses Road Block Aftermath

City police checked 901 cars in a massive roadblock operation Thursday night. Two people were arrested, 21 will be summonsed, and 358 warning tickets were issued.

One person was arrested for driving while under suspension, another for being intoxicated in a public place.

The checks were extensive. Licences, registrations and cars were carefully examined.

One person did not have his licence signed. Two hadn't signed their registration slips. They were given warning notices.

The most common offence was faulty licence plate illumination. Ninety warning notices were given for this, and 52 more for faulty brake lights.

Traffic Inspector Richard Berry said it was the first time the spot checks had been made in summer.

More are likely to follow "from time to time," he said.

Police worked in seven-man teams to check the cars. One team began at 6 p.m. on Hillside, moved to Rose and then to Douglas.

The other was stationed on Esquimalt Road between Tyee and Illahie. The blocks were withdrawn at 1 a.m.

Seven minors were located without insurance. Five people had no licences, four others were vollating restrictions placed on their licences.

They will all be summonsed.

People receiving warning tickets have 48 hours to get repairs made and have their vehicles rechecked at the police station.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Worried that the war in Viet Nam may escalate into World War III? That China may have a hydrogen bomb powerful enough to leave most of North America a crater? That Russia will put a man on the moon with a spacecraft loaded with atomic hand-grenades for lobbing on capitalistic capitals?

Forget it, there is a much graver danger to the insecurity of our insecure children. It is a diabolical plot, managed by "managed news," supported by some "misled" scientific foundations and permitted by "questionable politics."

It deals in mass deception aimed at frustrating and fooling the boys of North America. And Japan, too, for that matter. Unless Ernest Lowry, alone but courageous and determined, gets some help from advertisers, educators, legislators and just plain Moms and Dads, your children and your children's children are going to grow up to be duped generations.

It is an insidious thing, and one has to be alert to recognize what is going on in the face of the innocence in which it is presented.

Take Time magazine, for instance. Not many of you would have suspected that the four-and-a-half page cover story on Juan Marichal in the June 10 issue was part of this devilish scheme to undermine our youth for the sake of a lucrative mass deception. As a matter of fact, many of you probably brought the issue home for your boys when you saw the pictures of the Dandy Dominican on the front cover. It's just another proof that we parents are to blame for what isn't going right with the younger generation.

Oh, it was a fine story, no doubt about that. It told about the pitching of Don Drysdale, Sam McDowell and Sandy Koufax. It told that Bob Feller "struggled for years to perfect the sweeping curve which prolonged his career when the zip from his hummer was gone" and that Warren Spahn underwent "a slow but drastic transition during his 21 big-league seasons: from fastballer to curveballer."

Those items about Feller and Spahn were thrown in to point up just how different Marichal is by comparison with most pitchers. His best pitch has always been a fast ball but he is reluctant to use it because he believes it makes his work easier to rely instead on his vast variety of breaking pitches.

Nothing insidious, there, you say? Or in the interesting assertion by Dr. Lyman Briggs, a scientist at the U.S. National Bureau of Standards that the maximum possible sideways break of a baseball spinning at 1,800 revolutions per minute is 17 inches in the 60-feet, six inches which represents the distance from the pitching mound to the plate.

What kind of a parent are you anyway? Can't you recognize subversive literature when you see it? Don't you know by the very fact that you brought the magazine home, and probably started a Koufax-Marichal argument, that your youngster may get to believing that a baseball can be curved? You have made yourself an accomplice in what is probably the biggest mass deception in the history of the world, one which is prostituting our educational standards—something that could lead to almost anything when the young 'uns grow up. It's a good thing for us that Ernest Lowry is on the job.

I hadn't heard from him in some time and sort of wondered if he had been beaned by Camilo Pascual in the ball-flight research which is his life's work. It was reassuring when a missive arrived from Toronto, where his Ball-Flight Research is located, no more than a week after Time sprung that story on a largely unsuspecting public. Lowry has been fighting this thing for more than 15 years and, you can believe it, he is not about to give up.

He was irate, angry and fighting mad.

"This special bulletin," he mimeographed, "is being released in the public interest and is basically intended to assist North American advertisers, legislators, and others, to properly assess the astounding, international significance of the ball-flight article featured in Time (June 10/66)."

He went on from there—boy, did he go on. And who can blame him? He knows just what the odds are. He thought he had this whole matter licked away back in 1941, when Life ("published by Time") published some photographs which tended to show a curve ball was no more than an optical illusion. Then just when everything looked secure along came science in the form of electronics to shatter things.

"With the television era offering fabulous advertising expansion," he explained, "Life seems to have been under pressure to reverse its previous "curve" findings and published a " 'proof-of-curve' feature in 1953 claiming to show the 'curve' pitch as an established feat of organized baseball stars."

Lowry says he debunked that story and Time, Inc., threw in the sponge, temporarily at least, and let Sports Illustrated carry on a "Life face-saving policy."

Then Time went and stabbed him in the back earlier this month. But Lowry is resilient. He has sort of given up on the United States, Japan and Canada but his is a world struggle.

". . . other countries," he wrote, "may shortly be sternly denouncing any such falsities slipped into their academic institutions. This means the U.S., Canada and Japan can no longer control and manipulate world opinion in this matter."

But Lowry has some things going for him in Canada—such as the recent upset triumph of the Union Nationale in the Quebec elections.

"Meanwhile," he finished, rather triumphantly, I thought, "Time from its Montreal publishing office may have trouble getting Quebec's new government to put its neck into Ontario's noose of physics involving secondary schools."

So there, and now ask yourself if you can call yourself a parent if you let the boys watch that Los Angeles-Atlanta game this morning.

Litz, Carmichael, Wilcox Expected to Bolster Leafs

Litzenberger

Wilcox

By JIM TANG

"Very much so."

It was said in answer to "I guess it's safe to say now that we're in?" during intermission at the Shrine Circus last night, and it was the first official pronouncement that Victoria Maple Leafs will play at least a third Western Hockey League season.

Manager Buck Houle went on from there to draw an interesting picture of what Victoria hockey fans can expect when the Leafs gather for the opening of training camp on Sept. 26 to prepare for defence of the Patrick Cup.

And it certainly seems as if the Leafs will be well prepared to carry on with the same fine brand of hockey they displayed last season.

They lost centre John Sleaver to the AHL in the hockey draft. they need a goalkeeper, may have to do without defenceman Fred Hucul for a spell and could lose coach Frank Mario, but they are already a club which is almost set.

Classy Ed Litzenberger, who became a fan favorite last season when he filled in until Larry Keenan recovered from a knee operation, is expected to be Sleaver's replacement. And it looks at the moment as if Gary Smith, the young giant who played seven games here in the 1964-65 season and spent last season with Rochester, will be in goal.

But there's more. Rollie Wilcox, popular rookie rightwinger two seasons back, is returning and the Leafs are to get leftwinger Bruce Carmichael, who played the 1956-57 season with Victoria Cougars and last season scored 20 goals for Vancouver Canucks.

There's still more. Earlier fears that defencemen Claude Labrosse and Aut Erickson would play their hockey elsewhere next season seem to have been allayed, and both are now expected to return.

If they do, the Leafs are just about ready for the season. They will carry on with Sandy and Fred Hucul, Bill Shvetz, Labrosse and Erickson on a defence in front of Smith and have three tentative, and promising forward lines.

Back intact will be the Milan Marcetta - Bob Barlow - Andy Hebenton combination which last season scored 101 goals and it could be Keenan-Carmichael-Wilcox and Litzenberger-Dick Lamoureux-Mike Labadie for the other two attacking units.

But there will be competition for some of the forward positions. Still with the club are Lou Jankowski, Gordie Redahl, Dave Parenteau and Steve Witiuk. And Houle hopes to make a professional out of Mike Laughton, the big leftwinger who was at training camp last year and elected to play another season of amateur hockey with Nelson Maple Leafs.

LOW FIGURES

One or more of the group may go to another club before training camp but at least three will be here to try and convince their coach that they should be one of the 10 forwards kept.

"We certainly aren't discounting Lou (Jankowski)," said Houle, "He seems to score 30 goals at least every season and who knows when that will end."

The only fly in the ointment is the uncertainty still surrounding Fred Hucul and Mario.

MAY NEED OPERATION

Hucul was hampered most of last season by a back injury and has a disc condition. He will undergo corrective treatment in Calgary and if a fusion is needed won't be able to join the club until the first of the year.

In the event this happens, Houle hopes to get either Jack Chipchase, who has had two short tours of duty here, or Daryl Edestrand, who turned pro with Rochester for the playoffs last spring after playing the season with the junior London Nationals, as a replacement.

MAY STAY IN EAST

Mario singed a two-year contract with the Toronto Maple Leaf organization last year and is expected back. However, there is a chance that he will elect to take over as coach of the London juniors.

The Leafs will play a balanced, 72-game schedule next season — six home and away games against each of the other six WHL clubs.

Interlocking play with the American Hockey League, which had appeared certain prior to Thursday's special league meeting in San Francisco, was voted down by the WHL.

The AHL insisted on a merger within two years and while the WHL may finally form one league with the AHL it was decided not to make this definite at this time.

THEY PAID UP

The San Francisco meeting also settled the question of indemnity to other WHL clubs for the eventual loss of territory to the new NHL division.

The amount of the indemnity was not disclosed but it was agreed that if the Los Angeles NHL franchise eventually goes to Dan Reeves, as now seems quite possible, that San Francisco (Oakland) owners won't have to pay any indemnity to Reeves, owner of the Blades.

NHL REFEREES?

In another move Thursday, the WHL decided to seek a three-year agreement which would provide NHL referees as was done in the 1964-65 season.

And that's about it for now. The league schedule opens on Oct. 14, the Leafs get started at home the next night, a Saturday, and there is a chance that the WHL and AHL champions will meet in a post-season series.

LET'S LINE UP

The season-ticket sale, Houle said, will start about mid-July. By that time, Puch Imlach, Toronto manager-coach, will have come and gone and there should be nothing indefinite about the Leafs except, perhaps, the kind of fan support they will get.

Longden to Be Tested as Trainer

Reds Smash Giants While Pursuers Win

Cincinnati Reds are 9½ games out of first place, but at the moment they are the hottest team in the National League.

The Reds got their seventh win in a row Friday night when they bombed four San Francisco Giant pitchers and defeated the league-leading Giants, 12-1.

Catcher Johnny Edwards hit a pair of two-run singles to lead the Reds' hitting attack, and pitcher Sam Ellis, who had a nightmarish time during the early part of the season, held the Giants to six hits and recorded four strikeouts.

The Reds had just finished sweeping a three-game series from third-place Pittsburgh Pirates.

And the Pirates bounced back from that three-loss affair Friday by using their power to beat Philadelphia, 3-1. Pirates' three runs came on homers by Roberto Clemente, Jesse Gonder and Willie Stargell.

DODGERS MOVE

The Giants' loss allowed second-place Los Angeles Dodgers to move within 3½ games. The Dodgers beat Atlanta Braves, 4-0, as Claude Osteen and Phil Regan held the Braves to five hits.

Osteen and Atlanta's Wade Blasingame were locked in a scoreless duel in the eighth inning, but Osteen led off with a single, moved up on a sacrifice and Wes Parker's single, and scored on a single by Willie Davis. Lou Johnson drove in another run, and John Roseboro finished the Braves with a two-run single.

In the American League, lowly Kansas City Athletics beat Rocky Colavito and the Cleveland Indians, 7-5. Colavito drove in all five of the Indians' runs with two homers and a single, but the Athletics mounted a 15-hit attack against four Cleveland pitchers. Mike Hershberger led the Athletics with three hits and two runs batted in.

Elston Howard hit the first bases-loaded home run of his 12-year major league career to lift New York Yankees to a 5-2 win over Chicago White Sox.

Defending champion Minnesota Twins marked time by splitting a doubleheader with Detroit Tigers.

Bill Freehan drove in the winning run in the ninth inning as the Tigers won the first game, 2-1, but Zoilo Versalles knocked in four runs with a homer and a single and the Twins bounced back to take the second game, 9-2.

California Angeles edged Baltimore Orioles, 5-4, in 14 innings.

Wimbledon Play Still Backs Chart

LONDON (CP) — Margaret Smith, defending women's champion, and former title-holder Maria Bueno of Brazil both won their third-round singles matches Friday at the Wimbledon lawn tennis championships.

Both defeated United States competitors. Miss Smith, from Australia, beat Janie Albert 6-1, 6-2 and Miss Bueno, playing on the centre court, outclassed Tory Fretz 6-2, 6-0.

Three men advanced to the quarter-finals of the men's singles—sixth-seeded Dennis Ralston of the U.S. and unseeded Australians Bob Hewitt and Owen Davidson. The other five places will be decided today.

BEAT RUSSIANS

In women's doubles, Vicki Berner of Vancouver joined Mary Habicht of the U.S., to win a hard-fought, first-round match in women's doubles. The North American girls defeated Galina Baksheeva and Olga Morozova of the Soviet Union 2-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Other women who advanced to the final 16 in singles were Trudy Groenman of The Netherlands, Billie Jean Moffitt King, Rosemary Casals, Kathy Harter and Nancy Richey, all of the U.S., Annette van Zyl of South Africa and third-seeded Ann Haydon Jones of Britain, who is French and Italian champion.

Francoise Durr of France also remains in competition, having won her third-round match Thursday.

A strong, blustery wind made ball control difficult Friday, especially on the centre court where Ralston defeated Pierre Darmon of France 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4. Although Darmon brought off some fine passing shots, he made many errors.

Top-seeded Australian Roy Emerson plays Stan Smith of the U.S. today and Tony Roche of Australia meets Cliff Richey of the U.S., in games which qualify the winners for the quarter-finals.

Feldman Slips, Trapp Now Fifth

VANCOUVER (CP)—Al Feldman of Tacoma, Wash., slipped during the second round of the British Columbia Open Friday but still managed to hold a one-stroke lead.

Feldman, who fired a six-under-par 66 in Thursday's opening round, slipped to a 71 Friday. He blamed a wind and the frustration of slow tournament play in a field of 200 golfers.

Winnipeg pro Wilf Homenuik repeated his 69 round for 138, one stroke behind Feldman.

Al Mengert of Tacoma and Moe norman of Toronto shared third spot with 141. Mengert is defending champion.

Sharing fifth spot at 142 were Gord Fairburn of Pitt Meadows, B.C., Bdyron Wood of Eugene, Ore., Lyle Crawford of Vancouver, Alvie Thompson of Toronto and Vaughan Trapp of Victoria.

Trapp, assistant pro at Victoria Golf Club, had a 74, to go with his opening-round 68.

The top 100 of the 200 golfers —75 are pros and 125 are amateurs—go into today's final 18 holes. The cutoff score was 153.

Mengert also complained of slow play during Friday's round.

"The play is so slow that I lose concentration on what I'm doing," he complained. "I get all hot with a birdie and then sit down for 15 minutes waiting and get a bogey."

Norm Boden did most of the work at Heywood Avenue Park Friday evening as Carlings stayed in first place in the Senior "A" Men's Softball League by beating Luckies, 9-5.

Boden got four hits in four times at bat, and drove in five runs, three of them on a homer in the sixth inning.

He drove in the other two runs with a single in the four-run second inning. Carlings picked up their other two runs that inning on a pair of Luckies' errors.

Sooke, half a game behind in second place, gets a chance to move past Carlings into first place when the two teams play tonight. The game was postponed Thursday because of rain. It is scheduled for 6:45 p.m. at Heywood Ave. Park.

Clay to Defend

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay will meet Karl Mildenberger Sept. 10 in a world title fight at Frankfurt's 79,600-seat soccer stadium, the German boxer's manager said Friday night.

Western Lead Held By Blancas, Zarley

CHICAGO (AP) — Homero Blancas and Kermit Zarley, two former golf teammates at the University of Houston, shot identical two-under-par 69s Friday to share the second-round lead in the $100,000 Western Open.

Their half-way total of 140, two under par on the Medinah Country Club's No. 3 course, put the former collegiate stars one stroke ahead of U.S. Open champion Billy Casper.

Casper, defending Western Open champion, slackened to a one over-par 72 after an opening 69 for 141.

NOT HAPPY

Casper was one stroke ahead condition of Medinah's rough.

The rough is unfair, he said. "It's a shame it was allowed to get so in a national tournament such as this.

"Our PGA field team recommended a two-inch rough but Medinah Club officials let it grow right up to the fairways four inches high.

ARNIE TWO BEHIND

Casper was on stroke ahead of Tommy Bolt, the first-round leader, and Arnold Palmer, trying to shake off the effects of his collapse before the rallying Casper in the U.S. Open last weekend.

Bolt, who opened with a 68, wrenched his back on the sixth hole Friday and plodded on to a 74.

Palmer produced one of the day's four sub-par rounds with a 70 for his 142 total.

West Indies Defeat Counties

NORWICH, England (Reuters) — West Indian cricketers achieved victory by an innings and 33 runs over the Minor Counties on the final day of their two-day match here Friday.

Helped at times by some friendly bowling, the Minor Counties second innings total reached 211, with chief contributions coming from Norman Cooley 44, Martin Naslin 66 and a former England Test batsman, Bill Edrich 61.

Results of Friday's cricket matches:

West Indians beat Minor Counties by an innings and 33 runs. Minor Counties 65 and secondly 211; West Indians 309 for 8 declared.

Glamorgan vs. Cambridge University. Glamorgan 186 for 4 declared and 2?? for 6; Cambridge University 180 and 118 for 6. (Match drawn).

Andretti Breaks Mark But So Does Foster

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., defending United States Auto Club champion, drove his rear-engine Ford around the Atlanta Raceway at a record-shattering 169.014 miles an hour Friday to lead qualifying for Sunday's $80,000 championship 300.

Andretti's time, which broke A. J. Foyt's record of last year, was slightly below his prediction of 170 to 173 m.p.h.

Seven other drivers qualified Friday, including Billy Foster of Victoria, also bettering Foyt's mark.

Foster, driving a rear-engine Ford, qualified at 166.769 miles an hour.

Foyt, who set the qualifying record of 166.512 last year, will take his turn on the 1½-mile track today with the remainder of the 56 entries vying for the 30 positions.

JALOPY RACES

My first acquaintance with Muirfield, where the 1966 British Open Championship is to be played next month, was in 1935. The place terrified me then and nothing has happened since, though I'm now 30 years older, to make me revise that opinion.

Golf courses are like seaside resorts. Some you go back to year after year knowing that you're going to enjoy every minute of your stay. Others you detest from first sight.

Muirfield, for me, is at the very foot of the second category. It reminds me of nothing more than the bitchiest of landladies serving up cold potatoes and nagging about shaving soap on the bathroom floor. The explanation, of course, is that I've never done well there.

I flopped in my first Open there in 1935 because, at 19, I still had everything to learn about the game. My best effort was in the 1948 Open but, even then, I could finish no better than 15th.

Between then and the next Muirfield Open, in 1959, I had won the championship myself. But even that confidence booster failed to lift Muirfield's spell. I went back there and gracefully disappeared from sight.

* * *

You will gather, then, that I'm not exactly a fan of the place. I've always rated it, however, as one of the truly great golf courses of the world and it is with almost a tinge of masochism that I shall set off up to Scotland to have my fourth shot at the Open at the home of the Honorable Company of Edinburgh Golfers.

Masochism is hardly too strong a word as news has reached me that, far from making the course easier this year, they have actively worked like beavers to make the place nearly impossible.

Jimmy Logan, head greenkeeper for the past 17 years, was under strict orders to make the course a true testing ground and he set about his task with satanic relish. Since the start of the year not a single drop of water has been hosed on to the greens—they will be as fast as an ice-rink.

That, in itself, is disturbing enough. But it's what they've done to the fairways—NOTHING—that will make Muirfield a nightmare.

The rough has always been murderous there but in these past months they've actually let the grass grow in to such an extent that at one bottle-neck point the fairway is exactly 20 feet (I repeat, feet not yards!) wide.

Believe me, you're going to read some heartbreak stories before this 1966 Open is over.

Under the old conditions, for example, you could settle for three-off-the-tee if your drive at the 7th was even a yard off-line to the left. The jungle grass was so deep in that gully that I always used to expect to meet some Japanese sniper down there asking if World War II was over yet.

You could hardly get a nine-iron down there, let alone stand any reasonable chance of getting a controlled shot on the fairway.

* * *

What it's going to be like under these new "tougher" conditions I would prefer not to contemplate.

The whole idea of the campaign, of course, is to cut the big brute hitters— the Nicklauses and the Palmers—down to size. You have to be long, but you have to be straight.

Of all the courses that didn't need to go to these lengths I should have thought Muirfield was the primary example. Golf-scores the world over have improved in the past 30 years. But not at Muirfield. Despite the improvement in equipment and new big-hitting trends the old place has taken a consistent toll.

The records prove it. Alf Perry's four-round score when he won the title there in 1935 was 283. It hasn't been bettered since. Henry Cotton was 284 when he won it in 1948. Gary Player's was exactly the same when he won the Muirfield Open of 1959.

In my own most successful Open there, coming 15th, my rounds were 75, 71, 74, 74—appalling by today's standards but quite sufficient in those conditions to put me in the pocket-money for being only 10 shots behind the champion.

Muirfield, then, is already keeping plenty of the world's leading professional golfers awake at nights. Victory in the British Open this year will be worth, in prize money, perks, advertising rights and equipment-endorsements, not less than £25,000.

Next week I shall sharpen up my punter's pin and review the men I think have a chance of winning it. For now let me say that whoever it is, it won't be a penny too much!

Ottawa Makes Plans For 1967 Grey Cup

OTTAWA (CP) — If things go right for the Saturday, December 2, 1967, Grey Cup football game it will be like this:

● A new stadium will be packed with 32,000 fans who haven't had trouble finding accommodation.

● The contending teams will take to a dry field in wintry-but-pleasant weather with the temperature about 22 degrees.

If things don't go right . . . Well, no one here is thinking too much about that. Those involved already have started work to try to ensure things go well for the first Grey Cup in Ottawa since 1941.

League officials since have ruled Ottawa out as a future Grey Cup site because of the unpredictable weather.

Other Grey Cup cities have demonstrated a similar inability to control the weather. The game has been played in mud deep enough for a hippopotamus to wallow, snow enough to make an Eskimo feel at home and fog so thick it stretched one game over two days.

While the post-war Grey Cup has become more than a football game, growing into a week-long bust-out that included selection of a Miss Grey Cup, banquets and a mammoth parade, Ottawa has continued to be ruled out because of a small stadium and lack of facilities.

The city still can't do anything about the weather, except to look at the records for Dec. 2 over the last 74 years and note the average 22-degree temperature and the chance of just a trace of snow.

But Mayor Don Reid says the things that can be done to run off a slam-bang centennial year Grey Cup will be done.

"We intend to do the job properly. We're the capital and we want to show it."

FIRM STAND

Just back from the Canadian Football League meeting in Winnipeg that voted to give the 1967 classic to Ottawa, Mayor Reid said:

"We have a year and a half to prepare and we intend to use it."

A stipulation in the approval is that the 32,000-seat stadium — which would hold about 10,000 more than present facilities at Lansdowne Park — will be ready for 1967. The mayor promised it would.

"I think we're finally being recognized as one of Canada's major cities," he added. If the 1967 Grey Cup went off well there would be "a very definite possibility" the city would get the game in a regular rotation with Toronto and Vancouver.

The mayor's first job will be to appoint a chairman and a committee to start civic planning for Grey Cup Week.

Mayor Reid told the Winnipeg meeting there are 1,700 hotel rooms in Ottawa and 1,550 motel units. A new motel with another 450 units would be ready by September, 1967. Additional accomodation is available in Hull.

SPECIAL PROBLEMS

Manager Miles Craston of the Chateau Laurier, the city's biggest hotel, already is thinking of those special problems that only arise at Grey Cup time — what to do with the boisterous Calgarian riding the horse in the lobby, for instance.

"We'll roll up the rugs, I guess, and let them go to it."

Cricketers To Face Big Sunday

"Nothing ever happens in cricket," is a criticism frequently heard.

But the annual Albion Cricket Club's six-aside tournament, scheduled for Sunday, provides a resounding reply.

Last year the day-long tournament saw 724 runs scored and 39 wickets fall. Incogs, who play in the first match Sunday at 11 a.m. against Alcos, won the J. R. Mainwaring Trophy.

In the six-aside competition, each player except the wicket keeper bowls one over. There is a one-hour time limit.

Oak Bay plays Albion II at 12 noon Sunday. Then it's Castaways I against Albions I at 1 p.m., and Castaways II against Cowichan at 2. Final is scheduled for 5.

Dorman Win Creates Tie

	W	L	Pct.	GBL
William Head	7	4	.636	—
Kings	7	6	.538	1
Dormans	7	6	.538	1
Nelsons	4	9	.308	4

Friday's score: Dormans 11, Kings 1.
Next games: Nelsons vs. William Head, doubleheader, Sunday, William Head, 12 noon.

Dormans got four - hit pitching from Pete Plotnikoff and banged out 11 hits of their own to beat Kings, 11-1, in an IAA Softball League game Friday at Central Park. The two teams are tied for second place, a game out of first.

Suspensions Rile Percival

TORONTO (CP)—Lloyd Percival, whose career as a track and field coach may have been scuttled by allegations that he administered drugs to amateur athletes, returned to Toronto angry and in fighting form Friday.

"I am meeting with my lawyers today . . . and have instructed them to work for a complete vindication — whatever that means," Percival, 50, said.

He was in New York when the registration committee of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada announced the suspension of three athletes and a coach Thursday and made the decision that may stop Percival from coaching amateurs again.

Without mentioning his name, the committee said the Don Mills Track Club, where Percival has been coach for nine years, may not use a professional coach again.

Under AAU rules track clubs must receive special permission to use a professional coach. The AAU classes Percival as a professional.

Two - week suspensions were imposed on Bob Meldrum, coach of the Toronto Tigerettes, and athletes Nancy McCredie of Brampton, Susan Nigh of Markham and Peter Boag of Toronto.

They admitted taking the stimulant dexadrine while members of the Don Mills Club when they appeared at an AAU hearing into the allegations made by half-mile runner Bill Crothers.

Gilbey's discover amazingly tall mixed gin drinks in Kenya

Gilbey's London Dry is used to make giraffe-size mixed gin drinks in Kenya.

IN KENYA the sun scorches all year round. So wise Kenyans mix amazingly tall mixed gin drinks with Gilbey's London Dry. They choose this gin because its perfect balance gives a fresh, clean tasting drink. And perfect balance is what you need when you're sipping a Gilbey's Treetop Special perched atop a giant fig tree.

Gilbey's Treetop Special

In the Kenyan jungle near a waterhole there is a miniature hotel perched atop a giant fig tree. Guests are able to sip a Gilbey's Treetop Special while observing wild game drinking at the waterhole. The drink is a mixture of orange, lime and lemon juices along with Gilbey's London Dry Gin, sugar and soda water.

Khotso's Spell

Another long and very tall Kenyan cooler is named after an African witchdoctor. The reasons for this are somewhat obscure since the witchdoctor, Khotso Sethunza lives in Pondoland. But he is a millionaire which may have helped his case somewhat. The drink is a simple mixture of fresh orange juice and Gilbey's London Dry topped up with ginger ale.

You can rely on Gilbey's London Dry, a perfectly balanced gin that gives you a fresh, clean tasting drink. This gin is an international favourite, sold in 92 countries. It's been made by the Gilbey family for 109 years.

SINGLE UNIT CONSTRUCTION NOW FROM AMERICAN MOTORS!

When Rolls-Royce announced that it would build its new Silver Shadow model with monocoque construction we blushed —with pride. We've used the same technique for years— except that we call it Single Unit Construction. The body and frame on all our cars are welded together into one, single, solid unit for tremendous strength and safety. It's only one of the advanced engineering features you get from American Motors today— features others won't offer you for years to come.

Engineering leadership is the extra value you get from American Motors. Years-ahead features. Built-in quality from drawing board to finished car. For example:

Double Safety Brakes. Not just one braking system, but two. If one set ever fails, the other stops you safely. (Double Safety Brakes have been an exclusive feature, at no extra cost, on all our models since 1962. Some other manufacturers have now announced that they will adopt this feature—but not until their 1967 models.)

Ceramic-Armoured Exhaust System. Not just sheet metal alone, but a ceramic-armoured coating exactly like the nose cone of a space rocket. Resists heat, corrosion, wear—season after season.

World's best rustproofing. All our cars get a "bath." They're deep-dipped up to their rooflines in rustproofing compound six separate times. Then they're dipped again in primer and given a separate spray coat of primer. Then come three gleaming coats of Lustre-Gard super enamel. You get a beautiful finish and long-lasting protection from the ravages of rust.

Most powerful standard engines in their classes. Swift, smooth, seven-main-bearing sixes. Powerful, virile V8's. Take your choice.

Widest range of seating options in the industry. Luxurious reclining seats (buckets, if you want). Armrests and adjustable headrests. And fine-furniture coil springs in all our seats in all our models. (Only one other North American car offers this—and it's in the luxury class.)

Fibreglass roofliners and double door seals. A far cry from flimsy fabric roofliners and single door seals. Noise stays out. Drafts, winds, chills can't get in.

Attention to detail. American Motors offers the durability of plastic kick panels, all-metal rear-deck shelves, even ashtrays that roll out on ball bearings. Small details, yes—but they add up to overall quality.

Beautiful luxury fittings. A big, big selection! All the power equipment and features you want. And floor consoles. Thick-cut pile carpeting. Wire wheel discs. Walnut interior paneling. Houndstooth Check fabric. New vinyl patterns. Exciting styling in top-of-the-line Ambassador DPL, Rambler Rogue and Rambler Rebel.

New car quality. We believe that quality is what you build in—not what you add on. We build quality into all our cars from the beginning. We take the time. We take the trouble. We always have. We always will.

Used car quality. The exclusive quality and features that we build into our full line of cars mean that an American Motors used car is a better value and a better buy.

Garden Notes

Wanted: Walls!

By M. V. CHESNUT

The fact that houses have only four outside walls I find extremely frustrating at times, for there are so many excellent wall shrubs and climbers I would like to grow, and no more walls on which to grow them.

This frustrated feeling reaches an all-time high every time I visit a certain friend of mine who has the lovely Magnolia grandiflora growing as a wall shrub in an angle where south-facing and west-facing walls come together forming a sheltered sun trap. While this plant is actually a tree—this is the Magnolia of the Old South—my friend has trained its branches to stretch out horizontally along the two walls, producing each year in July and August a profusion of huge, waxy, ivory-white blooms 10 inches across.

I am well satisfied with the present occupant of our east-facing wall—the lovely climbing rose Mermaid, with single-flowered blooms in pale yellow almost the size of a saucer—but if only I had another east wall, I could grow Garrya elliptica as a wall shrub. Garrya is evergreen, blooming in midwinter, and the trick is to get the male form which has much longer and finer catkins than the female.

Like the evergreen Magnolia grandiflora, it is worthwhile to give Garrya a little winter protection for its first couple of years in the form of a plastic curtain draped against the wall.

The Camellia lends itself admirably to wall culture, and being evergreen, it looks good all year round. The trick here is to grow it against a west-facing wall, for the greatest danger to Camellia blooms is the morning sun falling upon flower buds which have taken a bit of frost during the night.

A west wall, shaded from the morning sun, gives the buds a chance to thaw out slowly. I should warn you, though, that the soil at the foot of a west wall tends to become very dry in summer, so your wall-trained Camellia will need plenty of spongy organic matter in the soil to retain moisture, plus occasional deep watering, plus a surface mulch of half-rotted leaves or peat moss.

For a south or west-facing wall, I could go for Ceanothus in a big way. Not the leaf-losing kind like Gloire de Versailles, for lovely as they are, their habit of growth is more like a lilac, not quite suitable for training against a wall. My choice would be one of the evergreen kinds like Sierra Blue or Impressus, with small shiny green leaves and rich blue blossoms.

These evergreen varieties of Ceanothus are just a little on the tender side, needing the protection of a warm wall for the most reliable performance. Fortunately, they thrive under the knife, and for best results their flowering side shoots should be cut hard back as soon as the annual display is over.

Our old friend Japonica, the Flowering Quince, responds also to close pruning and makes a most satisfying wall shrub. Being perfectly hardy, Japonica may be grown on any wall, even one facing north, although it seems to have a mild preference for morning sun. You have to take into consideration the color of your wall, though, for the bright red, crimson and orange-scarlet blossoms are wasted against red brick, although set off to perfection against a white or cream wall.

The Bignonia or Trumpet Vine is another plant I crave if only I had another big south-facing wall. This is a showy tropical vine bearing huge orange-red trumpet flowers in September. B. radicans is the hardiest and most reliable here, but if you like to live dangerously, plant B. grandiflora, which has much larger and more imposing flower clusters.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Baubles Fringe Benefits

NEW YORK (NANA) — Richard Burton, as you may know, never sees his movies. But he did see Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? The rough cut. Elizabeth Taylor nagged him until he did because she thought he was very good. When you see the film you will find him more pale than he is in real life. He used a wax on his face to give him the pallor of a professor. Richard usually gives Elizabeth a present at the start of every picture they make together. For "Virginia" she received a beautiful diamond bracelet with the clasp in the shape of a cat's head. She had a matching brooch for Taming of the Shrew. Coming up: a diamond necklace for her walk-on role as Helen of Troy in Doctor Faustus. How can Liz ever retire and forego these fringe benefits?

★ ★ ★

If you really want to get close to Sean Connery or David McCallum and Robert Vaughn — and I'm addressing the ladies — they are selling bras in England featuring four faces of James Bond, two on the left and two on the right. And stockings with cutouts of David and Robert. They look like tattoos.

★ ★ ★

Frankenstein in a comedy? He wouldn't be believable. And that's what his agent told devilishly handsome Christopher Lee who has portrayed all the horror men — Frankenstein, Dracula, Rasputin and Fu Manchu. We will soon be seeing him as the latter in Brides of Fu Manchu. He has 12. They just don't live very long.

★ ★ ★

Michael Caine has to make 12 pictures, for his discoverer, Harry Saltzman. Harry gave Michael his first big break in The Ipcress File. "And I'm not complaining about anything," says Mike. Unlike other producers who sign unknowns for small salaries, then hold them to the contract when they make good, Saltzman shares the loan-out loot with Caine. That is one reason why the actor is not complaining.

★ ★ ★

This is how the women are taking over. Princess Ira Furstenburg, who is starring for De Laurentiis in Matchless, and who has been married and divorced twice, told me, "I hate to stay late at parties, and I'd rather go with a boring man who will leave when I want to go, than with a handsome entertaining man who wants to stay forever." I know what she means.

★ ★ ★

Marlon Brando never forgets an injury, real or fancied. When an American magazine dispatched it's top photographer to London to take some pictures of Marlon on the set of The Countess from Hong Kong, Brando said, "No, I'm suing them." I wondered what happened to that suit. It was over what reportedly took place on the set of Mutiny on the Bounty.

Angela Lansbury and Bob Holiday were both in a shoe shop, both buying dancing slippers. "Are you 'Mame'?" said Holiday. When she said "Yes," he replied, "I'm Superman." The customers all looked up.

George Jessel, holding court at 21 for lunch, told me he will leave for Israel at the end of the week, for the dedication of the John F. Kennedy memorial—250,000 trees planted in the name of JFK.

SYDNEY HARRIS Scorns Censorship

Obscenity Laws Bad

The U.S. Supreme Court last month struck down the federal obscenity conviction of a Nashville man and wife who took nude pictures of each other and received prints through the mail.

It indicates how asinine obscenity laws are if a husband and wife cannot take any pictures of themselves they care to take and have the prints sent only to themselves. Surely the law against sending "pornography" through the mails was not passed to stop this kind of thing, foolish or vain though it might be.

And this is the whole trouble with obscenity laws. They never stop at any reasonable point, but pursue their way to the peak of the ridiculous.

In his new book, Fresh Every Morning, Bishop Gerald Kennedy writes: "I have come to the conclusion finally that censorship is wrong and that it raises more questions than it solves." And, recently, even the Catholic Church has done away with its famous "index" of banned books, on the sensible grounds that it is more useful to instruct the public in what it should read than to fulminate against those books it shouldn't read.

All censorship is negative — and negative injunctions have never prevented anyone from doing anything bad he wanted to do. "Thou shalt not kill" is the most ignored commandment in the Decalogue: nations punish their citizens for killing, but then turn right around and kill their enemies with a clear conscience.

Only by training young people how to care for others (and such training must consist largely in setting an example) can we stop killing; and, likewise, as Bishop Kennedy says, "only by raising the tastes of all men so that the filthy and obscene will have no appeal" can we do away with pornography.

If most people continue to read junk, what difference does it make if the junk is pornographic or not, for even non-pornographic junk deadens the mind and the spirit.

Moreover, censorship, besides being ineffectual because it does not go to the roots of human motivation, by its very nature is totalitarian and continually wants more and more under its control.

It is a form of political persecution, and does not recognize any legitimate limit to its goals—just as the Nazis, who began with repressing the Communists, could not rest until every element in society was shackled.

It seems to me that we have to fear from the militantly censorious than from the married couples who take nude photos of each other, presumably in preference to staring at nude photos of strangers.

Mr. Croesus Blackballed

By CHARLES McCABE

The man who likes to be called the richest man in the world, J. Paul Getty, is a helluva guy, according to his "official biographer."

Ralph Hewins writes that Getty "could master anything which can be learned, having an enormous capacity for concentration, insatiable curiosity, and an uncanny memory and limitless ambition.

★ ★ ★

"He is interested in engineering, production, distributing, marketing and finance; law, history, writing and languages; geology, archaeology, zoology, surveying or navigation; music, operatic singing; ballroom dancing or art; airplanes, ships, buildings or real estate; boxing, weight-lifting, lawn tennis, swimming, motoring, horticulture — even his own appetites."

That such a paragon should be found unworthy of belonging to a club is rightly near past belief. It is true, unhappily. There are some clubs which just don't know any better. One of them is the Circolo Della Caccia, an exclusive Rome hunt club. This outfit recently gave the richest man in the world the old blackball.

★ ★ ★

I see Mr. Getty in London at certain big affairs from time to time. He's about the world's worst ad for money. His expression is incorrigibly doleful, as though he had just had his pockets picked.

The snub delivered to Getty has been the talk of the town in England and on the continent this season.

"It's no deprivation to me," said Getty. "I am quite happy to have been rejected. Had I joined I would probably have only gone there three times in the next 15 years."

★ ★ ★

He added, as if that were not enough: "Anyway, I rarely go to clubs. I'd rather put my feet up at home.

Now I suggest this is all very good stuff. Is it not true that us common folk are all spiritually enriched when a chappie who likes to be called the richest man in the world acts like a big fat booby?

Getty belongs to that particularly ungratiating class of millionaires who likes to have it both ways. He hires flacks to call him the richest man in the world, and beefs because of the great number of begging letters he gets.

Getty is an adroit fellow, and his press agents, too. Shortly after the blackballing the Getty propaganda apparatus let the London Sunday Express in on the real reason for the foul deed.

Seems that when Roman

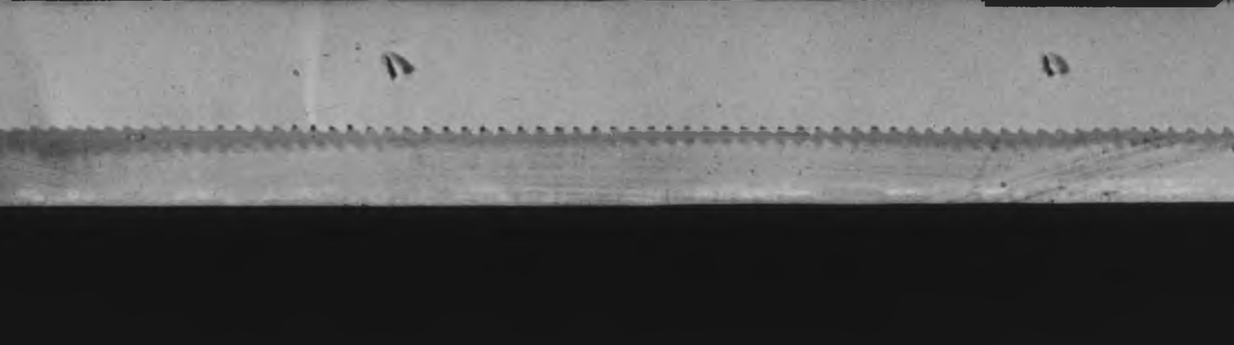
society learned Getty was to buy a home in Italy, there was some warm sales competition among the Italian aristocracy, who are no richer than they should be.

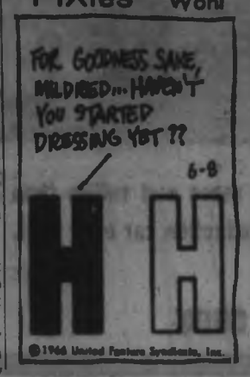
It was Prince Ladislao Odescalchi who landed the account. He leased a villa near Rome to the oil magnate for five years. This caused some bitterness among the unlucky ones. Some, in fact, felt snubbed. They began a social campaign against Getty, which culminated in the blackballing.

★ ★ ★

The members are now reported, by Getty's friends, to be very sorry for their action, and are just aching to have Getty join them in their innocent frolics.

Getty himself is not now talking; but I'm betting he will yet warm his feet before the elegant fireplace of the Circolo Della Caccia. Money isn't everything, but it helps.





Flight of the Phoenix

Emotions Exposed

By WILLIAM THOMAS

Classical mythology has given the screen and the theatre some of its finest moments but the Phoenix theme has not been subjected to the overexposure that has dogged Electra and Orpheus.

Flight of the Phoenix, now playing at the Royal Theatre, has a tenuous hold on the theme of the mythical Egyptian bird which was fabled to live 500 years, die by fire and then be reborn from the ashes.

In this instance this Phoenix turns out to be a battered old oil company plane with more flying hours than a Bald Eagle. The plane, piloted by Jimmy Stewart, crashes in the Sahara during a sandstorm.

Stewart plays a burned-out pilot with as many hours in the air as the shattered plane. His navigator, Richard Attenborough, is an alcoholic and contributes to the loss of the plane.

Attenborough steals the acting honors from James Stewart and a cast that includes Peter Finch, a stiff-upper lip British officer, Hardy Kruger, an airplane designer and Ernest Borgnine a demented oil driller.

Heat, sand, dust, privation, erode the stranded men's morale and add to the tension.

TENSION TIGHTENED

A suicide and a grisly throat-slitting by a band of Arabs only serve to screw the tension tighter.

The closing sequences, when the Phoenix is reborn by airplane designer Heinrich Dorfmann, have a slick twist which I will not spoil for you here.

You really must see Flight of the Phoenix. It probably is the most comprehensive look under the microscope at male emotions you will get to see in a long time.

'Inactive' Seymour Going to Berlin

LONDON (CP) — Lynn Seymour, the elfin Candian ballerina, is leaving the Royal Ballet after nine years, for the Berlin Opera House.

While she was in her early 20s she was hailed by critics here as a successor to the great Margot Fonteyn.

Now 28, she said: "In the past I have been given wonderful opportunities — but not recently."

"For some time I have felt there wasn't much future for me here. Since last October I have danced only 15 times. That's less than once a week. In three years I have created only two new roles — the thing I love doing most.

"It's not only unsatisfying artistically, it doesn't give you a chance to develop."

"In Berlin we shall be doing two full evenings of new ballets every year," she told an interviewer. "I am a little sad at going and leaving a lot of friends. But I am far more excited at this wonderful opportunity."

Trainer Horne

Drugged Meat Suspected

Tigers, Lions Too Sick to Act

All 10 of the big cats performing in Victoria with Rudy Brothers' Circus were seriously ill Friday night after eating what was believed to be drugged horse meat.

★ ★ ★

Their trainer, Capt. William Horne, said he first noticed something wrong during the Friday afternoon performance.

"The tigers were slipping and staggering," he said, "and one of the lions couldn't keep its balance."

By the time of the evening performance, most of the animals were too sick to go on and Capt. Horne found it necessary to cancel his act.

"We have 10 carnivorous animals in the act and all 10 of them got sick at the same time," he said. "This means that only two things could possibly be responsible — the water or the meat."

Since the other circus animals all drank the same water — but are vegetarians — Capt. Horne is certain the meat is to blame.

"I was directed to a man in Vancouver whom I was informed was a reliable source of good government-approved meat. I paid 28 cents a pound for the quantity I got.

★ ★ ★

How could drugs have found their way into the meat?

Capt. Horne had this suggestion: "One humane way of killing a horse is to inject it with a large dose of barbiturates," he said.

"If the dose is too large, it somehow gets into the meat and when another animal eats it, poisoning results."

The animal trainer was concerned that his animals get proper care. "I have called a local vet," he said, "but the doctor has never handled this sort of animal. Nobody can help me."

★ ★ ★

Late last night he conferred by telephone with a Seattle veterinarian skilled in the care of jungle cats. "If necessary, we'll simply have to fly him up here to treat them. In the meantime, we're pouring as much milk into them as they'll take."

★ ★ ★

As for the possibly tainted meat, Capt. Horne said samples had been turned over to the local veterinarian for analysis and that reports should be available Monday.

"If the tests are positive, I'll have plenty to say to that Vancouver dealer."

Provincial Voters

Sign-Up Drive Starting

A massive voter registration campaign will be started in Greater Victoria next week, Registrar of Voters John Smallwood said Friday.

Voter registration booths will be manned in about 40 stores throughout the region and some 80,000 people will receive notices through the mail that their names are already on the lists, he said.

It was also announced Friday that the provincial cabinet had appointed registrars of voters and their deputies for the 48 new electoral districts approved during the last session of the legislature.

ELECTION STAGE

The cabinet order quietly set the stage for British Columbia's next provincial election, although Premier Bennett has given no indication there will be one this year.

An amendment to the Constitution Act approved by the legislature stipulated that the new provincail constituency boundary changes would come into effect when a writ is issued for a general election.

HOLDS POST

But another statute allows the government to proceed with the electoral changes before the election writ is issued.

The cabinet order indicated that Mr. Smallwood will remain registrar of voters for the new electoral districts in Greater Victoria, and that Michael Carroll will remain as deputy registrar here.

OPEN MONDAY

Mr. Smallwood said an advertisement in Sunday's Colonist will list about 40 registration centres which will open on Monday.

Meanwhile, new voters' lists have been drawn up for Victoria, Esquimalt, Oak Bay and Saanich and the Islands, and some 80,000 cards are in the mail to advise people their names are on the new lists.

'ON, UNLESS . . .'

The card will inform people that: "Your name will remain on the voters' list for the electoral district indicated, unless any change of status or address comes to my notice before close of registration for any provincial election. If there is no change, it will not be necessary for you to re-register."

Eligible voters who do not receive the card through the mail should go to one of the registration centres and fill out an application form, said Mr. Smallwood.

STUDENT-MANNED

"We should go over the 100,000 mark, provided there is a good response to the campaign," he said.

The registration centres will be manned mostly by students from the University of Victoria.

Premier Bennett has said he will not announce an election on Aug. 1, when the Social Credit government celebrates its 14th birthday in Kelowna.

SEPTEMBER CALL?

But there has been speculation that he might shortly afterward call an election for mid-September. The last provincial election was Sept. 30, 1963, and the government does not have to return to the people for another mandate until September, 1968.

Couple Steers Missing Craft Onto Shore

Operators of the Island View resort said the missing boat was located early this morning. Mr. and Mrs. John Wood managed to steer it ashore, out of gas, on the East Saanich Indian reserve.

A young married couple was missing hours after they sailed from Island View Beach in a leaky boat early Friday evening.

John and Ursula Wood, of 7022 East Saanich Road, left the resort at 7 p.m. Friday, and had not reported back by midnight.

"They should have come in long before this," said Mrs. Nick Grabas, one of the resort operators.

'TRIED TO PATCH'

She said the couple had set out in a "leaky" 14-foot fibreglass boat "which they had tried to patch" Thursday.

The Woods have a nine-month-old baby, Stephen, which they had left for the evening with Mr. Wood's mother, Mrs. Muriel Wood, of the same address as the couple.

'NO SIGN'

"We've been scanning the waters, but there is no sign of them," Mrs. Grabas said in a telephone interview.

Central Saanich Police were called to the scene just before midnight to train a pair of night glasses on the water in the hope of sighting the couple.

U.S. Vessels Open Sunday

Two U.S. Navy destroyers, the Marshall and the Twining, guests of Pacific Maritime Command in Esquimalt this weekend, will be open to the general public Sunday between 1 and 3:30 p.m.

Clothes Still Locked

The Colwood launderette remained locked up Friday and so did a Colwood woman's washing, despite the bailiff's efforts.

"Those clothes will be rotten, they just can't be any other way," said Mrs. Gorynne Goodman, 617 Kildew.

She had left two washerloads of clothes including her husband's work pants in the laundry on Monday. Tuesday she was unable to get them because the laundry had been closed by the owners of the Colwood Shopping Plaza.

IN ANTI-ROOM

"As a result of the story in Friday's Colonist the bailiff Kenneth Higgs called me Friday morning. He arranged to meet me at noon, but when we got there the clothes were locked in an anti-room, and he didn't have the key.

"One of the owners of the laundry arranged to meet the bailiff so that they could both go in at the same time. My husband was there at the arranged time of 6 p.m. and so was Mr. Higgs, but no owner.

"The owner couldn't get there until 8 p.m. and the bailiff left and said he could not return until Monday. So now I'm stuck without my wash until Monday at least."

Optimists Plan Joint Meeting

Convalescent Hospitals Suggested

New Look at Old Problem

By TED PULFORD

Victoria's acute hospital bed shortage would be greatly eased—and money would be saved—if an entirely new approach was taken to the problem.

So said a busy city medical man Friday in response to a Daily Colonist report that outpatient operation services might be curtailed if hospitals continued to lose money on the procedures.

In this city, at the present time, only two types of hospital care are available from major hospitals. A patient is treated in an acute-care hospital such as Royal Jubilee, where the rate is almost $27 per day; or in certain cases, treatment may be obtained in the Gorge Road Rehabilitation Centre at a per-diem rate of about $15.

The answer, said the doctor, is the construction of new, cheaper convalescent hospitals instead of the tremendously expensive acute-illness hospitals currently being used.

In the majority of cases, the doctor pointed out, intensive care is required by a patient for only a small proportion of the time he lies in hospital.

Most of his stay could be spent safely and comfortably in a convalescing unit without elaborate equipment and huge, highly-trained staff.

★ ★ ★

The doctor sees his plan working this way:

● A patient is admitted, say, for an emergency appendectomy and the operation is over within 24 hours.

● For the next day or so, he receives all of the intensive care for which an acute-ailment hospital is equipped.

● Though on the mend, the patient may not be well enough to go home for several days. When the period of routine convalescence begins, he is moved to a nearby convalescing hospital, where he remains until his final discharge.

★ ★ ★

Many savings would accrue, the doctor believes.

In the first place, average length of stay in the intensive-care hospitals would drop sharply, allowing the greatest possible turnover of patients.

The result would be an immediate reduction in waiting lists — which now top seven months for elective surgery — and possibly the release of more space for desperately needed expansion of out-patient departments.

Also of prime importance would be a considerable reduction in the cost of hospital care for each patient.

Gorge Road Hospital administrator William Morrison said Friday that costs per patient-day in his hospital ran at about $15.

The daily rate in a good convalescent unit would be significantly less than this, he suggested.

★ ★ ★

"I have no way of knowing precisely, but certainly something between $10 and $15 per patient per day would cover it," he said.

Both the five and 15-year hospital expansion plans submitted in Victoria recently failed to make provision for convalescing units.

"Certainly this would be a most desirable and economical extension of our services," Mr. Morrison said.

"Convalescing patients do not require nearly the level of sophisticated care available to them in the acute hospitals we now have."

★ ★ ★

The idea, desirable as it is, is far from new. Mr. Morrison said convalescent hospitals — or special wings for this purpose — are used advantageously throughout the world.

Why not here?

Mr. Morrison wasn't sure. "It leaves a big hole in our program, though," he said.

It is understood that legislation, at any rate, is not a serious problem. Convalescent hospitals are provided for in the act governing operation of the British Columbia Hospital Insurance Service, but the specific proviso has not yet been implemented.

Saanich Festival

Band, Berries And Ice Cream

Saanich municipality will hold an at-home Sunday at Beaver Lake for all strawberry fanciers.

The strawberry festival, beginning at 2 p.m., will include all the trappings of an old-time harvest festival, such as gallons of ice cream, mounds of berries and the rousing strains of band music.

★ ★ ★

The festival is part of the Saanich Diamond Jubilee celebrations.

"We're holding open house, and it's all free," said jubilee committee member Leslie Passmore Friday.

He said special provision has been arranged for aged and infirm residents. Chairs will be available to them at the Beaver Lake grounds, and special chartered buses will transport them from the various shopping centres to the lake.

★ ★ ★

Departure times of buses: from Burnside Shopping Centre, 1:30 p.m.; Town and Country, 1:40 p.m.; Royal Oak, 1:50 p.m.; Shelbourne Plaza, 1:30 p.m.; Seaview, 1:45 p.m.

★ ★ ★

The buses will leave the festival grounds at approximately 4 p.m.

Songhees Chief Swipes at Navy

By JIM BRAHAN

The navy is unfair to give Esquimalt fire protection when it refuses similar protection for our reserve, thundered Songhees Chief John Albany Friday.

"We pay for protection from the View Royal volunteer fire department, and it is good protection too, but we pay for it," he said.

"I thought I could save the band a little money if I could have the navy fire department protect us. After all we didn't refuse them the right-of-way through our property so they could get to Munro Head.

"They have refused each time I have asked for the protection."

Chief Albany said in his opinion Esquimalt should have a separate fire department.

"Their police department is the best, but how can they be good policemen if they have to be firemen too?"

Blooming Baskets Bar Cars

Overnight parking in downtown Victoria has been banned so that 615 hanging baskets can get their nightly drinks.

The ban follows a complaint from city parks administrator W. H. Warren that it was "extremely difficult" for his men to cope with the nightly task of watering the flower baskets because of the number of parked cars.

Police said warning tickets would be issued at first to offending vehicles.

The city's business area is not clearly defined, but it covers, roughly, the area between Belleville and Herald, Quadra and Government.

Year-Long Course Headed by Anderson

Adult Centre Offering Art Program

By JOHN MATTERS

Victoria's new Institute of Adult Studies will offer a fine art and commercial art program when its doors open in September.

It was announced Friday that a one-year, daytime course will be taught by the Victoria School of Art as part of the institute. The course will be given in Lansdowne campus buildings soon to be vacated by the University of Victoria.

John Dalgleish, Greater Victoria School Board's director of adult education, has appointed artist David J. L. Anderson as head of the art school.

Mr. Anderson is well-known for his Deep Cove Art Centre, local night class instruction and other artistic contributions.

★ ★ ★

H. Alan Batey, principal of the adult institute, said provision of facilities for teaching the basics of fine and commerical art was one of the objectives of the organization.

He said one objective of the Victoria School of Art would be to give direction to young people seeking a useful and rewarding career — an alternative to potential school dropouts.

The school is anxious to provide an education opportunity for those caught in what he described as "the economic squeeze." It will also help youngsters decide if their future is in the arts.

The school will be equipped to qualify those already determined to pursue art studies at higher academic levels. This means the Victoria School of Art's foundation course may be recognized by universities and established art schools.

In addition, the school will offer refresher courses for professional artists, and open its doors to amateurs seeking non-credit training for their own satisfaction.

Present plans envision a workshop type of operation in three large areas, one devoted to fine art instruction, another to commercial art and a third to graphics. Sculpture facilities will be added when feasible.

Fee structure is basically the same as for the institute's senior matriculation, secondary school completion and post secondary courses $250 for a 32-week year.

Mr. Dalgleish also announced formation of the nucleus of an advisory council for the new school. This will include Lloyd Clarkson, chairman of adult education for Greater Victoria School Board; Colin Graham, director of the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria; Tony Emery, professor of art history at the University of Victoria; Mr. Anderson and Mr. Dalgleish.

Provincial President At Ganges

Mrs. C. W. Smith, president of Provincial Chapter, IODE, was the guest of HMS Ganges Chapter when members and their guests met in the Shamrock Room of Harbour House for the annual dinner meeting. The tables were attractive with candles and flower arrangements, together with crests of the Order.

★ ★ ★

A special vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Laurie Mount who fashioned the corsages which were presented by Mrs. E. A. Richardson to Mrs. Smith and the regent, Mrs. F. K. Parker.

Following a short business meeting in the lounge Mrs. Smith gave a comprehensive resume of the national annual meeting which she attended in Montreal. A question period followed when Mrs. Smith explained various aspects of IODE work and also showed samples of sewn and knitted articles which are shipped to needy areas both at home and abroad.

★ ★ ★

While visiting Salt Spring Island Mrs. Smith was guest of Mrs. T. W. Portlock, Booth Bay Resort.

Mrs. Colin King, services secretary, received donations which will be sent to Riverview Thrift Shop.

Miss Janet Purcell, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Purcell, will take part in the Florence Clough Centennial Revue at McPherson Playhouse on June 27 and 28. The talented young dancer will receive a teacher-training course in the Royal Academy of Dancing taking place in Vancouver, July 2 and 3.

McPherson Playhouse will be the setting Monday and Tuesday for a Centennial Dance Revue by students of the Florence Clough Dance Studio. Proceeds of the revue, which will start at 8 p.m. each performance, will go toward bursaries for future ballet students. Practising one of the many numbers for the big night are from left to right, front row, Susan Blades, 11, and Vicki Troughton, 12; in centre, Joy Hewitt, 14, in ballerina costume; back row, Helga McInnes, 11, Elaine McKinney, 12, Bobby-Lou Foster, 12, Debra Clough, 13, Eliza Zuhling, 11, and Linda Murray, 12.—(Robin Clarke Photos)

Women in Business

Competing Days Long Past

EDMONTON (CP) — Women in business should not feel that they have to be as aggressive as males to get ahead, three women in business agreed.

Bette McCracken and Mary Inkster, both of Toronto, and Connie Scott of Winnipeg were in Edmonton for the annual convention of the Canadian Federation of Advertising and Sales Clubs.

Women belong in the business world, they agreed, and the time when women have to compete with men to prove their superiority is long past.

Miss Scott, a public relations representative with an electronics firm, said:

"It's a shame that women just as soon as they reach an executive capacity feel that they have to become just as aggressive as men, just as hard-bitten and cold.

"It puts the cause of women back. That's one reason why men hesitate to put a woman into an executive position. They think, 'Oh no, I don't want that over top of me.'

"I remember when I was in a position to have several girls working under me. I used to bend over backwards not to act like that because I used to have a couple of women bosses like that."

Miss McCracken, who owns her own direct mail agency in Toronto, feels that women are inclined to take things too personally. If an idea is rejected or criticized, women take this as a personal affront, she added.

Miss Inkster, a copywriter for a Toronto advertising agency, said women like Charlotte Whitton set the cause of women back politically at least 10 years.

"And unfortunately, too many of our women in politics are this kind," she added.

All three felt that women should be able to retain their feminity in the business world and they also felt that women should not use their femininity.

"Five, 10 years ago, that may have been necessary, but not any more," Miss Inkster said.

They agreed that the time when women have to compete with men to prove their superiority is long past. Women belong in the business world just like men, they said.

"Women have certain strengths but they need men for certain qualities," said Miss Scott. "Amalgamated we are strong; separated we are weak."

The three said many of the major cities have separate ad and sales clubs for men and women, and the women see no reason to unite with the men. They added women feel that the clubs separately can be much stronger than if they were united, although they do co-operate with each other on projects.

Candlelight Ceremony At St. Mary's Church

Large baskets of white gladiolus, carnations and Esther Reed daisies flanked the altar at St. Mary's Anglican Church, Oak Bay, for the lovely candlelight ceremony in which Carole Louise Johnson became the bride of Mr. John Anthony Frederick Elliott.

Canon Hywel Jones performed the double-ring wedding for the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Roy Arnold Johnson, 3045 Uplands Road, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Charles Elliott, 2345 Hamiota Street.

During signing of the register the boys' choir sang Purcell's Westminster Abbey.

★ ★ ★

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in an exquisite couturier gown of silk peau d'ange enhanced with Alencon lace. The floor-length sheath was enriched by a lace encrusted bodice featuring a sabrina neckline and lily point sleeves and a full chapel train swept back from the fitted waistline. A tiny pillbox headdress caught her mantilla style lace bordered veil of pure silk illusion and her only jewelry was a diamond pendant, gift of the groom. She carried a white prayer book topped with gardenias and stephanotis.

★ ★ ★

Empire style, floor-length gowns of Canton blue peau de soie and hand-clipped chantilly lace were worn by the bridesmatron, Mrs. E. Robert Davies, bride's sister, and bridesmaids, the Misses Susan Brown, Louanne Elliott and Sandra Lee. Complementing their gowns, which were designed by Jean Patou, the attendants wore matching peau do soie bow style headdresses and carried cascade bouquets of white glamelias. The flower girl, Miss Sharon Neilsen of Quesnel, was in a similarly styled gown and carried a colonial bouquet of white glamelias.

Mr. David Ockendan was best man. Ushering were Mr. Ward Stephens, Mr. Peter White and Mr. E. Robert Davies.

Dr. William Trenholme proposed the toast to the bride at the reception which followed in the Royal Victoria Yacht Club. Mr. Reginald Stone entertained at the organ.

For her going-away ensemble the bride chose a Nina Ricci original dress suit, double breasted style in white bkn and blue, highlighted by a sapphire blue brooch. She wore a picture hat and navy accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott are spending their honeymoon cruising among the Gulf Islands aboard Mrs. Elliott's sloop, The Maverick.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Stensbol and Dr. and Mrs. Keith Stensbol of Eugene, Oregon; Mr. and Mrs. John Young, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Bryden, Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Burden, Miss Alison Rice, Mr. Ed Toth and Mr. Dennis Stewart, all of Vancouver.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a secretary who would like to say a word to Minnie, the cleaning woman. Her job is to clean, isn't it? So what is she beefing about?

And what on earth is a secretary supposed to do with orange peels, apple cores, pencil shavings and paper cups? There are no garbage cans in our office and the wastebasket is the only place to dump these items. Maybe Minnie thinks we should carry the trash home with us. And what business is it of hers if we leave shoes under our desks?

Now about turning off the copying machines. Please tell Minnie (and all other overly interested cleaning women) to keep their pea-pickin' hands OFF this equipment. Modern copying machines will not wear out if they are allowed to run continuously and electricity isn't THAT expensive. The copying machines in our office are supposed to be left on because it is more costly and time-consuming to start them up every day than to keep them running.

If Minnie would pay more attention to the dirt in the corners and the mop marks on the walls she wouldn't have time to find fault with the secretaries. — FILE FOR FUTURE REFERENCE.

Dear File: I have heard from hundreds of secretaries and what I hear makes sense.

O.K., Minnie, how about it? What ARE secretaries supposed to do with orange peels and apple cores and paper cups when there are no garbage cans available?

And now about those copying machines? I checked a half dozen office managers and four said they turn off the machines at the end of the day. Two said they leave their machines running continuously. So, to be on the safe side, the cleaning woman should not touch the equipment. Are you listening Minnie?

★ ★ ★

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married less than a year and both our families think we are the happiest couple on the face of the earth. They don't know the half of it.

Am I unreasonable to expect my husband to treat me with the same common courtesy that he would show a customer or the woman next door? He walks in front of me, steps on my feet, lets doors slam in my face, and interrupts me whenever he wishes to speak.

We argue a lot (in private, of course) because when I call his attention to his rudeness, he gets mad and says I am a fault-finder and a nagger.

I love my husband very much and sometimes he is so wonderful and sweet that I forget all about the bad days. But when he is rude and inconsiderate, it ties me up in knots. Please help me, Ann. — TRYING.

Dear Trying: Try this experiment for 24 hours. Refrain from saying even one critical word to your husband. If he steps on your foot, say, "I hope you didn't hurt yourself, dear." When he lets a door slam in your face, say, "I'm sorry I didn't let you know I was behind you, dear." When he interrupts you, say, "Go ahead, dear, what I have to say can wait."

You will soon make him aware of his rudeness, but without carping or criticism.

If you ARE a chronic nag (and I'll bet you are even though your nagging may be justifiable), the alteration in your behaviour is bound to have a favourable effect on him.

MIZPAH COURT

Mizpah Court, No. 2, Order of the Amaranth will hold a garden party on Wednesday, June 29 from 2 to 4 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Hilda Atkinson, 300 Fraser Street. There will be a home baking stall.

Valerie Tysoe Feted At Bridal Showers

Several showers and pre-wedding parties have crowded the social calendar of Miss Valerie Tysoe whose marriage to Mr. Amato Fantillo takes place today.

Mrs. Pat Fantillo, sister-in-law of the groom-elect, entertained at a miscellaneous shower at her home in Duncan for Miss Tysoe.

Carnation corsages were presented to the bride-elect, her mother Mrs. J. F. Tysoe, and the groom-elect's mother Mrs. M. Fantillo.

Gifts of linen were hidden in a hamper decorated in Hawaiian leis for the linen shower given by Mrs. J. Dohan and Mrs. V. Smith at the Beach Drive home of the former.

Mrs. J. B. Roberts, Mrs. W. Trenholme and Mrs. A. Acres entertained at a cup-and-saucer shower for Miss Tysoe at the home of Mrs. Roberts, 2745 Beach Drive.

Rose corsages, made by Mrs. R. Spilsbury, were presented to the bride-elect, her mother and two grandmothers, Mrs. J. E. Tysoe and Mrs. C. Welchman.

Miss Tysoe was entertained at a luncheon given by Mrs. T. Allens and Mrs. J. Roe at the Moss Street home of Mrs. Allen.

Miss Anne Wallace and Mrs. R. Campbell entertained at a dessert and coffee party and kitchen shower combined, at the home of Mrs. J. Wallace, 2720 Dunlevy.

Mrs. A. E. Walters and daughter Wendy entertained the bride-elect, her mother Mrs. J. F. Tysoe, and her attendants, Mrs. Patrick Zanichelli, Mrs. Ryan Campbell, and the Misses Pat Tysoe and Linda Wagner.

Mrs. Smith Honored

Brownies and Guides of Camosun North District held a mother and daughter banquet recently at the Glasgow Street Scout Hall.

Mrs. H. J. Smith, retiring district commissioner, was presented with a corsage and book ends from the Guides, Brownies and Ladies' Auxiliary.

Vancouver Man Studies Little-Known Marsupial

By JULIE CLARK

What is a wombat?

A young Vancouver man who has just returned from Australia is one of the world's authorities on wombats.

Mr. Bill McLaren spent three years at Monash University, Melbourne, doing his PhD on the conservation problem posed by this small and relatively unknown member of the marsupial family, Vombatidae.

The wildlife zoologist, his wife, Nora and their infant daughter, Dorothy, were passengers aboard P & O Orient liner Oriana, which docked in Vancouver harbor Wednesday evening.

"The wombat was really a natural for me. I'm especially interested in marsupials and conservation of course is always an important problem. The wombat is one of the most peculiar marsupials, it looks something like a groundhog," Mr. McLaren said.

The wombat is a shy, gentle animal unless provoked to give a healthy bite with its incisor-like teeth. Various species of the family live in Tasmania and southern Australia and differ slightly in fur texture and color and head structure.

They not only eat grass and roots, but also the contents of farmers' vegetable patches and this is why wombats are losing popularity and consequently decreasing in numbers.

Just because an animal is a pest Mr. McLaren does not feel it should be exterminated.

"The wombat is part of the esthetic environment. He was here first. All creatures are a part of the natural system and until we know what part they play we shouldn't try to do away with them."

He explained that the word conservation means "the wise use of natural resources."

"As long as you have wild country you'll have wild life. The trouble with many of the animals in Australia is that they are losing their natural habitat, due to the encroachment of civilization."

The kangaroo and koala bear are losing their habitat and it is necessary to rehabilitate them. The Australian Government is using Phillip Island, near Melbourne, as a conservation site.

★ ★ ★

Mr. McLaren, who worked with the British Columbia Game Department after graduating from the University of British Columbia, feels that the Australians are working at conservation but they have a long way to go.

Although most animals are starting to hold their own, Mr. McLaren says the pig-footed bandicoot is fast disappearing.

For the naturalist Australia presents fascinating material.

★ ★ ★

"Whereas we only have one marsupial on the North American continent, the opossum, there are many families of marsupials in Australia, anything from a mole to a kangaroo. The major characteristic of the marsupial, of course, is that the young are carried for some time after birth in a marsupium or pouch, on the underside of the female."

★ ★ ★

Marsupials are found mainly in Australia, Tasmania, New Guinea and South America.

Exactly why they stayed in these areas and the reason for their differences from other mammals is still being studied by experts.

The McLaren family will be staying for a few weeks in Vancouver before going to Montreal where Mr. McLaren will take up an assistant professorship in Zoology at McGill University.

Mr. William G. Mathers, 1039 St. David Street, announces the forthcoming marriage of his daughter, Patricia Ann, to Mr. Terrance F. Ward of Vancouver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Ward, Campbell, Calif. The wedding will take place Saturday, July 2, in Ladysmith. The bride-elect is a 1966 graduate of UBC with a bachelor of science degree in nursing.—(Campbell of Vancouver)

Beech-Mellors

Bride Designs Own Gown

White gladiolus decorated First United Church for the wedding of Katherine Eileen Mellors, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Patzer, Cedar Hill Road, and Raymond Henry Beech, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harry Beech.

Rev. Marvin Fowler performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride was lovely in a floor length dress of crystal peau she had made herself. Lace applique was at the neck and hemline and on the train. A veil of pure silk flowed from a coronet of seed pearls and crystal. Her string of culture pearls was a gift from the groom and her gold heirloom ring was a gift from her grandmother.

Mrs. Steve Merriman was matron of honor and Mrs. Dennis Morris, bridesmatron. They wore knee length dresses of apricot crystal peau with matching headpieces and their circular pearl brooches were a gift from the bride.

Miss Paula Patzer was junior bridesmaid for her sister and wore a dress of apricot and white crystal peau. Flower girl Joy Woods was in white with an apricot colored head piece. Their silver bracelets were a gift from the bride.

★ ★ ★

All carried bouquets of white Shasta chrysanthemums tied with apricot ribbon.

Ring bearer was Master Gordon Coutts, the bride's cousin.

Mr. Bob Holness was best man and ushering guests to the pews were Mr. Steve Merriman, Mr. Jim Mellors, Mr. John Richardson, Mr. Russ Ashworth and Mr. Bill Greenwell.

A reception followed at Schofield Hall where the bride's table was centred with a three tiered cake made by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. K. Coutts and decorated in apricot by Mrs. Herta Munroe. Mr. Harold Harrison proposed the bridal toast.

Leaving to spend a honeymoon in Banff, the new Mrs. Beech wore a turquoise Italian linen suit styled with floral lapels, matching hat and beige accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

★ ★ ★

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

On your birthday, you might guess both the black queens on a hand like this. But if you plan carefully, you can bring in the slam the other 364 days of the year, too.

Having received a positive response to the Big Club, showing 9 points up — including 1½ quick tricks—South could have made one of several bids on the next round. The best bid to make in a situation like this is one that shows your high-card points, since chances are you can show distribution later. Following this principle, South rebid one no trump to indicate exactly 19 or 20 points. Later, when North bid clubs, South shot the slam without giving the defenders any more information.

Vul: Both

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
1 N.T.	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
6 ♣	All Pass

Opening lead: Diamond five

West still found the best opening—a diamond—and declarer took the ace. To avoid guessing for queens, correct strategy was obviously to aim at eliminating the red suits, so that if a trump trick had to be lost, the opponents might be forced to open up spades. For maximum safety, such an elimination has to be carefully planned.

Win the diamond opening and play just one round of trumps—the king. Cash the heart winners, pitching a diamond from dummy. Ruff a diamond in dummy, come back to the spade ace and lead a trump, finessing dummy's jack if West plays low. If—on a different layout—East produces the club queen, that will be the last trick for the defence, for East will have to return a spade or yield a ruff-and-sluff. On the actual layout, the trump finesse wins and declarer can afford to lose a spade trick.

WHAT DO THEY MEAN
I'M GETTING BIGGER
Houses don't grow. Everybody knows that, but there I was just sitting as pretty as could be on my ½ acre of landscaped garden, when I heard my owners say that I was getting too big for them. What with my four big bedrooms and my den and living room and separate dining room, honest, I haven't grown an inch in 30 years. I am starting to look pretty good though, with all those peach trees growing over my stately veranda with the big granite pillars. Seeing as how they don't want me why don't you call the swell realtor who's going to find me a new owner and come and see me.

A JEWEL OF THE GULF ISLANDS
A different world of natural beauty awaits you on Piers Island just five minutes away from Swartz Bay and the Saanich Peninsula! Careful planning has resulted in only a limited number of lots being offered for sale each year. Lots average approx. 100x200, all with waterfront and priced from $3,800 to $4,950. In addition, at $9,500, we have a spacious family cottage offering magnificent views of the San Juan and Gulf Islands. From your property you can step onto the 120 feet of beach. As a member of the Piers Island Association you can enjoy the added amenity of 150 acres of wooded parkland donated to the property owners in perpetuity. OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — For the first time this late in the year in as long as anyone in the agency can remember, the State Highway Department today issued a pass report.

Man-Made Plant

'Phone Number' Rice Holds Asia's Future

MANILA (AP) — A short, grass-like rice plant with a name like a telephone number—IR8-288-3—may hold one key to Asia's food problems.

IR8-288-3 is practically a man-made rice plant. It was designed by a team of 22 scientists from seven countries working at the International Rice Research Institute in The Philippines.

The scientists have tailored it from the institute's seed bank of 10,000 seeds, representing every known type of rice in the world.

GROWS FASTER

It is built to suit the tropical conditions of Asia. It is tougher, grows faster and gives three to four times as much grain as traditional strains which have been cultivated for centuries in Asian paddies.

Scientists have yet to prove that it is virus resistant. If it survives this test in the next few months the rice men figure they will have gone a long way toward filling Asia's granaries.

The scientists, who represented the top skills of such rice-growing countries as Japan, Formosa, India, Ceylon, The Philippines and Australia, drew up a blueprint for a rice plant suited for the tropics.

It had to be short so that strong monsoon winds wouldn't blow it over; it had to produce more rice and less leaf when fertilizer was applied; it had to have stiff leaves to catch sunlight, a surprisingly short commodity in the tropics during the cloudy monsoon season. Finally, it had to resist disease.

BIG YIELDS

Yields at the institute farm have been enormous — nearly 200 tons of rice on a one hectare plot (2.47 acres) in 384 days.

The averag Asian farmer is lucky if he gets 50 tons in the same time.

The rice men are quick to point out that their harvest came in three crops whereas the Asian farmer grows one or two.

Also, they say, their farm management techniques and use of fertilizer far exceed what the average farmer can be expected to apply or learn quickly.

Chinese Start Purge By Executing Youth

Thousands of fist-waving Chinese cheer verdict in Peking gymnasium as Yang Kuo-ching, 19-year-old epileptic who stabbed an East German diplomat's wife and a journalist from Mali, is escorted by guards to awaiting firing squad. He was convicted by Supreme People's Court not only of stabbing, but in words of vice-premier Chen Yi, of being symbolic of "overthrown exploiting class elements, a mere handful of people, unwilling to step down from the stage of history." Observers predict long summer of similar purges and executions.

Supplies Building Up

All-Sooke Champion Back This Year

By NANCY BROWN

Clayton Stewart, the Tasmanian logger who last year beat Canadian loggers at their own game, will be back in Sooke on July 9 to defend his title as best all-round logger, in the Canadian championships at All-Sooke Day.

All-Sooke Day, which began as a community picnic 30 years ago, is expected to attract 10,000 people this year.

To feed the hungry throng, Sooke Community association, under its president Frank Gray, is laying in supplies which include more than 1,000 pounds of beef and 24 cords of alder wood to cook it, about 1,000 spring salmon and the ingredients for a giant batch of clam chowder — about 140 gallons in all.

BARBECUE PIT

A pit is being dug in Sooke Flats, where the huge picnic and loggers sports are held each year. The pit measures 20 feet by four feet by four feet, and 24 cords of alder wood will be burned there the day before the picnic. By midnight Friday the hot coals will be ready, and huge chunks of beef in burlap sacks will be laid in layers of sand on the smouldering embers.

The salmon will be split and cooked above fires of green alder, as the Indians have cooked salmon for years.

Tony Sullivan of Sooke will have mixed feelings during the giant celebrations. For 30 years he has helped to make the clam chowder, under Hugh Campbell and Harry Slack, and later as head cook.

LAST YEAR

"I think that this will be my last year with the clam chowder," he said. "After 30 years I think some of the younger fellows can take a turn."

The picnic has, through the years, followed the same pattern, growing all the time, until in the words of secretary Robert Waters, "We have a bear by the tail and we can't let go."

This year some 200 local residents will be involved in the preparations.

Starting with children's races at 12:30 p.m., the pace and excitment will grow through the baby show and the loggers's sports, building to a climax with the high-rigging and tree-climbing competitions, on a 90-foot spar tree.

Ardiel and Jubiel Wickheim will renew their perennial battle for the Canadian log-birling championships. This year Ardiel will have a good luck mascot — his new daughter Ingrid.

The Daily Colonist cup will be up for competition in the ever-popular tug-o'-war category.

Entries for all the competitions, including the women's nail-driving contest, will be taken on the grounds.

The money raised at the giant community effort is used within the community. The community hall, heart of most activities from the Women's Institute to the Boy Scouts and square-dancing clubs, is subsidized from this source.

Story Just Grew

Mamie's Groom Will Inherit No Millions

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Reports that Lee Meyers, the young baseball pitcher married to actress Mamie Van Doren, 32, will inherit $2,000,000 were denied by the boy's father, says the Dallas Times Herald.

Meyers was with Dallas-Fort Worth of the Texas League until assigned to Lodi of the California League this week.

The Times Herald quotes Meyers' father, Paul Meyers Jr., as saying:

"This story has got out of hand. There's no estate, there's no $2,000,000. His grandfather is still living."

Paul Meyers Sr., 80, was supposed to have decreed $1,000,000 inheritance to Lee at age 21 and another $1,000,000 at age 30.

* * *

"I don't know how the story got started," Paul Meyers Jr. said. "We hoped people would just forget it, that it would all go away and figured it would just stir things up to deny it at first."

Lee Meyers, 19-year-old southpaw, was en route to Fresno and couldn't be reached.

Lee's father said the "whole story probably began when we told him not to let money consideration affect his baseball career."

"We told him to forget about money and concentrate on pitching. Somehow this got translated into Lee telling his friends he didn't have to worry about money and it went upwards from there."

U.S. Senate

Safety Bills Passed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate struck Friday at slaughter on U.S. highways by passing bills to impose mandatory safety standards on new autos and to improve roads and drivers.

After less than a day of debate, it first approved 76 to 0 a bill to direct the commerce secretary to set new-car safety requirements by Jan. 31, 1967, and permanent standards a year later.

LARGE PROGRAM

Later it gave no-opposition passage to a companion measure to authorize a three-year, $465,000,000 program to help states and cities carry out measures to reduce highway hazards and raise the level of driving competence.

These plans would include driver-education programs, improvements in auto-inspection systems, highway design and traffic control, plus tighter enforcement of traffic laws and identification of high-rate accidents sites.

Both bills were sent to the House of Representatives where committees are working on similar legislation and are expected to approve a single, omnibus bill.

Ruby's Words Vital

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Jack Ruby's first words to police after he fired a fatal bullet through Lee Harvey Oswald's vital organs were the issue Friday in the condemned nightclub operator's plea for a new trial.

Ruby's lawyers and lawyers for the state of Texas also argued about whether widespread press coverage of Oswald's slaying Nov. 24, 1963, and the selection of jurors who saw the killing on television denied Ruby a fair trial.

A three-judge court of criminal appeals took the arguments under advisement for a probable fall decision.

WORDS VITAL

What Ruby said, how he said it and under what circumstances are vital, both sides agreed, in showing whether he acted with malice. Murder with malice is punishable by death in Texas. Murder without malice is not.

A Dallas jury found Ruby acted with malice and assessed the death penalty March 14, 1964.

Oswald, identified by the Warren commission as the assassin of President Kennedy, was killed two days after the assassination.

ON JAIL FLOOR

Assistant District Attorney William Alexander of Dallas told how Ruby was handcuffed and wrestled to the floor of the basement in the Dallas police headquarters.

"While lying on the jailhouse floor, he said, 'I hope the son of a bitch dies.' Then on the elevator he said, 'I had to do it, you guys couldn't . . . ,'" Alexander said.

Ruby's lawyers tried to show that key prosecution testimony relating to malice was not based on Ruby's spontaneous statements, as it must be under Texas law.

The Purge

Convulsions of China Complex, Kaleidoscopic

By David Oancia
(Copyright 1966, The Globe and Mail)

PEKING — Violence is characteristic of all revolutions and China's "current great proletarian cultural revolution" is no exception.

Yang Kuo-ching, 19-year-old epileptic executed for slashing two foreigners with a heavy butcher's knife was victim of this violence. But his death was only one facet of an incredibly complex and kaleidoscopic struggle now under way in China — a struggle Communist rulers have launched in a determined bid to ensure purity of purpose of the regime they established 17 years ago.

Vice-Premier Chen Yi describes Yang's attack on foreigners as a manifestation of the deathbed struggle of "the overthrown exploiting class elements, who consisted of a mere handful of people" unwilling to step down from the stage of history.

"The dictatorship of the proletariat in China is today incomparably powerful and consolidated," he told diplomats this week.

Warning Word

"Any counter-revolutionaries daring to engage in scheming and disruptive activities will certainly meet with annihilating blows."

In that sentence Chen seemed to warn opponents of the Communist regime to watch their step — no mercy would be shown for anyone who openly or violently plots against the system.

Through Yang's trial the rulers also sought to reassure foreigners that the Chinese do not hate them and that Yang's attempt to undermine friendship with the rest of the world failed completely.

Yang's execution, as I have said, is but one tiny facet of the convulsion that this nation of 700,000,000 is now going through.

Swift Moves

In three short weeks purges have been announced of the Peking Communist party committee branch, Peking and Nanking universities, two newspapers and a magazine published by the Peking committee, newspapers in Yunnan and Chinghai provinces, the Peking branch of the Communist Youth League, the Shanghai Conservatory of Music.

Among the prominent people swept out of some of their offices were Peng Chen, formerly first secretary of the Peking branch and once one of the six top leaders in the country. Some diplomats report being told by party leaders that no decision has yet been made on whether Peng will be ousted from his politburo post, but it appears virtually certain that his authority has been reduced.

These purges have been followed by massive demonstra-

Four Dead, Eight Saved From Smouldering Mine

ELSA, Yukon (CP) — Fire still smouldered in the No Cash silver mine Friday after taking the lives of four of the 12 men trapped inside for 16 hours before they were brought to safety.

Mine officials said all eight survivors were in good condition although two or three remained in hospital.

Identification was fragmentary as survivors, rescuers and officials at the scene rested from their long ordeal. Don DeLaporte of Yellowknife, N.W.T., general manager of United Keno Hill Mines, the owners, identified the victims as:

Joseph Worobec of Elsa.

D. Jurcec of Elsa.

V. Atamanchuk, who is understood to have a sister in Edmonton.

John Vincze of Elsa.

No hometown was given for Atamanchuk.

WELL VENTILATED

The survivors, some of whom waited out the fire in a well-ventilated drift, were listed as G. Girard, W. Zoohniak of nearby Keno City, S. Wade, D. Thomson, S. Pallaro, J. Hull, G. Nicloux and D. Moses.

Moses, one of the men in hospital, was in satisfactory condition. No further details were given.

Mr. DeLaporte said it would take at least a day to determine the extent of the damage caused by the fire, which broke

'We'll Wreck Station'

Radio Raiders Dare Attack

LONDON (Reuters) — Mystery raiders, who seized control of a British pirate radio station and put it off the air, threatened Friday to wreck the station if attempts are made to dislodge them.

The raiders, 10 men and a woman, boarded the Radio City station Monday night.

The unlicensed station, mounted atop a stilt-legged, Second World War fort in a part of the Thames Estuary known as Shivering Sands, normally broadcasts popular music interspersed with advertising across Britain, in defiance of laws banning commercial radio transmissions. The location is just outside the three-mile limit in British coastal waters.

THREE ASHORE

The boarding party allowed three of the station's engineers to go ashore Friday and sent with them a warning that any new boarding attempt would be met by chopping down the station's radio mast and severing a metal catwalk linking two of the fort's towers.

The raid on the station and the shotgun killing of its manager in a separate incident led to references in Parliament Thursday to anarchy and demands for immediate government action.

COURT ACTION

Radio City is one of 10 pirate stations around Britain's coasts, situated offshore to dodge laws giving the publicly-owned BBC radio broadcast monopoly and preventing commercial radio transmissions.

Dorothy Calvert, widow of Radio City's manager, Reg Calvert, who was shot and killed Tuesday, instructed her lawyers Friday to start proceedings against the raiders.

Juries On Trial

'Too Many Guilty Never Convicted'

LONDON (CP) — The jury system, a pillar of British law since the Magna Carta seven centuries ago, is coming in for increased scrutiny and debate.

Statistics show that 40 per cent of those who plead not guilty to indictable offences in Britain are acquitted.

Lord Chief Justice Lord Parker said Friday that far too many guilty men get off, largely because of the jury system.

★ ★ ★

The law, he said, is hopelessly out of date.

"I sometimes wonder how anyone gets convicted."

Three-quarters of those acquitted were guilty, he estimated in an address to the graduating class of a police academy staff course.

Greater care should be used in selecting jurymen. At one session, 15 per cent of the jurors were found to have criminal records, Lord Parker said.

Firms Weigh Report

UNION FAVORS NEMETZ PLAN

VANCOUVER (CP) — Union negotiators announced Friday night they will recommend acceptance of a government-approved formula to avert a shut-down of British Columbia's $1,000,000 forest industry.

The companies still were considering the formula, which they described as "expensive."

Union and employer representatives Friday were handed recommendations for settlement of their dispute—including a 40-cent-an-hour pay increase over two years—and were told by Premier Bennett he recommends it.

The premier told a gathering of about 100 he considered the recommendations of Mr. Justice Nathan Nemetz fair and just for all concerned, including the economy of the province.

'UNCONDITIONALLY'

"Therefore, I unconditionally recommend acceptance both by workers and employers and the general public."

The International Woodworkers of America (CLC), representing 27,000 workers, and Forest Industrial Relations Ltd., representing 120 employers, immediately went into separate conferences. The proposals will be discussed during the weekend at various meetings of union locals.

It became official yesterday — Victoria Maple Leafs will remain in the Western Hockey League and open their home season on Oct. 15. Details of 1966-67 model Leafs appear on Page 13.

Company Man Shocked

'Expensive Package'

VANCOUVER (CP) — An executive of one of British Columbia forest products companies said Friday he was shocked by terms of a government-approved formula to avert an industry strike.

L. L. G. Bentley, senior vice-president of Canadian Forest Products Ltd., said in an interview the settlement is "a very expensive package."

The formula, which Premier Bennett personally urged both the companies and the coast woodworkers to accept unconditionally, called for a general 40-cent hourly wage increase in two years over the present basic of $2.35 in addition to work classification increases.

★ ★ ★

"I am certainly disturbed that the judge's (Mr. Justice Nathan Nemetz) award suggests that our industry pay wages in excess of the wages of our competitors in the U.S. northwest, which have been the highest in the world," said Mr. Bentley.

"Mr. Justice Nemetz goes beyond the U.S. settlements this year, which means we would have higher wages than our competitors.

★ ★ ★

"We are competing not only with the U.S. but with Sweden and Russia as well in world markets. Our wage level is about 2½ times the level in Scandinavia and four times as high as Russia."

He said profit margins already are very narrow and "we can very easily swing from being in the black to being in the red and this is what worries me."

★ ★ ★

Spokesmen for the other major companies in the industry declined comment. Forest Industrial Relations Ltd., which bargains for the companies, is expected to announce the companies' decision Monday.

Dollar Demand

Postal Strike Threat

MONTREAL (CP) — William Houle, president of the Montreal local of the Canadian Association of Postal Employees (CLC), said Friday a strike may be called Dec. 1 if demands for a $2,000 a year wage increase are not met.

★ ★ ★

Houle, a key figure in last year's national postal strike, said a general increase of $1 an hour will be recommended to the national negotiation committee in Ottawa.

He said the raise would bring postal workers' salaries in line with salaries of other public employees such as policemen and firemen.

Big Party Showdown Over Bank Act

Sharp Putting Job on Line

Sharp

By RON COLLISTER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp will resign if he does not win the showdown with his predecessor, Walter Gordon, over revision of the Bank Act.

★ ★ ★

An air of crisis built up over the government this weekend as Mr. Sharp prepared to put his cards on the table before Prime Minister Pearson, who is due back in the capital Sunday.

Mr. Gordon and his supporters have succeeded in blocking debate on the Bank Act revisions, which were due to be introduced in the Commons Monday.

The Gordon supporters believe they have stalled the revisions indefinitely and may have buried them.

But the Sharp supporters insist they must be introduced before the Commons recesses for summer, which could be as early as next Thursday.

At stake is the raising of the present 6 per cent ceiling on bank loans.

Mr. Sharp's new formula reportedly would set a new, higher ceiling on bank loans, but remove the ceiling on large loans.

Mr. Gordon and his supporters believe it is politically disastrous to remove the ceiling and have fought it all along the way.

They appeared to have exhausted their efforts this week, when the Bank Act appeared on the order paper for early action.

School Wraps Up Year

Strathcona Lodge Presents Awards

SHAWNIGAN LAKE — Culminating another year's work since the school re-opened seven years ago, Strathcona Lodge School annual awards were presented Friday by C. J. Curtis.

The Archbishop's Prize for the most outstanding pupil was won by Kit Salter, Victoria. The Good Citizen award went to Frances Ross, Vancouver, who has been at the school six years.

The Dorning Memorial Prize for English was won by Penny Harris, Victoria, while a local girl, Anna Marie Cobbold, won the art prize and Diane Mewhort, Cowichan Lake, took the music prize.

Headmistress Mrs. I. V. Guthrie welcomed the parents and guests. Mr. Curtis spoke on the subject of communications, especially between parents and children.

Where it takes two to make a quarrel, it also takes two to make an agreement," he said.

Tourist Bureau Tower to Be Restored

Government Petitioned To Enlarge Parksville

PARKSVILLE — A bid to greatly enlarge the village of Parksville is being made by the village council in a petition to the minister of municipal affairs.

The intent of a plan to enlarge the municipality was advertised in May and now the next step is being taken by the council.

Figures on the total area involved were not available but it is known that the plan will extend the boundaries on several sides of the village and would mean a considerable overall increase.

At the regular mid-monthly meeting three readings were given to a bylaw to rezone the southwest corner of Craig Street and Jensen Avenue from residential to commercial. A public hearing in this regard will be held July 11 at 12:30 p.m. at the municipal office.

A motion was approved to arrange for having the tower restored on the tourist bureau. The tower, destroyed by fire recently, was a familiar part of the old fire hall now converted to the tourist bureau, and there have been numerous requests from residents to have it rebuilt.

It gave the building an old fashioned character and charm, according to remarks regarding its restoration.

A motion was approved to submit a suggestion to the highways department regarding trucks entering Parksville from the west on the Alberni highway. It was suggested that drivers be obliged to take a brake test before entering the village and that a "slow to lower gear" sign be placed near the west boundary.

The recent truck crash which destroyed a cafe is causing grave concern and the council is also making another request for action on a truck bypass route.

A paving and oiling program for streets and roads in the village will start in the near future.

Calls to Women Cost Man $100

COURTENAY — Robert Charles Fraser appeared before Magistrate John Ryland Friday to plead guilty to making obscene phone calls.

The crown stated such phone calls to many women in the Comox valley had been made over a period of two years and had been under investigation for some time. Cpl. L. Johnson told the court some women had been badly alarmed and one woman had run out of her house in the snow to go to a neighbor's home.

The accused said, "I am deeply ashamed of myself and it won't happen again."

Magistrate Ryland said "Your conduct is revolting and disgusting." He asked the man if he felt he needed psychiatric care and Fraser replied he did not but that he had an appointment with his own doctor.

The magistrate fined Fraser $100 and bound him over to keep the peace on his own recognizance of $250 without deposit.

Man Falls from Building

Copter Transports Injured Worker

NANAIMO — A construction worker injured at Cape Beale, at the entrance of the Alberni canal, was brought to hospital Friday in a Search and Rescue helicopter.

Dan Touche was working on a Department of Transport dwelling when he fell, receiving fractured ribs, cuts and bruises.

The Canadian Coast Guard vessel Camsell was in the area and it dispatched a helicopter to pick-up the man.

The aircraft stopped at Bamfield, where Mr. Touche was given pain-killing drugs, before it went on to Nanaimo.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Worried that the war in Viet Nam may escalate into World War III? That China may have a hydrogen bomb powerful enough to leave most of North America a crater? That Russia will put a man on the moon with a spacecraft loaded with atomic hand-grenades for lobbing on capitalistic capitals?

Forget it, there is a much graver danger to the insecurity of our insecure children. It is a diabolical plot, managed by "managed news," supported by some "misled" scientific foundations and permitted by "questionable politics."

It deals in mass deception aimed at frustrating and fooling the boys of North America. And Japan, too, for that matter. Unless Ernest Lowry, alone but courageous and determined, gets some help from advertisers, educators, legislators and just plain Moms and Dads, your children and your children's children are going to grow up to be duped generations.

It is an insidious thing, and one has to be alert to recognize what is going on in the face of the innocence in which it is presented.

Take Time magazine, for instance. Not many of you would have suspected that the four-and-a-half page cover story on Juan Marichal in the June 10 issue was part of this devilish scheme to undermine our youth for the sake of a lucrative mass deception. As a matter of fact, many of you probably brought the issue home for your boys when you saw the pictures of the Dandy Dominican on the front cover. It's just another proof that we parents are to blame for what isn't going right with the younger generation.

Oh, it was a fine story, no doubt about that. It told about the pitching of Don Drysdale, Sam McDowell and Sandy Koufax. It told that Bob Feller "struggled for years to perfect the sweeping curve which prolonged his career when the zip from his hummer was gone" and that Warren Spahn underwent "a slow but drastic transition during his 21 big-league seasons: from fastballer to curveballer."

Those items about Feller and Spahn were thrown in to point up just how different Marichal is by comparison with most pitchers. His best pitch has always been a fast ball but he is reluctant to use it because he believes it makes his work easier to rely instead on his vast variety of breaking pitches.

Nothing insidious, there, you say? Or in the interesting assertion by Dr. Lyman Briggs, a scientist at the U.S. National Bureau of Standards that the maximum possible sideways break of a baseball spinning at 1,800 revolutions per minute is 17 inches in the 60-feet, six inches which represents the distance from the pitching mound to the plate.

What kind of a parent are you anyway? Can't you recognize subversive literature when you see it? Don't you know by the very fact that you brought the magazine home, and probably started a Koufax-Marichal argument, that your youngster may get to believing that a baseball can be curved? You have made yourself an accomplice in what is probably the biggest mass deception in the history of the world, one which is prostituting our educational standards—something that could lead to almost anything when the young 'uns grow up. It's a good thing for us that Ernest Lowry is on the job.

I hadn't heard from him in some time and sort of wondered if he had been beaned by Camilo Pascual in the ball-flight research which is his life's work. It was reassuring when a missive arrived from Toronto, where his Ball-Flight Research is located, no more than a week after Time sprung that story on a largely unsuspecting public. Lowry has been fighting this thing for more than 15 years and, you can believe it, he is not about to give up.

He was irate, angry and fighting mad.

"This special bulletin," he mimeographed, "is being released in the public interest and is basically intended to assist North American advertisers, legislators, and others, to properly assess the astounding, international significance of the ball-flight article featured in Time (June 10/66)."

He went on from there—boy, did he go on. And who can blame him? He knows just what the odds are. He thought he had this whole matter licked away back in 1941, when Life ("published by Time") published some photographs which tended to show a curve ball was no more than an optical illusion. Then just when everything looked secure along came science in the form of electronics to shatter things.

"With the television era offering fabulous advertising expansion," he explained, "Life seems to have been under pressure to reverse its previous "curve" findings and published a "'proof-of-curve' feature in 1953 claiming to show the 'curve' pitch as an established feat of organized baseball stars."

Lowry says he debunked that story and Time, Inc., threw in the sponge, temporarily at least, and let Sports Illustrated carry on a "Life face-saving policy."

Then Time went and stabbed him in the back earlier this month. But Lowry is resilient. He has sort of given up on the United States, Japan and Canada but his is a world struggle.

". . . other countries," he wrote, "may shortly be sternly denouncing any such falsities slipped into their academic institutions. This means the U.S., Canada and Japan can no longer control and manipulate world opinion in this matter."

But Lowry has some things going for him in Canada—such as the recent upset triumph of the Union Nationale in the Quebec elections.

"Meanwhile," he finished, rather triumphantly, I thought, "Time from its Montreal publishing office may have trouble getting Quebec's new government to put its neck into Ontario's noose of physics involving secondary schools."

So there, and now ask yourself if you can call yourself a parent if you let the boys watch that Los Angeles-Atlanta game this morning.

Western Lead Held By Blancas, Zarley

CHICAGO (AP) — Homero Blancas and Kermit Zarley, two former golf teammates at the University of Houston, shot identical two-under-par 69s Friday to share the second-round lead in the $100,000 Western Open.

Their half-way total of 140, two under par on the Medinah Country Club's No. 3 course, put the former collegiate stars one stroke ahead of U.S. Open champion Billy Casper.

Casper, defending Western Open champion, slackened to a one over-par 72 after an opening 69 for 141.

NOT HAPPY

Casper was unhappy with the condition of Medinah's rough.

The rough is unfair, he said. "It's a shame it was allowed to get so in a national tournament such as this.

"Our PGA field team recommended a two-inch rough but Medinah Club officials let it grow right up to the fairways four inches high.

ARNIE TWO BEHIND

Casper was on stroke ahead of Tommy Bolt, the first-round leader, and Arnold Palmer, trying to shake off the effects of his collapse before the rallying Casper in the U.S. Open last weekend.

Bolt, who opened with a 68, wrenched his back on the sixth hole Friday and plodded on to a 74.

Palmer produced one of the day's four sub-par rounds with a 70 for his 142 total.

West Indies Defeat Counties

NORWICH, England (Reuters) — West Indian cricketers achieved victory by an innings and 33 runs over the Minor Counties on the final day of their two-day match here Friday.

Helped at times by some friendly bowling, the Minor Counties second innings total reached 211, with chief contributions coming from Norman Cooley 44, Martin Naslin 66 and a former England Test batsman, Bill Edrich 61.

Results of Friday's cricket matches:

West Indians beat Minor Counties by an innings and 33 runs. Minor Counties 65 and secondly 211; West Indians 309 for 5 declared.

Glamorgan vs. Cambridge University. Glamorgan 168 for 4 declared and 206 for 6; Cambridge University 182 and 115 for 8. (Match drawn).

Litzenberger

Wilcox

Litz, Carmichael, Wilcox Expected to Bolster Leafs

By JIM TANG

"Very much so."

It was said in answer to "I guess it's safe to say now that we're in?" during intermission at the Shrine Circus last night, and it was the first official pronouncement that Victoria Maple Leafs will play at least a third Western Hockey League season.

Manager Buck Houle went on from there to draw an interesting picture of what Victoria hockey fans can expect when the Leafs gather for the opening of training camp on Sept. 26 to prepare for defence of the Patrick Cup.

And it certainly seems as if the Leafs will be well prepared to carry on with the same fine brand of hockey they displayed last season.

They lost centre John Sleaver to the AHL in the hockey draft, they need a goalkeeper, may have to do without defenceman Fred Hucul for a spell and could lose coach Frank Mario, but they are already a club which is almost set.

Classy Ed Litzenberger, who became a fan favorite last season when he filled in until Larry Keenan recovered from a knee operation, is expected to be Sleaver's replacement. And it looks at the moment as if Gary Smith, the young giant who played seven games here in the 1964-65 season and spent last season with Rochester, will be in goal.

But there's more. Rollie Wilcox, popular rookie rightwinger two seasons back, is returning and the Leafs are to get leftwinger Bruce Carmichael, who played the 1956-57 season with Victoria Cougars and last season scored 20 goals for Vancouver Canucks.

There's still more. Earlier fears that defencemen Claude Labrosse and Aut Erickson would play their hockey elsewhere next season seem to have been allayed, and both are now expected to return.

If they do, the Leafs are just about ready for the season. They will carry on with Sandy and Fred Hucul, Bill Shvetz, Labrosse and Erickson on a defence in front of Smith and have three tentative, and promising forward lines.

Back intact will be the Milan Marcetta - Bob Barlow - Andy Hebenton combination which last season scored 101 goals and it could be Keenan-Carmichael-Wilcox and Litzenberger-Dick Lamoureux-Mike Labadie for the other two attacking units.

But there will be competition for some of the forward positions. Still with the club are Lou Jankowski, Gordie Redahl, Dave Parenteau and Steve Witiuk. And Houle hopes to make a professional out of Mike Laughton, the big leftwinger who was at training camp last year and elected to play another season of amateur hockey with Nelson Maple Leafs.

LOW FIGURES

One or more of the group may go to another club before training camp but at least three will be here to try and convince their coach that they should be one of the 10 forwards kept.

"We certainly aren't discounting Lou (Jankowski)," said Houle, "He seems to score 30 goals at least every season and who knows when that will end."

The only fly in the ointment is the uncertainty still surrounding Fred Hucul and Mario.

MAY NEED OPERATION

Hucul was hampered most of last season by a back injury and has a disc condition. He will undergo corrective treatment in Calgary and if a fusion is needed won't be able to join the club until the first of the year.

In the event this happens, Houle hopes to get either Jack Chipchase, who has had two short tours of duty here, or Daryl Edestrand, who turned pro with Rochester for the playoffs last spring after playing the season with the junior London Nationals, as a replacement.

MAY STAY IN EAST

Mario singed a two-year contract with the Toronto Maple Leaf organization last year and is expected back. However, there is a chance that he will elect to take over as coach of the London juniors.

The Leafs will paly a balanced, 72-game schedule next season — six home and away games against each of the other six WHL clubs.

Interlocking play with the American Hockey League, which had appeared certain prior to Thursday's special league meeting in San Francisco, was voted down by the WHL.

The AHL insisted on a merger within two years and while the WHL may finally form one league with the AHL it was decided not to make this definite at this time.

THEY PAID UP

The San Francisco meeting also settled the question of indemnity to other WHL clubs for the eventual loss of territory to the new NHL division.

The amount of the indemnity was not disclosed but it was agreed that if the Los Angeles NHL franchise eventually goes to Dan Reeves, as now seems quite possible, that San Francisco (Oakland) owners won't have to pay any indemnity to Reeves, owner of the Blades.

NHL REFEREES?

In another move Thursday, the WHL decided to seek a three-year agreement which would provide NHL referees as was done in the 1964-65 season.

And that's about it for now. The league schedule opens on Oct. 14, the Leafs get started at home the next night, a Saturday, and there is a chance that the WHL and NHL champions will meet in a post-season series.

LET'S LINE UP

The season-ticket sale, Houle said, will start about mid-July. By that time, Puch Imlach, Toronto manager-coach, will have come and gone and there should be nothing indefinite about the Leafs except, perhaps, the kind of fan support they will get.

Longden to Be Tested as Trainer

Reds Smash Giants While Pursuers Win

Cincinnati Reds are 9½ games out of first place, but at the moment they are the hottest team in the National League.

The Reds got their seventh win in a row Friday night when they bombed four San Francisco Giant pitchers and defeated the league-leading Giants, 12-1.

Catcher Johnny Edwards hit a pair of two-run singles to lead the Reds' hitting attack, and pitcher Sam Ellis, who had a nightmarish time during the early part of the season, held the Giants to six hits and recorded four strikeouts.

The Reds had just finished sweeping a three-game series from third-place Pittsburgh Pirates.

And the Pirates bounced back from that three-loss affair Friday by using their power to beat Philadelphia, 3-1. Pirates' three runs came on homers by Roberto Clemente, Jesse Gonder and Willie Stargell.

DODGERS MOVE

The Giants' loss allowed second-place Los Angeles Dodgers to move within 3½ games. The Dodgers beat Atlanta Braves, 4-0, as Claude Osteen and Phil Regan held the Braves to five hits.

Osteen and Atlanta's Wade Blasingame were locked in a scoreless duel in the eighth inning, but Osteen led off with a single, moved up on a sacrifice and Wes Parker's single, and scored on a single by Willie Davis. Lou Johnson drove in another run, and John Roseboro finished the Braves with a two-run single.

In the American League, lowly Kansas City Athletics beat Rocky Colavito and the Cleveland Indians, 7-5. Colavito drove in all five of the Indians' runs with two homers and a single, but the Athletics mounted a 15-hit attack against four Cleveland pitchers. Mike Hershberger led the Athletics with three hits and two runs batted in.

Elston Howard hit the first bases-loaded home run of his 12-year major league career to lift New York Yankees to a 5-2 win over Chicago White Sox.

Defending champion Minnesota Twins marked time by splitting a doubleheader with Detroit Tigers.

Bill Freehan drove in the winning run in the ninth inning as the Tigers won the first game, 2-1, but Zollo Versalles knocked in four runs with a homer and a single and the Twins bounced back to take the second game, 9-2.

California Angeles edged Baltimore Orioles, 5-4, in 14 innings.

Wimbledon Play Still Backs Chart

LONDON (CP) — Margaret Smith, defending women's champion, and former title-holder Maria Bueno of Brazil both won their third-round singles matches Friday at the Wimbledon lawn tennis championships.

Both defeated United States competitors. Miss Smith, from Australia, beat Janie Albert 6-1, 6-2 and Miss Bueno, playing on the centre court, outclassed Tory Fretz 6-2, 6-0.

Three men advanced to the quarter-finals of the men's singles—sixth-seeded Dennis Ralston of the U.S. and unseeded Australians Bob Hewitt and Owen Davidson. The other five places will be decided today.

BEAT RUSSIANS

In women's doubles, Vicki Berner of Vancouver joined Mary Habicht of the U.S., to win a hard-fought, first-round match in women's doubles. The North American girls defeated Galina Baksheeva and Olga Morozova of the Soviet Union 2-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Other women who advanced to the final 16 in singles were Trudy Groenman of The Netherlands, Billie Jean Moffitt King, Rosemary Casals, Kathy Harter and Nancy Richey, all of the U.S., Annette van Zyl of South Africa and third-seeded Ann Haydon Jones of Britain, who is French and Italian champion.

Francoise Durr of France also remains in competition, having won her third - round match Thursday.

A strong, blustery wind made ball control difficult Friday, especially on the centre court where Ralston defeated Pierre Darmon of France 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4. Although Darmon brought off some fine passing shots, he made many errors.

Top - seeded Australian Roy Emerson plays Stan Smith of the U.S. today and Tony Roche of Australia meets Cliff Richey of the U.S., in games which qualify the winners for the quarter-finals.

Andretti Breaks Mark But So Does Foster

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., defending United States Auto Club champion, drove his rear-engine Ford around the Atlanta Raceway at a record-shattering 169.014 miles an hour Friday to lead qualifying for Sunday's $30,000 championship 300.

Andretti's time, which broke A. J. Foyt's record of last year, was slightly below his prediction of 170 to 173 m.p.h.

Seven other drivers qualified Friday, including Billy Foster of Victoria, also bettering Foyt's mark.

Foster, driving a rear-engine Ford, qualified at 166.789 miles an hour.

Foyt, who set the qualifying record of 166.512 last year, will take his turn on the 1½-mile track today with the remainder of the 56 entries vying for the 30 positions.

Feldman Slips, Trapp Now Fifth

VANCOUVER (CP)—Al Feldman of Tacoma, Wash., slipped during the second round of the British Columbia Open Friday but still managed to hold a one-stroke lead.

Feldman, who fired a six-under-par 66 in Thursday's opening round, slipped to a 71 Friday. He blamed a wind and the frustration of slow tournament play in a field of 200 golfers.

Winnipeg pro Wilf Homenuik repeated his 69 round for 138, one stroke behind Feldman.

Al Mengert of Tacoma and Moe norman of Toronto shared third spot with 141. Mengert is defending champion.

Sharing fifth spot at 142 were Gord Fairburn of Pitt Meadows, B.C., Bdyron Wood of Eugene, Ore., Lyle Crawford of Vancouver, Alvie Thompson of Toronto and Vaughan Trapp of Victoria.

Trapp, assistant pro at Victoria Golf Club, had a 74, to go with his opening-round 68.

The top 100 of the 200 golfers —75 are pros and 125 are amateurs—go into today's final 18 holes. The cutoff score was 153.

Mengert also complained of slow play during Friday's round.

"The play is so slow that I lose concentration on what I'm doing," he complained. "I get all hot with a birdie and then sit down for 15 minutes waiting and get a bogey."

Indians Take to Seaweed Like Children to Candy

★ ★ ★

ALERT BAY — Every Indian family here and at other Indian Reserves along B.C.'s coast has its winter supply of seaweed as part of its staple diet.

★ ★ ★

On lower Vancouver Island and lower Mainland reserves, Indians have dropped the habit of gathering seaweed for food. This may be due to pollution on the beaches in these areas, said an Alert Bay Indian spokesman.

★ ★ ★

"But," he said, "up here . . . and in all northern coastal areas of Vancouver Island and B.C. Mainland . . . the Indians still gather their seaweed for food . . . as they have done for centuries."

★ ★ ★

The Indians are never without the seaweed throughout the year. It is a necessary supplement to their diet. They use it in most of their dishes and also chew it like candy.

In the spring, when their seaweed supply is nearly gone, they all take time out to gather more for the next year's supply. The children usually do the work of gathering and drying.

★ ★ ★

The job is very simple. The only problem is to be sure the beach is clean of any pollution. The many little islands that dot the Gulf are ideal places for gathering pure seaweed. Cormorant Island, on which Alert Bay is located, has many small beaches where the Indians gather their winter supply of seaweed.

Duise is the specie of seaweed eaten by the Indians. It is not the kelp which is another species of seaweed. Duise seaweed grows on rocks and stones between low and high tide. Children gather it and spread it on logs to dry.

★ ★ ★

In a few days of good weather the seaweed is dry and brittle and has turned from light to dark green.

Indian children have really acquired a taste for the seaweed and chew it readily. Newcomers find it bitter.

★ ★ ★

The seaweed has been found to have many beneficial vitamins and minerals. Everyone could benefit, say some doctors by eating seaweed in some form.

The Alert Bay Indian School children tried to get their home economics teacher, Mrs. Chris Pattinson, to acquire a taste for seaweed. She is trying hard to like the seaweed so her Indian pupils will have more respect for her "culinary tastes."

Cowichan Band Council Meeting

Knoll at Duncan Causes Concern

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN — A treed knoll, Duncan's beauty spot at the civic parking area, is the bone of contention in the development of a large shopping centre by the Cowichan Indian Band.

The majority of the Band council agrees the knoll should remain, but prospective leasees insist it should be removed.

The band's town planner Robert Williams will be asked to revise the plans and there are hopes the knoll will not be touched.

COMPLEX APPROVED

Several months ago the band council approved in principle to develop 17 acres at the Armories into a shopping centre complex. Proposed are:

- A large department store.
- A food store.
- Smaller shops.
- A recreation building.
- Sufficient parking.

The entire area would be landscaped.

The realization of the plan will give the Duncan area a third large shopping centre.

The location for the proposed project is between Government Street, the recommended extension of Cowichan Way, the E & N Railroad Track and Allenby Road.

BETTER HOUSING

Cowichan Indians seeking a better standard of housing were advised in a letter from Arthur Laing, superintendent general of Indian affairs, "A subsidy program is being arranged eliminating many of the restrictions under the former program."

The band council was informed the department is negotiating with Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation to arrange loans for Indian people.

Band secretary Louise Underwood was appointed to find a band member who would be interested in becoming a community health worker for $300 a month.

TRAINING COURSE

Miss Underwood said, "The medical service would provide for a three-month training course during which all expenses are paid plus $100 per month for the duration of the training."

The band council also appointed new committees to serve for the next two years.

The committees are chaired by: Abel Joe, finance and community planning; Louise Underwood, welfare and publicity; Norman Joe, education and Duncan family and children's court; Abraham Joe, public works; George Daniels, water works; Ben George, health; Chief Dennis Alphonse and William Joe, land investigation; Abner Thorne, housing; Leonard Peter, flood emergency; Sammy Henry, fire protection.

The City of Duncan-band council committee consists of: Abner Thorne, Abel Joe, Dennis Alphonse and Louise Underwood.

Regional Sharing

College Survey Outlines Costs

NANAIMO — Total assessment for the nine school districts taking part in the regional college survey is well over $400,000,000.

The estimated total for 1966 is $458,568,000. This is made up from $182,000,000 from the Nanaimo school district, $80,000,000 in Alberni, $21,000,000 in Ladysmith, $16,000,000 in Qualicum, $56,000,000 in Cowichan, $37,000,000 in Lake Cowichan, $33,000,000 in Courtenay, $73,000,000 in Campbell River, and $30,000,000 from the school districts in the Northern Area.

At the present time government is willing to share the usual 50 per cent of any college costs, but Dr. Ray MacMillan, head of the college co-ordinating committee, said "the whole pattern of financing could be changed."

Experience has shown one-and-a-half mills provides ample funds to finance a college, and this is close to the estimate a regional two-year college made by Dr. Leonard Marsh from UBC when he carried out his survey.

The co-ordinating committee has studied the pros and cons of closely and has tried to answer some of the obvious questions.

Grade enrollment last year in the survey area was 1,350, and in two years' time this is expected to climb to 1,800, with 250 of these students in the academic program.

NEED TO GROW

According to the committee this is a clear case for a college now, with the need likely to grow rapidly during the next few years.

Four main educational needs will be met by the college. First and foremost, technical courses will be offered for one or two years from which graduates will be able to enter directly into industrial, business or health fields.

Other courses will include first and second year university degree program with students able to transfer to a degree-granting institution; general education courses that lead to cultural development and personal enrichment; and refresher courses in specialized areas to eliminate high school deficiencies.

NEW FOR B.C.

The regional college is a comparatively new concept in education to British Columbia.

Personalized instruction will be stressed including counselling, rather than lecturing to large groups.

The staff will not be expected to carry on research in subject fields.

The ideal college will be located close to the community it serves with a primary function of satisfying local and regional needs.

Musical Group On Tour

Saints March Out Of Port Alberni

BY MARY TAYLOR

PORT ALBERNI — The Saints are not marching in, but heading out, of the Alberni Valley.

The eight young members of the popular musical group have purchased their own bus, and take off Sunday for a province-wide tour that will keep them singing and strumming six nights a week until they end up at Dawson Creek, and then return by the Prince Rupert Ferry in mid-August.

After a brief look-in at home, they're off to spend a week in Toronto, another in Ottawa, and see the Expo 67 site, before selling their bus, and embarking for England.

There they expect to work for three months, and then spend at least six months on the Continent.

★ ★ ★

This bold venture into the entertainment world means the boys, aged 19 to 22, will be giving up their steady jobs here in industry and commerce, to try their saintly wings in a highly competitive field.

But so far, success at home has given the Saints good reason to look forward to success abroad. Their own bus and trailer and $15,000 worth of instruments have all been purchased with the proceeds of their highly successful dances on Vancouver Island.

★ ★ ★

The group consists of Dennis Prior, 20 lead guitar and vocalist; Danny Higgins, 19, singer, rhythm guitar and sax; Don Kemp, 22, bass guitar; Brent Purdy, 20, drums; Gordie Brand, 22, organ; Henning Johanse, 19, featured vocalist, plus managers Gerry Hickey and Ken Wiegan.

Support of the community, especially the teen-agers, has made this trip possible, the group's managers declared.

"In return, we'll put Port Alberni on the map," they promised.

Alert Bay Helped By Young Canadians

VANCOUVER (CP)—The fledgling Company of Young Canadians has launched its first three social assistance projects during the past few weeks — one in British Columbia, two in Nova Scotia.

The B.C. project involves two workers in the remote coastal community of Alert Bay. The volunteers are seeking ways and means of expanding community services in co-operation with Indian and white representatives.

The Company of Young Canadians differs from the U.S. Peace Corps in that the Canadian group is free of government control.

Initial operating budget for the company will be approximately $1,000,000.

Russian Island Guest

Dmitri Polyansky, deputy premier of the Soviet Union, will have plenty of friendly company when he visits Vancouver Island next week.

A spokesman for the Fisheries Research Laboratory at Nanaimo, one of the stops for the visitors said Friday he expects the deputy premier will have with him between 35 and 50 parliamentarians and interpreters.

LUNCHEON GUESTS

He was uncertain of the number, but even less certain was an official at Government House, which will have Mr. Polyansky and his group as luncheon guests July 1.

The Government House official said he had no idea how many were expected.

NANAIMO VISIT

After lunch, they'll travel to Nanaimo, tour the fisheries laboratory for two or three hours, attend a reception and return to Victoria.

It is believed the group will come to Vancouver Island aboard a private yacht.

The fisheries laboratory spokesman said he understood the party was holidaying in Canada.

Nanaimo Man Wins $1,200

OTTAWA (CP) — Scholarships valued at $1,200 each were awarded Friday by the Canadian Wildlife Service.

Among the winners was Ray B. Addison, 24, Nanaimo.

Cherry Creek Sports Day

Bring Freckles And Appetite

PORT ALBERNI — Got so many freckles you can't count them? Or a deadly aim with a horse-shoe, or a real talent for climbing greasy poles?

Then you'd better be on hand at the fourth annual Cherry Creek sports day and barbecue on Sunday.

★ ★ ★

This community event started off four years ago with the idea of being a fun-filled day for residents of the Cherry Creek area. From the first plateful of barbecued beef, it was an unqualified success.

★ ★ ★

This year, 1,500 pounds of pit-barbecued beef will be served, along with tubs of salad, barrels of buttered buns, and thousands of paper napkins, to visitors by the hundreds who know a good meal when they taste one.

Pets, decorated trikes and bikes, and horses will all be judged and paraded at Cherry Creek School in the morning, with judging at 10:30 and the parade of entries at 11.

★ ★ ★

Games, races and horse-shoe pitching goes on at 11:30, as does the tug-of-war. The volunteer firemen give their demonstration at 3:00 and there's go-cart racing too in the afternoon. Hay-rides and ice cream for the kids, greased pole and freckle contests will be held, and all day long, from 1 p.m. till 7, they'll be dishing up the barbecue.

★ ★ ★

Judging from the quantities of food Cherry Creek community workers are preparing, the committee is anticipating 4,000 people will show up for the steadily-growing sports day.

Taggers Out For Hospital

PORT ALBERNI — West Coast General Hospital women's auxiliary will hold their annual tag day today, with Rangers and members of the Future Nurses' Club at the high school helping out as taggers.

The auxiliary has set up a fund which will, they hope, furnish a ward and provide some special equipment for the projected expansion at West Coast General Hospital.

B.C. Takes Lead in Studies

Island Least Affected

Hope Held Farm Labor Shortage Near End

DUNCAN — "It is hoped the problem of farm labor shortage in British Columbia will soon be under control," said Archie Stevenson Friday. Mr. Stevenson is president of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture and operates a dairy farm at Fairbridge near here.

He and other board members recently returned from the federation's mid-summer meeting at Creston.

Mr. Stevenson said British Columbia has taken the lead over all other Canadian provinces in farm labor studies with a survey on the farm labor shortage. A detailed report is being studied now by both senior governments.

★ ★ ★

He said the fruit farmers in the Okanagan Valley are worst affected by this problem which recurs every season. Some difficulty is also experienced in the Fraser Valley and least affected is Vancouver Island.

Mr. Stevenson, on a week-long tour through farming areas in southern B.C., said another problem was voiced by dairy farmers at Creston and Salmon Arm who complained milk is being shipped in from other parts of the province by large supermarkets.

He stressed these problems must be solved on a local level and other than giving guidance the B.C. Federation cannot help without interferring with other federation members.

He said until very recently milk was shipped into the Creston area from Alberta but this was stopped because Alberta products now have to comply with stricter regulations.

Mr. Stevenson suggested the problem of milk being shipped from the Fraser Valley into the interior could be solved if the director of the South Okanagan Co-operative Dairy Association and the head of the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' association would sit down and discuss it.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Stevenson said the tour which started at Fort Langley and took federation board members to Salmon Arm was an excellent opportunity to build up public relations with other members.

He said at Penticton for instance he and his board members talked to a delegation of fruit producers who realized only as a united group can farmers solve their various problems.

At the beginning of the tour Mr. Stevenson turned the sod for the new museum at Fort Langley. He told more than 100 people there "B.C. is still a sea of mountains as it was referred to more than 100 years ago, and all too often agriculture is not given proper consideration for the contribution it makes. "In this respect times have changed little since our province began, but we can be proud of the part we have played."

★ ★ ★

Mr. Stevenson said B.C.'s first major farm operation began in the Fort Langley area.

"In 1901," he said, "when our new giant forest industry was just getting started, agriculture and fisheries ran neck and neck behind mining.

"Just over 100 years ago, before the first cut hay was cut in this area, fodder from California was selling at $300 a ton; Surrey butter was being sold in Cariboo for $1 a pound, and turnips went as high as $1 apiece.

"Today, although costs to the farmer are increasing to an astonishing degree, consumers pay less for farm products of greater quality and convenience."

The Purge

Convulsions of China Complex, Kaleidoscopic

By David Oancia
(Copyright 1966, The Globe and Mail)

PEKING — Violence is characteristic of all revolutions and China's "current great proletarian cultural revolution" is no exception.

Yang Kuo-ching, 19-year-old epileptic executed for slashing two foreigners with a heavy butcher's knife was victim of this violence. But his death was only one facet of an incredibly complex and kaleidoscopic struggle now under way in China — a struggle Communist rulers have launched in a determined bid to ensure purity of purpose of the regime they established 17 years ago.

Vice-Premier Chen Yi describes Yang's attack on foreigners as a manifestation of the deathbed struggle of "the overthrown exploiting class elements, who consisted of a mere handful of people" unwilling to step down from the stage of history.

"The dictatorship of the proletariat in China is today incomparably powerful and consolidated," he told diplomats this week.

Warning Word

"Any counter-revolutionaries daring to engage in scheming and disruptive activities will certainly meet with annihilating blows."

In that sentence Chen seemed to warn opponents of the Communist regime to watch their step — no mercy would be shown for anyone who openly or violently plots against the system.

Through Yang's trial the rulers also sought to reassure foreigners that the Chinese do not hate them and that Yang's attempt to undermine friendship with the rest of the world failed completely.

Yang's execution, as I have said, is but one tiny facet of the convulsion that this nation of 700,000,000 is now going through.

Swift Moves

In three short weeks purges have been sanctioned of the Peking Communist party committee branch, Peking and Nanking universities, two newspapers and a magazine published by the Peking committee, newspapers in Yunnan and Chinghai provinces, the Peking branch of the Communist Youth League, the Shanghai Conservatory of Music.

Among the prominent people swept out of some of their offices were Peng Chen, formerly first secretary of the Peking branch and once one of the six top leaders in the country. Some diplomats report being told by party leaders that no decision has yet been made on whether Peng will be ousted from his politburo post, but it appears virtually certain that his authority has been reduced.

These purges have been followed by massive demonstra-

Company Man Shocked

'Expensive Package'

VANCOUVER (CP) — An executive of one of British Columbia forest products companies said Friday he was shocked by terms of a government-approved formula to avert an industry strike.

L. L. G. Bentley, senior vice-president of Canadian Forest Products Ltd., said in an interview the settlement is "a very expensive package."

The formula, which Premier Bennett personally urged both the companies and the coast woodworkers to accept unconditionally, called for a general 40-cent hourly wage increase in two years over the present basic of $3.36 in addition to work classification increases.

"I am certainly disturbed that the judge's (Mr. Justice Nathan Nemetz) award suggests that our industry pay wages in excess of the wages of our competitors in the U.S. northwest, which have been the highest in the world," said Mr. Bentley.

"Mr. Justice Nemetz goes beyond the U.S. settlements this year, which means we would have higher wages than our competitors.

★ ★ ★

"We are competing not only with the U.S. but with Sweden and Russia as well in world markets. Our wage level is about 2½ times the level in Scandinavia and four times as high as Russia."

He said profit margins already are very narrow and "we can very easily swing from being in the black to being in the red and this is what worries me."

Spokesmen for the other major companies in the industry declined comment. Forest Industrial Relations Ltd., which bargains for the companies, is expected to announce the companies' decision Monday.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Union negotiators announced Friday night they will recommend acceptance of a government-approved formula to avert a sit-down of British Columbia's $1,000,000 forest industry.

The companies still were considering the formula, which they described as "expensive."

Union and employer representatives Friday were handed recommendations for settlement of their dispute—including a 40-cent-an-hour pay increase over two years—and were told by Premier Bennett he recommends it.

The premier told a gathering of about 100 he considered the recommendations of Mr. Justice Nathan Nemetz fair and just for all concerned, including the economy of the province.

'UNCONDITIONALLY'

"Therefore, I unconditionally recommend acceptance both by workers and employers and the general public."

The International Woodworkers of America (CLC), representing 27,000 workers, and Forest Industrial Relations Ltd., representing 120 employers, immediately went into separate conferences. The proposals will be discussed during the weekend at various meetings of union locals.

Yukon Survivors in Good Condition

Four Dead, Eight Saved From Smouldering Mine

ELSA, Yukon (CP) — Fire still smouldered in the No Cash silver mine Friday after taking the lives of four of the 12 men trapped inside for 16 hours before they were brought to safety.

Mine officials said all eight survivors were in good condition although two or three remained in hospital.

Joseph Wozobec of Elsa.
D. Jurcec of Elsa.
V. Atamanschuk, who is understood to have a sister in Edmonton.
John Vinem of Elsa.

No hometown was given for Atamanschuk.

WELL VENTILATED

The survivors, some of whom waited out the fire in a well-ventilated drift, were listed as G. Girard, W. Zochniak of nearby Keno City, S. Wade, D. Thomson, S. Pallaro, J. Hull, G. Nickoux and D. Moses.

Moses, one of the men in hospital, was in satisfactory condition. No further details were given.

Mr. DeLaporte said it would take at least a day to determine the extent of the damage caused by the fire, which broke

'We'll Wreck Station'

Radio Raiders Dare Attack

LONDON (Reuters) — Mystery raiders, who seized control of a British pirate radio station and put it off the air, threatened Friday to wreck the station if attempts are made to dislodge them.

The raiders, 10 men and a woman, boarded the Radio City station Monday night.

The unlicensed station, mounted atop a stilt-legged, Second World War fort in a part of the Thames Estuary known as Shivering Sands, normally broadcasts popular music interspersed with advertising across Britain, in defiance of laws banning commercial radio transmissions. The location is just outside the three-mile limit in British coastal waters.

THREE ASHORE

The boarding party allowed three of the station's engineers to go ashore Friday and sent with them a warning that any new boarding attempt would be met by chopping down the station's radio mast and severing a vital catwalk linking two of the fort's towers.

The raid on the station and the shotgun killing of its manager in a separate incident led to references in Parliament Thursday to anarchy and demands for immediate government action.

COURT ACTION

Radio City is one of 10 pirate stations around Britain's coasts, situated offshore to dodge laws giving the publicly-owned BBC radio broadcast monopoly and preventing commercial radio transmissions.

Dorothy Calvert, widow of Radio City's manager, Reg Calvert, who was shot and killed Tuesday, instructed her lawyers Friday to start proceedings against the raiders.

With only Mexico abstaining, the OAS voted 12 to 0 to approve a resolution withdrawing the 2,000-member force starting before July 1. The withdrawal will be completed during a 90-day period.

Juries On Trial

'Too Many Guilty Never Convicted'

LONDON (CP) — The jury system, a pillar of British law since the Magna Carta seven centuries ago, is coming in for increased scrutiny and debate.

★ ★ ★

Statistics show that 40 per cent of those who plead not guilty to indictable offences in Britain are acquitted.

Lord Chief Justice Lord Parker said Friday that far too many guilty men get off, largely because of the jury system.

★ ★ ★

The law, he said, is hopelessly out of date.

"I sometimes wonder how anyone gets convicted."

Three-quarters of those acquitted were guilty, he estimated in an address to the graduating class of a police academy staff course.

★ ★ ★

Greater care should be used in selecting jurymen. At one session, 15 per cent of the jurors were found to have criminal records, Lord Parker said.

It's Official: Leafs Stay

Dollar Demand

Postal Strike Threat

MONTREAL (CP) — William Houle, president of the Montreal local of the Canadian Association of Postal Employees (CLC), said Friday a strike may be called Dec. 1 if demands for a $2,600 a year wage increase are not met.

Houle, a key figure in last year's national postal strike, said a general increase of $1 an hour will be recommended to the national negotiation committee in Ottawa.

He said the raise would bring postal workers' salaries in line with salaries of other public employees such as policemen and firemen.

Cuban Refugee Not Guilty

Sharp Putting Job on Line

Sharp

By RON COLLETTE
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp will resign if he does not win the showdown with his predecessor, Walter Gordon, over revision of the Bank Act.

★ ★ ★

An air of crisis built up over the government this weekend as Mr. Sharp prepared to put his cards on the table before Prime Minister Pearson, who is due back in the capital Sunday.

Mr. Gordon and his supporters have succeeded in blocking debate on the Bank Act revisions, which were due to be introduced in the Commons Monday.

The Gordon supporters believe they have stalled the revisions indefinitely and may have buried them.

But the Sharp supporters insist they must be introduced before the Commons recesses for summer, which could be as early as next Thursday.

At stake is the raising of the present 6 per cent ceiling on bank loans.

Mr. Sharp's new formula reportedly would set a new, higher ceiling on bank loans, but remove the ceiling on large loans.

Mr. Gordon and his supporters believe it is politically disastrous to remove the ceiling and have fought it all along the way.

They appeared to have exhausted their efforts this week, when the Bank Act appeared on the order paper for early action.
